Township Growth Rate To Zoom—Until '75...

... But For 20 Years After That, Things Will Slow Down Quite A Bit

After a period of rapid population growth between now and 1975, the growth rate of Elk Grove Township will slow considerably, according to figures compiled by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission.

The township's 1970 population of 79,642 will jump to 100,000 by 1975, according to the figures, but will increase only another 15,000 in the next 20 years.

Based on coordinated planning of the region, the NIPC figures show a 1985 population of 110,000 for the township and a 1995 population of 115,000. The figures represent a revision of NIPC's 1968 population projections.

NIPC officials said the projected increases in population in the township were based on favorable living conditions in the area. The township's location near transportation lines and industry were cited as reasons for its expected growth.

TOWNSHIP Supervisor William Rohling said that the township had no figures concerning specifically where the growth would occur within the township. He noted that the population of the township is currently estimated at 80,000.

The NIPC figures have been sent to all mayors and all county and municipal planners in the region, with a recommendation that they be used as a base for all future planning.

The new figures show a decline of about 200,000 persons in the over-all population forecast for the Chicago metropolitan area. Present figures forecast a population of 10 million for the Chicago metropolitan area by 1995.

Suburban Cook County will have a population of about 3,150,000 by then, according to present estimates. The county's growth rate will remain fairly constant through 1985, when it will slow somewhat.

According to the NIPC estimates, suburban Cook County's 1970 population of 2,145,412 will increase to 2,395,000 in 1975 and 2,800,000 in 1985.

7 Persons Injured

Accidents Take Lives Of Three

Three Elk Grove Township residents were killed in two separate accidents in DuPage County this weekend.

William Crews, 25, and Mrs. Michael Pabst, 24, both of Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., were killed Sunday in a two-car collision on Rte. 59 near the East-West Tollway. Seven persons were injured.

DuPage County Sheriff's Police said a car driven by Crews and a second car driven by Nancy Lash, 24, of Aurora, collided after Crews' car came off the tollway exit ramp onto Rte. 59.

Injured in the Crews' car were Mrs. Pabst's husband, Michael, 25, treated and released at Edward Hospital in Naperville; Rebecca DuFore, 18, Itasca, in satisfactory condition with internal injuries at Central DuPage Hospital in Winfield; Kathy Luebbers, 25, of 729 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine, in intensive care with internal injuries and fractures at Central DuPage; and Benjamin Seurye, 20, of 3200 Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, in satisfactory condition with a broken pelvis at Hines Veterans Hospital, Maywood.

INJURED IN the Lash car were the driver, Miss Lash, in satisfactory condition with facial and internal injuries; Barbara Simmons, 24, of Naperville in satisfactory condition with a broken arm, and Alice Brown, 22, of Carbondale, in satisfactory condition with a broken leg and arm. All three were taken to Edward Hospital.

Kermit Medlock, 47, of 549 Corinthia Dr., was killed in a head-on collision Saturday on Rte. 64 near Wheaton.

Police said a car driven by Frank Cappuccio, 41, of Chicago, was heading west when it crossed the median strip and collided with Medlock's eastbound auto.

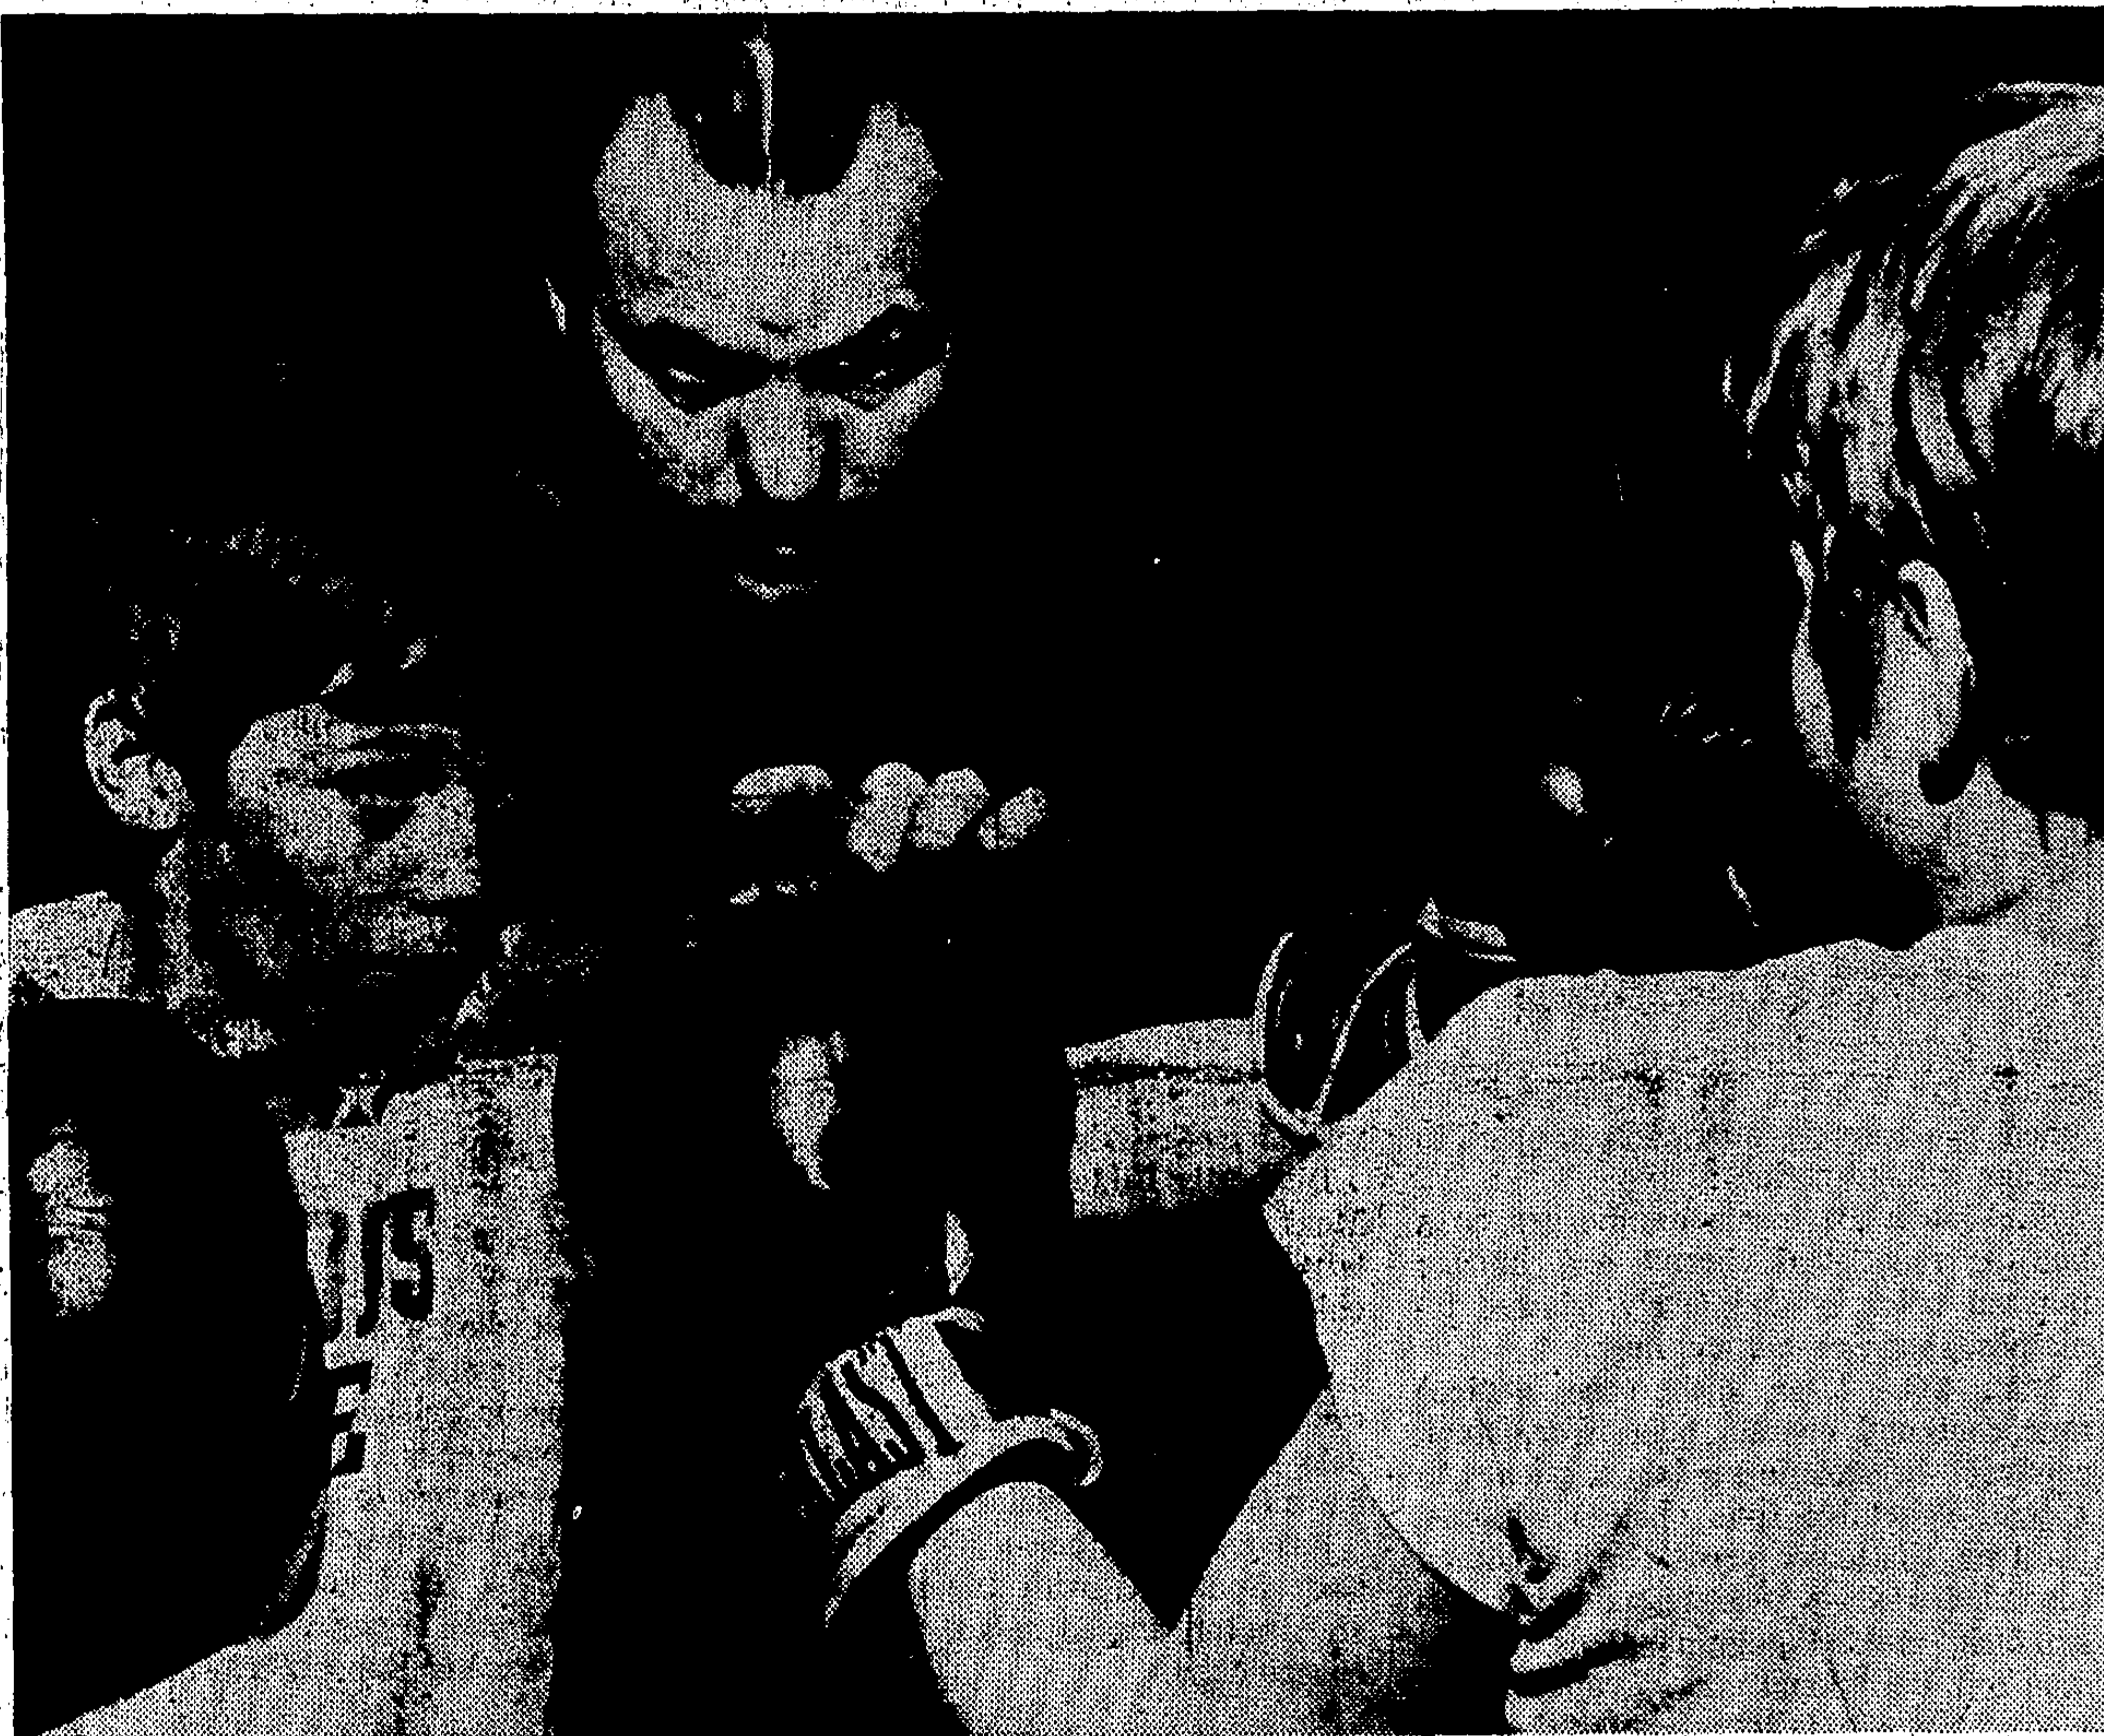

Cappuccio was in serious condition in the intensive care unit with eye injuries and leg lacerations at Central DuPage Hospital. His son, Roy, 13, a passenger in the car, sustained two broken legs and a broken arm. Police said no charges have been filed in connection with the accident.

Health Careers Day Tomorrow At Alexian

The Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village will celebrate National Hospital Week this week by welcoming area high school students to the fifth annual Health Careers Day at the hospital tomorrow. A capacity group of 130 students were registered for the event a full month in advance.

During the all-day session, students will get an overview of anticipated changes in the health care field over the next several years; see a film on health career opportunities; hear speeches by a physician, nurse, social worker and the food service manager, and tour parts of the hospital and participate in a variety of special departmental demonstrations. The students will also be guests of the hospital for lunch.

It has been estimated that there will be more than 1 million job openings in more than 200 health-care careers throughout the country in the next 10 years.

Hiring Of 30 Teachers Gets Board's OK

To meet the demands of increased enrollment during the 1972-73 school year, Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 board of education members Thursday approved hiring 30 additional general classroom teachers.

Action on the employment of a new principal, 25 more teachers for special department use, special education and diagnostic duties, and 32 clerks, aids and janitorial workers was postponed.

Member Gerald Lewin insisted on a two-week delay stating he did not have time to review the recommendations prepared by Ronald Ruble, assistant superintendent in charge of personnel, for additional staffing.

Ruble said the additional personnel for the 1972-73 school year are needed to carry out the present educational programs.

HE ANTICIPATED School Dist. 54 should have 450 more students in grades one to six. The district now has 1,716 kindergarten children moving to first grade next year, and only 1,431 sixth graders moving into junior high school... a difference of 285. The remaining 165 will be made up of new move-ins.

Ruble added class sizes in growth areas will be comparable to those of other schools at the beginning of the year. But he is also asking authorization to hire seven additional teachers at mid-year to meet increased enrollment.

The junior high school enrollment will increase by 223 students when the present 1,431 sixth graders move to seventh grade and 1,208 eighth graders move to high school.

The new principal is needed for the new building.

The employment of a bi-lingual teacher, a new position, is requested to provide service for 17 children that have little command of the English language.

THE DISTRICT has added 15 classrooms in the first to sixth grade level, and four additional special education classes.

Teachers aides, clerk aides, and teacher aides interns to implement the Individually Guided Education program previously approved, account for 12 of the needed staff.

Adjoining School Dist. 15 is still considering staff needs, and the board has not discussed hiring additional personnel.

Houchins Quits Race Against Crane

by BOB LAHEY

Charles W. Houchins of Mount Prospect yesterday informed Democratic leaders of the new 12th Congressional District that he is withdrawing as the candidate attempting to unseat Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Houchins declined to discuss the reasons for his withdrawal, other than to describe them as "complex and personal."

Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman, said he believed Houchins withdrew because of lack of support among the committeemen in the farflung district, which includes 11 townships in two counties.

Chesney, who was instrumental in persuading Houchins to run for Congress, said there were no individuals to blame for the lack of financial and organizational support. "It's a complicated district, and we just haven't got it organized properly yet," Chesney said.

Daniel Pierce, state representative from Highland Park and Democratic state central committeeman for the 12th District, said a replacement will be found to oppose Crane in the November election.

HOUCHINS, 47, an attorney of Borg-Warner Corp., said he had informed Democratic leaders in the district that he will support any qualified candidate whom they pick for the race against Crane.

Pierce said he believed there would be a number of candidates willing to make the race against Crane. He pointed out that, while the results may be misleading, Houchins attracted more than 26,000 votes in the Democratic primary election, while Crane's total in the Republican primary was less than 21,000.

According to statute, a replacement candidate may be named by the Democratic township committeemen in Cook County, the Lake County chairman, and Pierce as state central committeeman.

The 12th District includes Wheeling, Palatine, Barrington, Schaumburg, Hanover and Elk Grove townships in Cook County; and Elia, Vernon, Libertyville, Deerfield and West Deerfield townships in Lake County.

Home Selling Costs Run High, Too

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The need for a cushion against the "extra" costs of home buying is pretty well known. Most families now figure it will cost more than they expect. The family selling a home, however, may not be as well prepared.

The expenses of selling a house may run anywhere from 9 to 21 per cent of appraised valuation; this on top of whatever cost may be involved for cleaning, painting or repairs that may be necessary to put a house into market condition.

"Awareness of how these costs accumulate can help prevent a rude shock when a sale is closed," advises Daniel C. Hanrahan, of Elizabeth, N. J. "Expense fluctuations result from money market conditions, real estate commission rates, how long a property remains unsold and other variables," he said.

Hanrahan founded and heads POTHER, Inc. The firm — its name is an acronym for "purchase of transferred employee real estate" — purchases the owner's equity in his home, enabling him to buy a new one before selling the old. It then markets the property through local real estate brokers.

ENUMERATING POSSIBLE selling costs, Hanrahan pointed out that commissions paid to real estate brokers 6 or 7 per cent depending on locality represent only a portion of the costs of selling a home. Many mortgages call for an early payoff penalty. This charge, a percentage of the unpaid balance, can be as high as 1 per cent of appraised valuation. Legal, survey, recording and similar fees total from 1 to 2 per cent of sale price, he said.

Depending on conditions in the money market, a seller can be charged a mortgage placement fee, to enable his buyer to arrange new financing. Usually referred to as "discount points" — assessed as a percentage of the loan being sought — this fee can equal as much as 5 per cent of the selling price, Hanrahan said.

"These expenses, which are included in the closing statement for transfer of a piece of real estate, total from 7 to 15 per cent of a home's selling price," Hanrahan said. "But what many sellers fail to take into account are the just-as-real selling expenses incurred prior to a closing."

He estimated these expenses on a typical transferee's home — a $30,000 house with a mortgage balance of $20,000. The same would hold true for a family buying a new home locally into which it moved before selling the old home.

"Assuming the residence is vacant, monthly expenses until a sale is closed will include: mortgage interest, $100; real estate tax, $60; utilities, $10, and maintenance, $10. These total $180, or 6-10th of 1 per cent of the $30,000 valuation.

"IN ADDITION the $10,000 equity tied up in the home while it is on the market must be taken into account. Whether an owner borrows a like amount to purchase a new home or simply is denied the use of his capital until a sale is concluded, he should consider interest on the $10,000 as a cost of sale. At 6 per cent, this amounts to $50 a month.

"Money spent traveling to the vacant residence for maintenance or to negotiate a sale, plus supervisory time, also should be charged against the sale. Arbitrarily, this can be set at $50 a month for the transferee.

"These two $50 items, added to other non-closing statement expenses," Hanrahan said, "increase what can be described as 'carrying charges' to 1 per cent of the selling price, for every month the property is held on the market."

In attempting to predict actual costs, Hanrahan said a seller should assume that from two to six months will elapse between listing and title transfer to a buyer. "A prudent cost projection should anticipate six months," he said. "Any shorter period will be to the seller's benefit — at the rate of 1 per cent of the selling price per month."

Summarizing selling costs, Hanrahan said, real estate sales commission will range from a low of 6 per cent to a high of 7 per cent; mortgage placement fee points from nothing to 5 per cent; mortgage pre-payment penalty from nothing to 1 per cent; legal, survey, record fees, etc., from 1 to 2 per cent; carrying charges from 2 to 6 per cent, for a total of 9 to 21 per cent.

Generally, he said, costs will fall somewhere in between, with any expenses for putting the house into condition to sell added to this.

"It costs money to cash in an investment in a residence," Hanrahan said. "Sellers who realistically estimate expected expenses will avoid the shock of smaller-than-expected proceeds from the sale of a house."

Union Vote Ends 9-Week Strike At Honeywell

by DOUG RAY

The United Electrical Union Local 1114 has ended its nine-week strike at the Honeywell Inc. plant in Arlington Heights and union workers are scheduled to be back on the job at 7:30 a.m. this morning.

The union membership Sunday voted 4-1 to end the strike and accept a new two-year contract. The contract "contains substantial improvements," according to Michael Karpa, union business manager.

The 550-member union that makes up about half of the total work force at Honeywell, 1500 W. Dundee Rd., walked off the job March 6 after rejecting the company's contract offer, citing "inadequate fringe benefits."

Karpa said the union voted to end the boycott because of a combination of improved benefits and the length of the strike. "They had to decide how long they want to stay out to get more," he added.

THE STRIKE and subsequent negotiations brought several new benefits in the contract, Karpa said, including full-time vacation pay for veterans, changes in overtime pay provisions, maternity leaves and retirement.

Honeywell spokesman Tony Bartolini said the company made some changes in the contract proposal but would not be specific.

He said the 500 temporary workers, hired to replace strikers, will be released today. Many of the temporary employees are students and housewives.

During the nine-week strike, many of the workers secured other jobs, but Karpa said almost all of the union membership will be back on the job today.

A federal mediator entered negotiations between union and management nearly two months ago, and a dozen conciliation meetings were held before an agreement was reached.

A few incidents were reported to police as the strike progressed and at least two picketers were arrested.

KARPA said the union is unhappy over "the role of the state and the community" in the strike, referring to no-parking signs installed along a frontage road, allegedly to prohibit strikers from parking their cars there, and also alleged outside pressures from police.

Police and the village have denied any such pressures.

Production at the plant reached as high as 80 per cent of normal, management reported, during the latter days of the strike. Production was possible through the temporary workers and salaried workers who performed manufacturing jobs.

Independent trucks delivered Honeywell goods during the strike, but union truckers observed the picket lines and refused to enter the plant, union officials reported.

Honeywell's last strike was in 1961 at its Morton Grove plant, where the factory facilities were located before moving to Arlington Heights last year.

All of the company's commercial operations were consolidated at the Arlington Heights plant. The firm here produces temperature controls, building automation systems and fire and security detectors for commercial buildings throughout the United States.

Housing Commission's Role To Be Discussed

Following tonight's regular 8 p.m. Elk Grove Village board meeting, the board will meet with members of the village housing commission to discuss the future work of the commission.

The meeting was requested by commission members after Village Pres. Charles Zettek sent them a letter stating the board's position on low and moderate-income housing.

The letter stated that the village board "is not sympathetic to low-income housing" and asked the commission to contact other similar bodies in the Northwest suburban area to prepare a joint recommendation on the housing problem.

Commission chairman Neil Cooney requested the meeting with the board during the commission's only meeting held since receiving the letter. In requesting the meeting, Cooney noted that the letter "specifically spells out a new charge to the commission."

He suggested a meeting with the board to discuss the board's recommendations "to be absolutely sure there is nothing written in between the lines that we don't understand."

School Panel Chairmen Appointed By Mrs. Hart

Dianne Hart, Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 Board of Education president, appointed the following board members as chairmen of committees.

Sherwood Spatz will chair the education committee. Its purpose is to provide a forum for in-depth discussion of the district's educational goals.

Adam Jelen was appointed by Mrs. Hart to chair a subcommittee to the education committee, the unification committee. He declined the chairmanship. Spatz will start work on this subcommittee too. Its goal is to evaluate what the educational, financial, and legal aspects are in forming a unit district in Schaumburg Township.

Mrs. Hart reactivated the policy committee and appointed Arlene Czajkowski chairman. Its goal is to revise and update the board of education policy manual.

Gordon Thoren will chair the buildings and sites committee with Donnie Rudd, assistant chairman and Spatz appointed as a member. The goal of this committee is to complete development and implementation of the district's master plan.

Administrative committee chairman is Gerald Lewin with Jelen as a member. This committee's goal is the evaluation of short- and long-term administrative needs and to make recommendations regarding these needs as they relate to the budget.

Legislative committee chairman is Ridd. Mrs. Czajkowski is also a member. The goal of this committee is to determine legislative needs of the district. Its purpose is to work to implement such legislation through contact and cooperation with other boards of education, the Illinois Association of School Boards and other elected officials.

Driver, 24, Caught With Pockets Full

A faulty muffler caused a lot of problems for a Glen Ellyn man Friday in Elk Grove Village.

Originally stopped for driving with a faulty muffler, the man was later arrested on charges of possession of marijuana and unlawful use of firearms.

Village Patrolman Richard Rusch stopped the man, Robert L. Gosch, 24, Friday at Wildwood and Landmeier roads to check the car's muffler. Rusch reported he found a plastic bag of what he believed to be marijuana in Gosch's coat pocket and placed him under arrest.

Rusch reported he found a loaded .45 caliber gun in another pocket, six syringes and needles in another and a barber's razor and knife in another.

Gosch was released on $10,000 bond.

James Guthrie Resigns Mental Health Bd. Post

James Guthrie, an attorney and Schaumburg village trustee, has resigned from the Schaumburg Township Mental Health Board.

Citing his growing legal practice plus time-consuming responsibilities as a village trustee, Guthrie said he doesn't feel he can "do full justice to the board."

"I do consider the board one of the most important in the area," he added. Guthrie characterized mental health as a critical problem in Schaumburg Township, mostly because of the booming population.

The township mental health board serves as an advisory body to the Schaumburg Township Board of Auditors. The board consists of seven members, all appointed by the auditors.

Vernon Laubenstein, township supervisor, said he plans on replacing Guthrie by the next town board meeting May 24.

"I have several candidates in mind that would fill the bill and would be a credit to the board," Laubenstein said. He added that he will be making "overtures" to these people during the next weeks.

Laubenstein added he is disappointed in losing Guthrie. "The board will miss his analytical mind and legal expertise," he said.

Police Pay Talks End In Hoffman

by STEVE BROWN

Negotiations between Hoffman Estates village officials and police over salary and fringe benefit increases have completely broken down after eight weeks of meetings, according to representatives of the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) in the department.

Reportedly, village officials have said they do not care if the police are the lowest paid in the Northwest suburban area.

The details of the bargaining breakdown were learned Sunday. FOP representatives said the village has offered only a 3.3 per cent and additional hospitalization benefits.

The FOP was recognized in 1969 as the official negotiators for the police officers.

FOP REPRESENTATIVES stressed that their main reason for making the negotiations breakdown public was to influence village trustees to reopen talks. Details of the negotiations had been secret.

"There will be no strike, threats of work stoppages, blue flu or anything like that," one of the representatives emphasized.

The representatives said it appears village officials would like to end the working agreement with the FOP. They speculate that in the future salaries and fringe benefits would be submitted by the village manager and approved by the board without any discussions with the police.

Mayor Frederick Downey declined to comment on whether the village intends to drop the FOP out of the police salary picture.

HE SAID the police salary issue was on the agenda for last night's village board meeting, but declined to speculate on what action the board might take.

He said a letter was sent to the police outlining what the board intended to do.

FOP representatives said they have asked for a 5.5 per cent salary increase, longevity pay and increased hospitalization and disability benefits.

They said the initial request, which has been reduced substantially, is less than requests made in previous years.

THE VILLAGE'S final offer included a $400 salary increase for officers with three years service. The FOP cut their request to $360. Officers with less than 3 years would get smaller increases. Starting pay would increase from $9,400 to $9,600.

The FOP spokesmen said many of the officers have less than three years service. They added that the increased medical benefits would cover the families of married officers and that unmarried officers would get even less from the new salary scale. Seven of the department's 32 men are unmarried.

FOP representatives said their last offer to the village was called "a lot of crap" by Downey.

The men said the village has never attempted to explain why the village could not meet the salary requests. They said morale on the department was low and that several officers have left in the past year because of low salaries.

A SURVEY, compiled by the Schaumburg Police Department last year, revealed the Hoffman Estates police ranked among the lowest paid for villages of similar population in this area.

The increase proposed by the village would not raise them from that position.

"We want to negotiate, we don't want to be hard nose on the issue," one FOP representative said.

"We just want to be recognized as human beings, we don't want to be pushed around," another added.

THE FOP is a civic organization according to the spokesmen. The group sponsors a Little League team, provides speakers for other groups in the village and is involved in a number of other projects.

The group each year functions in a labor relations role to negotiate salaries with the village. The FOP is affiliated with a national organization, but the body is not a union.

Center Collects $4,260 From Hike

Money is expected to come in for as long as nine months, but the Northwest Opportunity Center has already collected $4,260 pledged by contributors who sponsored marchers in the area-wide "Hike for Your Neighbor" two weeks ago.

Center Dir. Karen Stanley said collections are up about $2,000 over last year at this time. Last year's hike raised about $17,500, and the money "dribbled in" for nine months, Miss Stanley said.

There is still no accurate estimate of how much money will be raised for the center by the approximately 1,000 hikers who took part in the 20-mile walk from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows April 23.

The money already collected this year surpasses the total that the center realized from last year's hike. The $17,500 raised last year was divided among four agencies that shared in the proceeds under the auspices of the Walther League, an organization of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod.

THIS YEAR, the opportunity center sponsored the hike independent of the Walther League and its satellite agencies and all the money raised will fund center programs.

Mrs. Rena Trevor, hike chairman and treasurer of the center's board of directors, speculated two weeks ago that the march might raise as much as $20,000.

Although only about half the anticipated number of people marched, she said the pledge levels are higher this year and more money should be raised.

The "Hike for Your Neighbor" is the main local fund raising project of the center. In order to meet a $93,000 budget the center has to raise approximately $35,000 locally to supplement $59,000 from the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity.

Some local funds have been contributed by area municipalities on a per capita basis. That is, towns have contributed money based on the number of people that the opportunity center served last year in a particular town.

ORIGINALLY, the goal was to raise $25,000 in village contributions, but several towns have refused to participate: Only Arlington Heights ($3,100) and Hoffman Estates ($715) have appropriated money for the center. Palatine's village trustees established a fund to which about $400 has been contributed so far.

Buffalo Grove, Barrington, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows so far have refused to participate in funding the center.

In addition to the hike money and the village contributions, funds for the center come from churches and service organi-

Find Firemen Innocent Of Sex Charges

Two volunteer Buffalo Grove firemen, Richard J. Wilhelm and James Donovan, were found innocent last Wednesday in circuit court on charges of impersonating police officers and contributing to the sexual delinquency of a minor.

The two were charged by Wheeling police on Sept. 4, 1971 after an alleged incident involving a 17-year-old girl who worked in Wheeling.

Wilhelm and Donovan contended from the time police filed the charges that they were innocent.

The two men have been reinstated to the Buffalo Grove Fire Department.

"We are glad to have them back and glad this thing was cleared up," said Chief Wayne Winter. "They were put back on the force as soon as we found out about the verdict."

Donovan and Wilhelm had been on the department for 2 and 1½ years respectively, before the charges were filed.

Teen Musical To Be Offered At Churches

"Tell It Like It Is," a 60-minute folk musical, will be performed later this month at several area churches. The show was organized, directed and produced by a group of local teenagers.

The idea originated with a Prospect High School student Nancy Floros during a high school lunchtime conversation with several other students. The girls encouraged classmates to join the production and today the group numbers about 45.

According to a spokesman for the group, the show is "God: who He is; how He reveals himself; what He is like; and some of the problems we are confronted with when we believe in Him." The show was written and composed by Ralph Carmichael and Kurt Kaiser.

The list of performances follows:

— May 14: 9:30 a.m. South Community Baptist Church, Mount Prospect; 3 p.m. Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, Arlington Heights.

— May 21: 5:30 p.m. St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect; 8 p.m., St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect.

— May 22: 7:30 p.m. St. Raymond Catholic Church, Mount Prospect.

Freewill offerings will be taken at each performance to help pay for the cost of music and royalties. A spokesman said other organizations can request the play for their group. Arrangements can be made by calling Ann Carpenter, 394-2321.

IN THE DAYS when Inverness was working farmland, this home belonged to a "hired hand." The original home, more than 100 years old, was constructed with square nails. A cozy home with a deep bay window, opening it to all outdoors, the farm house will be one of four Inverness homes on tour Thursday, May 18.

GREEN THUMBERS will turn green all over with envy when they visit this greenhouse which is a part of one of the homes on a tour to be held May 18 in Inverness. Besides the home tour, the day will include a flower show and antique show and sale, co-sponsored by Inverness women's organizations.

Flowers, Antiques, Home Tour Salute Spring In Inverness

A standard flower show, an antique show and sale and a tour of four Inverness homes will all be rolled into one Thursday, May 18, when members of Inverness Women's organizations jointly stage a salute to spring.

Arts 'n Flowers, sponsored by the Garden Club of Inverness, will include a tour of four Inverness homes from noon until 5 p.m. in the Inverness Community House and also in the Owen Doss garden where specimen plants will be labeled.

The antique show and sale of collectibles and comestibles will be held at the Four Silos from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The sale is sponsored by the three Inverness Quester chapters: Clarinda Cady, Four Silos and Olde Salem.

The tour of homes, sponsored by the Woman's Club of Inverness, will include a Capt Cod, a Country French, a farm house and an Early Georgian. The homes will be open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

THE FLOWER show will include arrangements representing the style of six artists from Renoir to Warhol and a horticulture division with entries from the homes and gardens of club members as well as other Inverness residents. Children's efforts will be displayed in junior artistic and horticulture divisions, and an educational division will feature exhibits on recycling and leaf burning, propagation, color relationships and garden books and publications.

Clarinda Cady Questers will sponsor the antiques and collectibles; Olde Salem, ceramics, needlework and other crafts; Four Silos, home-baked goods, pickles, preserves and old-time recipes.

At the Cape Cod home visitors will see orchids, bougainvillea, hibiscus and a 50-year-old grapefruit tree that touches the ceiling of the greenhouse. A crewel-embroidered chair, a large aquarium with brilliant fish, a framed collection of shells, and restored antiques are other features of the home which because of its decor in soft shades of green, gold and blue is referred to as "The Renoir House" by committee members. A complimentary flower arrangement in the Cape Cod will be by Nelson's Bo-Kay Shoppe, Palatine.

SET AMONG lofty oaks and hickories and shaded by arching branches, site and home of the Country French could be from a landscape by Corot. Many large windows, and earth tones of bittersweet, avocado and lemon blend the outdoors and indoors into one.

Entering through a courtyard, visitors step into a two-story entrance hall. The home is furnished with Country French and Mediterranean pieces, and the complimentary flower arrangement will be by Bernice's Trout Valley Greenhouse, Cary.

The farm home once belonged to a "hired hand" in the days when Inverness was working farmland. The original portion of the house was built more than 100 years ago with square nails used in construction.

Two wings and a garage have been added, but the staircase and living room fireplace are the originals. In the spirit of the show, this home with its rural beauty, nostalgia and use of family antiques, is called "The Wyeth House." Plagge's Flowers, Barrington, will do the complimentary arrangement.

THE USE of brilliant color with recurring bird and flower motifs earns for the Early Georgian the title of "The Gauguin house." A decorator's dream, visitors will feel they have slipped into a page of House Beautiful.

Although new, the home features beautifully detailed woodwork and ceilings, unusual workmanship for today. This home also has a two-story entrance hall and a graceful, curved staircase. Foil paper with yellow birds and flowers are cheerful on the gloomiest day; colors are sunny yellow-gold accented with greens and blues. The arrangement will be by Village Green, Barrington.

LUNCHEON BY reservation only, will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Inverness golf club where flower arrangements will be by Kinsch Village Florist, Palatine; Haberkamp's, Mount Prospect; and Amling's, Rolling Meadows.

Luncheon reservations may be made by calling 358-2340, and tickets for the flower show, tour and antique show are available by calling 358-9092.

Flower show chairman is Mrs. Robert Jeck; tour chairman is Mrs. William List. Mrs. C. G. Fosket is chairman of Clarinda Cady Questers; Mrs. Dan Thomson, Four Silos; Mrs. J. H. Spottswood, Olde Salem.

Dear Dorothy: Is there a certain technique involved in making individual meringues so that they come off the pan without breaking apart?

—Alma Gardner

Line the pan with baking paper or aluminum foil, and when the meringues are done it's easy to pick up the paper or foil and peel off the meringues.

There's nothing like giving advice and then forgetting to follow it yourself. Having guests in for dinner, I decided to use the credenza as the bar. Without giving it a second thought, I put a plastic bridge cloth on the server, then added trays of glasses and bottles. Cleaning up the next day, I was struck dumb by the mark on the wood. Had always wanted to try the mayonnaise bit, so rubbed it on generously and left it until the next day. On wiping it off, found the top looked fine. Fortunately, there was enough polish on the wood for this treatment to work. But what a stupid thing to do!

Dear Dorothy: Here's a pack rat trick

you might try. When a bar of soap gets thin, I soap it and wrap tightly in a wet washcloth with another bar of soap and press together. This can go on and on — as you can press two or three thin pieces together.

—Mrs. A.F.R.

Dear Dorothy: I know you're going to find this hard to believe, but when you turn my ingenious husband loose with a safety pin, all manner of wonders happen. Driving into the country, the fan belt of the car suddenly went pfft. Jim stopped the car, took a look, stroked his chin and asked if I had a safety pin. I did and he did some tricky splicing. Not only did it work, but — and this is the clincher — it was still holding when we traded in the car!

Wheeling Township GOP Hears Carey

Wheeling Township Republicans began getting down to the nuts and bolts of the campaign to elect their Cook County candidates last week.

On successive days, the Wheeling Township organization gathered to hear "the head of the ticket," state's attorney candidate Bernard Carey, and then rounded up most of the remaining candidates for a luncheon get-together with suburban press representatives.

Carey was the featured speaker at the regular meeting of the township organization on Wednesday night, when about 60 members heard him exhort Democratic incumbent Edward V. Hanrahan.

The following day, Township Committee member Richard A. Cowen hosted a luncheon for reporters and candidates, which featured Robert Sklodowski, candidate for clerk of the Circuit Court; Mrs. Lucy Reum, candidate for county recorder of deeds; Donald Mulack, candidate for coronor; and three candidates for the Metropolitan Sanitary District Board of Trustees, incumbent Abe Elserman, Mrs. Joan Anderson and Robert C. Power. Mrs. Reum also appeared at the organization meeting with Carey.

TALKING TO reporters before the organization meeting, Carey declared that Hanrahan has "substituted a big mouth for prosecution" in his capacity as state's attorney.

Carey accused Hanrahan of a "double standard of justice," pressing indictments against scores of citizens while maintaining that his own indictment for obstruction of justice is "invalid."

Carey, a former FBI agent, declared that Hanrahan should have taken a leave of absence from the prosecutor's office the day he was indicted on charges of misrepresenting circumstances surrounding the notorious "Black Panther Raid" which resulted in the deaths of two men.

He pointed out that the day Hanrahan was indicted, the state's attorney withdrew all charges against what he termed "the survivors of the raid." "If he believed them to be guilty," Carey asked, "why did he withdraw the charges? If he believed them to be innocent, why did he secure indictments against them in the first place?"

Bernard Carey

CAREY ALSO scored Hanrahan for his frequent outcries against the courts and the press for lack of convictions and for inadequate public attention to those convictions secured by the prosecutor.

Carey declared that many of the problems of which Hanrahan complains are the fault of his own administration of the state's attorney's office. "Many of the continuances of which Hanrahan complaints are the fault of his office," Carey declared. "It should be the first duty of the state's attorney to make sure that his assistants are prepared and to insist on going to trial when possible."

Carey said Hanrahan's record as state's attorney has been characterized by "bungling and ineptitude," and charged him with "headline hunting" in the Black Panther raid and other cases.

In one of his first suburban appearances in his campaign for county coronor, Mulack told reporters his first priority would be to abolish the office for which he is running.

The Chicago attorney disclosed that he is seeking to place a question on the ballot in the November election asking if voters would prefer to have the functions of the coronor's office taken over by a medical examiner's office.

MULACK POINTED out that the coronor has two functions: to determine a medical cause and a legal cause for suspicious deaths. However, he pointed out that the verdict of the coronor's jury on legal cause is a "controllable verdict" which has no legal standing.

As such, Mulack said, it is often used "to create a public image and to placate the public" in controversial cases.

Mrs. Reum described the office of recorder as "the epitome of invisibility" in the Democratically controlled county administration. She declared it is used as a "personal retirement system" for patronage workers, filled with waste and conflicts of interest.

While receiving little attention from voters, she said, the office annually collects more than $1.5 million in taxes, much of it in cash.

Speaking for the three candidates for the sanitary district board, Mrs. Anderson declared that that board is the "top-most local governmental unit which is going to lead the way, good or bad, for the ecology" of Lake Michigan.

She also pointed out that unless she and the other two GOP candidates are elected, all nine members of the board will be Democrats.

800 Dems Gather To Hear Pep Talks

An estimated 800 Democrats gathered Friday for the annual dinner dance of the Wheeling Township Democratic Organization to hear pep talks from most of the party's state and local election candidates.

The guest list at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel ranged from Congressman Roman C. Pucinski, candidate for the U.S. Senate, and gubernatorial candidate Daniel Walker to legislative candidates from the three districts included in Wheeling Township.

The local legislative candidates contented themselves with introductions from the dais, with the exception of the township's two "hometown" candidates, Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman and Arlington Heights Atty. Donald L. Norman, candidate for the state Senate. Norman received the closest thing to a standing ovation from the audience, following high praise from Township Committeeman James L. McCabe for his long years of service to the Wheeling organization.

The headliner of the meeting was Walker, but he deferred to Pucinski as the primary candidate of the Democrats, declaring himself "proud to be on a ticket including the kind of men who are my running mates." Walker made no reference to Edward V. Hanrahan, candidate for state's attorney, whom he has said he would not support, and one of the few Democratic candidates not present.

WALKER MADE extensive reference to the man he defeated for the Democratic nomination for governor, Lt. Gov. Paul Simon. He told the township Democrats that Simon had promised him active support in his campaign in a recent meeting, and added he would seek Simon's advice during his tenure as governor, if elected.

"I will need Paul Simon in Springfield," Walker declared. "I will offer him a substantial role in government." (Simon later told the Herald he would campaign for Walker and would offer his services as a consultant if Walker is elected, but said it was "unlikely" he would accept a position in the Walker administration.)

Walker's appearance at the organization dinner dance appeared to be part of a transition from the primary campaign, in which he shunned organization functions, to a stance of cooperation with local Democratic machineries.

In his introduction of Walker, McCabe said, "I would plead guilty to the charge that perhaps this party has not opened the doors. But we have a candidate who has come knocking on those doors, and who has promised to open them."

He termed Walker "an excellent candidate, who has demonstrated he is the choice of the people."

Most of the other candidates made pleas for support of Walker, a major part of their remarks.

MANY OF THEM also acknowledged they had supported Walker's opponent in the primary. Included in that declaration were Pucinski, state auditor Michael G. Howlett, candidate for secretary of state, Mrs. Chapman and Norman.

With Walker newly arrived at the speaker's table, Howlett declared Simon "would have made a great governor."

He added, "But the primary is over. I have disagreed with him in the past, in fact in the last few weeks... but against the Ogilvie administration, I am in complete agreement with Dan Walker, and I will support him in all corners of Illinois."

Pucinski, who is generally conceded to have the toughest assignment of all the major candidates on the Democratic ticket, told the audience he took on the difficult task of opposing Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy because of a Gallup poll, "which showed that 37 per cent of the American people no longer have confidence in their government."

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

The first "do" for Blackwood users is: "Do use Blackwood any time you want to know exactly how many aces your partner holds and intend to bid six if the number he shows, added to those you are looking at, equals three."

The first "don't" is: "Don't use Blackwood if you won't know if you should bid six when his answer shows that your side has three aces."

This means you definitely should not use Blackwood when your hand includes two quick losers (usually a worthless doubleton) in an unbid suit or when you are void of a suit.

How do you handle the slam invitation when you have one of these worthless doubletons?

The way North bid today. North is certainly slam-minded the moment his partner opens the bidding. He decides to take things easy and merely responds two diamonds. South rebids two spades and North continues his quiet procedure with a three-club call.

South jumps to four spades and North's first impulse is to use Blackwood and go to seven after his partner shows two aces. North restrains himself and simply raises to five spades.

This gives the clear message that North can't handle either of the first two

State Junior Miss Competes Tonight

Illinois Junior Miss, Barbara Jean Gorgol, will be appearing on national television tonight as she competes to be named the nation's outstanding high school senior girl. She is the daughter of the George F. Gorgols of Des Plaines.

Fifty coeds, representing every state, are vying for the title of America's Junior Miss of 1972, an honor accompanied by a $10,000 college scholarship.

Arlene Stens of Woodlynne, N.J., America's Junior Miss of 1971, will crown her successor at the climax of the pageant in Mobile, Ala. The program is being telecast on NBC beginning at 7:30 p.m. Master of ceremonies for the evening is Ed McMahon.

Last fall Miss Gorgol was named as one of two Paddock Publications' Junior Misses in the locally sponsored pageant. She received a $500 scholarship and a chance to enter the Illinois Pageant held in Berwyn, the end of December. The Maine East High School senior walked off with the state title and a savings bond of $1,000.

USING THE WORDS, "The world and I have seen each other and we are in love," Illinois' Junior Miss explains being the daughter of an Air Force man gave her untold opportunities to compare each new duty station and its circumstances with previous experiences, making adjustments and seeking the best from each.

On local, state and national competition levels, the contestants are judged on poise, physical fitness and talent. To even be eligible to enter, girls have to have grades of a B average or better.

As her talent, Barb presented an original piano solo. She is planning to major in music next fall at De Paul University.

In the second night of preliminary competition this weekend, Barb received a national scholastic achievement award of $1,000.

ILLINOIS' JUNIOR Miss Barbara Jean Gorgol of Des Plaines, poses before the historic battleship U.S.S. Alabama with Pam Fraiser, Miss

U.S.S. Alabama. Finals of the 15th annual America's Junior Miss Pageant are being televised tonight.

MONEY TALKS

Financial Compatibility Is Vital to Happy Marriage

By Donald F. Morton, President
Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Assn.

Would you be surprised to learn that only one of every fifteen couples who seek the aid of counselors is a victim of insufficient income?

This is the disturbing information announced by the Family Service Association of America. It reports that while half of all the families appealing for help are having severe problems with money, only slightly more than six per cent are really in unusual financial need.

What then is the cause of their problems? The Family Service agencies cite two: 1) immature or unrealistic attitudes about money or 2) emotional use of money as a weapon or as compensation for personal inadequacies.

Each person brings to marriage his own concept of money and habits of handling it that go back to childhood. The boy may have come from a large family of modest income, with an early experience of work and frugality. He valued the money he earned for its contribution to the family's support and for satisfying his future needs, possibly a college education.

The girl, on the other hand, may have come from a small family with comfortable means, no sense of the relationship of money to the attainment of goals. Practically anything she wanted was provided by her parents. Though she may have worked summers and after college, the money she made was considered her own. There was nothing in her background to suggest she should save any of it, so she spent it as her impulses dictated.

It stands to reason that such a couple would encounter problems in arriving at agreement on a style of living and on the mechanics of handling the money they earn.

Often the situation is reversed, the girl being more mature about money, the boy casual and easy-going.

When the rapport between the couples is not otherwise harmonious, money is often used as a weapon to inflict hurt upon the partner. The wife, in a fit of jealousy over imagined or real attentions paid by the husband to another woman, will go on a buying spree — to soothe her wounded ego or to hit a penurious husband where he hurts most, in his pocketbook. A man may withhold money from his wife because of her indifference to their sexual relations.

Compatibility between a man and a woman includes the vast spectrum of events and activities that touch upon their lives — sports, music, cultural interests, amusements, mode of living. Nowhere is the compatibility more crucial than in the area of financial resources. For these are the means by which the couple can fulfill their common aspirations.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Xerox Corp., according to an advertisement I saw recently, has created a new copying machine that uses both sides of the paper.

Unless I am mistaken, this means that the United States is on the brink of an all-out paper war.

If it comes about, here are some of the dispatches you might be reading:

WASHINGTON — Military intelligence has picked up ominous signs that the Xerox Corp. has developed a machine that copies records remotely, the Pentagon reported today.

A spokesman said photographs taken by surveillance satellites flying over Xerox loading docks indicated as many as 50 of the machines already had been created for delivery.

The machine, known as the LDCDD (Long Distance Classified Document Duplicator), is far more sophisticated than anything yet seen in the copying field, the spokesman said.

"Within 14 minutes, just one of those babies operating from outside the building could turn out triplicate copies of our entire file of secret reports on American involvement in the 'Boston Tea Party,'" he warned. "And on both sides of the paper."

"This would make our ALD (anti-leaking defense) obsolete, particularly in the JA (Jack Anderson) sector. It's a whole new ball game now."

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department asked Congress today for funds to construct a giant new paper shredding complex capable of destroying secret memos and other documents before they can be copied and leaked.

Secretary Melvin R. Laird told the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee the $35 billion project, called LDPS (Lead Deterrent and Prevention System), was needed to offset the dread new remote copying machine.

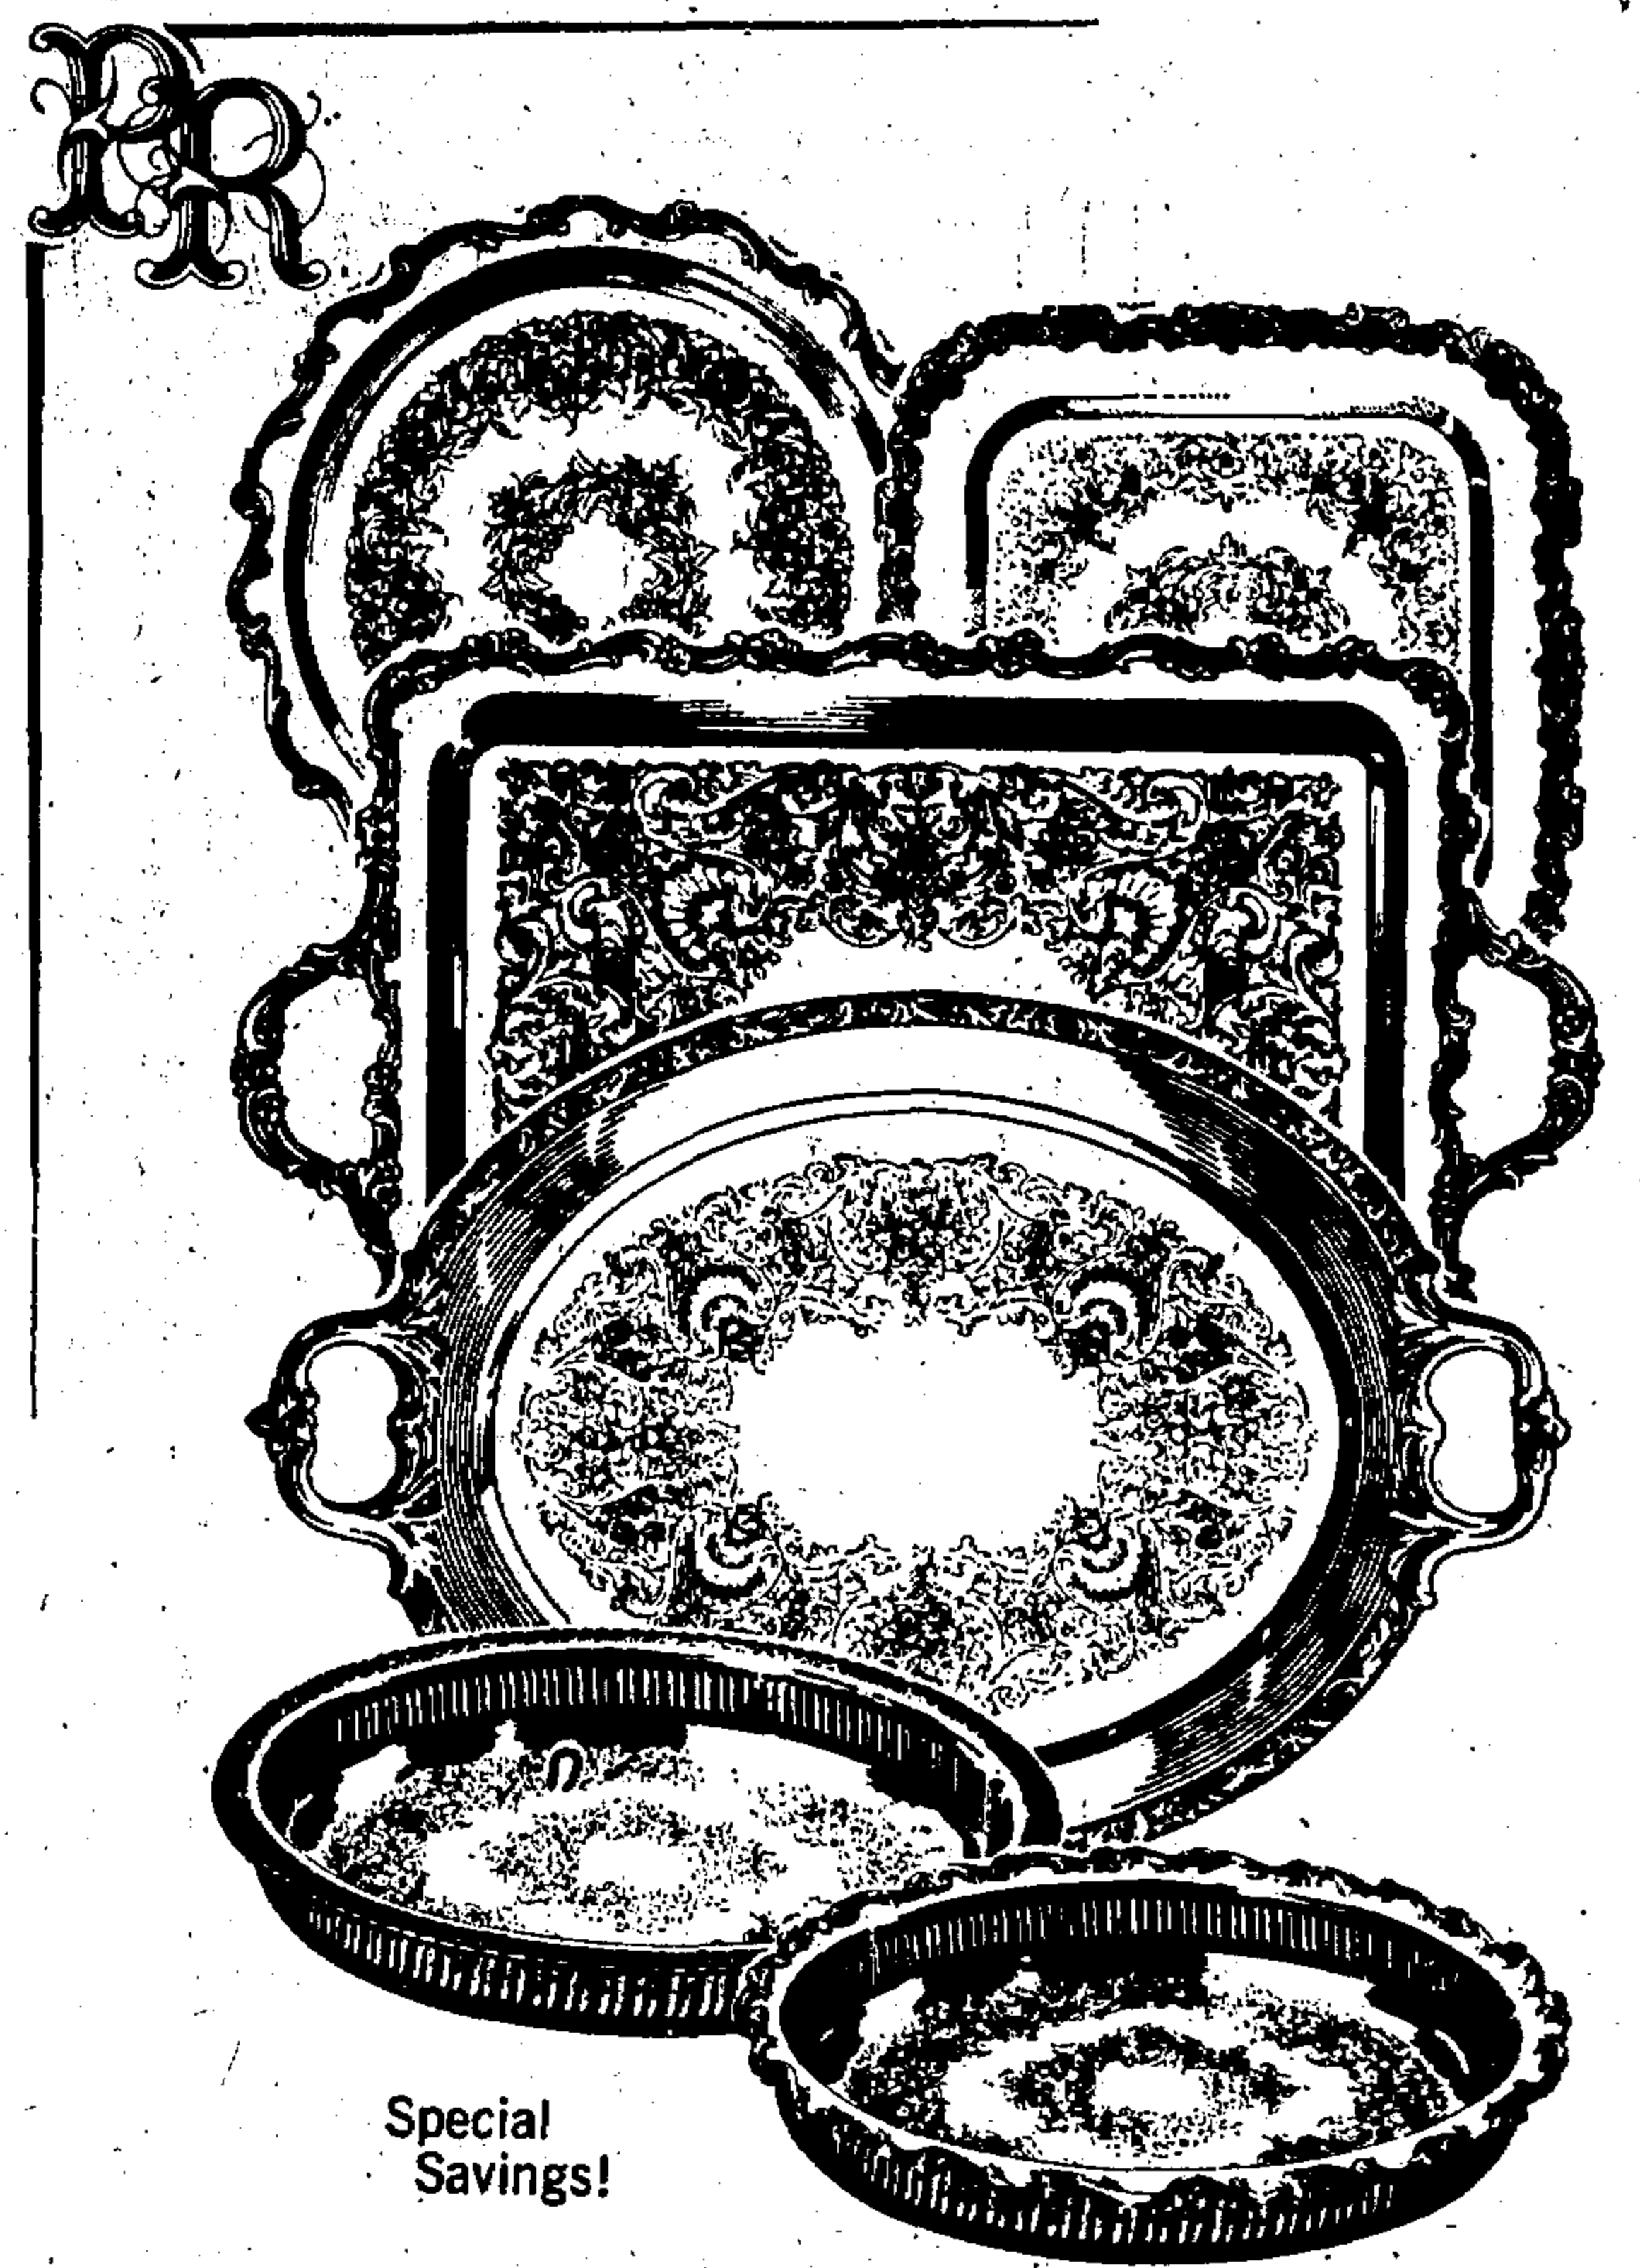

"Once the LDCDD becomes operational, we'll be at the mercy of every two-bit syndicated muckraker in America," Laird said.

But he assured the subcommittee that the prototype LDPS, built by the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT), was capable of shredding documents faster than the LDCDD could reproduce them.

WASHINGTON — a revolutionary new machine that automatically reassembles and copies documents after they have been shredded has been tested at the Xerox proving grounds, defense officials revealed today.

They said the copier would give record leakers a tremendous advantage over record classifiers and render obsolete the costly new shredding complex now nearing completion.

"This means we must . . ."

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What could be the reason for an attack of acute indigestion causing nausea which will wake one from a sound sleep in the middle of the night? All of the discomfort seems to be in the esophagus. I am 45 and have had this problem for years. I have been checked out with x-rays several times and no real cause is found. I am short-waisted. Could this contribute to my problem? Several weeks ago I had an attack of severe chest pain and the doctor put me through all the tests in the hospital. He found nothing except that my stomach hits the diaphragm though did not cause hiatal hernia. What are the main causes of such an attack and treatments? What are the precautions against another attack?

Dear Reader — It is very difficult to know exactly what you had on the little amount of information available. You say that you have had acute acid indigestion with nausea. I presume this means the kind of discomfort you could have if you had a regurgitation of the acid contents of the stomach to the lower part of the esophagus.

While it is true that this commonly occurs as a result of hiatal hernia, it can also occur if a portion of the esophagus extends below the diaphragm. This affects the normal closure of the opening of the stomach and allows regurgitation of acid juices from the stomach into the lower esophagus, which in this case might be below the diaphragm. The lower lining of the esophagus is sensitive to the burning characteristic of acid juice from the stomach. It is possible that this could be associated with being short-waisted.

Regurgitation of the stomach's contents can occur whenever there is any form of disturbance of the normal closure mechanism at the entrance of the stomach.

NOW THERE ARE a lot of other reasons for waking up with indigestion at night, even including a heart attack, but inasmuch as you say you have had this for years and had it investigated several times, recurring attacks of this sort would be less likely to be caused by heart attacks. Spasm of the esophagus can also cause it.

Since you state that these occur at night, and don't refer to them occurring at other times, I would think it may be the reflux problem very similar to hiatal hernia. In that case the best treatment would be essentially the same things recommended for hiatal hernia. That includes small meals and preferably nothing to eat for about two hours before you go to bed. If you continued to have trouble, it would be well to have the head of the bed elevated.

Be careful not to eat anything after a set time in the evening. Don't drink anything to stimulate acid production. You could try these simple measures at first and if you are still having discomfort take some anti-acid tablets before going to bed. You can obtain these without a prescription in any drug store.

Of course, I assume you will stop drinking coffee and avoid cigarettes and alcohol, all of which may add to your complaint.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., Paddock Publications, P. O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

The Ziegler Co., Inc.

WEST BEND, Wis. — The Ziegler Co., Inc., posted record revenues and net income for the three months ended March 31.

The Ziegler Co., a financial services holding company, whose largest subsidiary specializes in capital financing for voluntary hospitals, had revenues of $4,860,000 for the first quarter compared with $4,350,000 for the same period a year ago. Net income for the recent quarter was $1,190,000, equal to 35 cents a share, compared with $1,159,000, or 38 cents a share, for the first quarter of 1971.

The company now has 3,401,483 shares outstanding, compared with 3,030,987 a year ago as a result of the initial public offering of its common stock last December.

Preschool Swim Growing At 'Y'

The preschool swim program at Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy. in Des Plaines, continues to grow.

Forty-one classes from ages 9 months to 5 years are currently being taught with approximately 950 children. Twenty classes with children between 6 and 7 are being conducted with 480 children enrolled.

"It is important that children exercise their muscles and have as much movement education as possible at the earliest age," according to Nicki Doehler, aquatic program director.

Ski and water orientation and learning to enjoy the water can happen at an early age. Coordination of strokes and swimming skill occurs with older preschoolers. The ideal age for teaching children to swim is between 5 and 7, although some children learn to swim effectively earlier.

Panel To Discuss Misdemeanor Cases

The handling of small criminal cases in local courts will be discussed by a panel of experts on the subject at Northwest Suburban Bar Association's (NWSBA) dinner meeting on Wednesday.

Lawrence C. Gabriele, Park Ridge attorney, program chairman of NWSBA, announces that participants in the panel discussion will be Charles Whalen Jr. and Dan Miroballi, the chief states attorneys of Districts 2 and 3; defense trial lawyer Robert L. Sklodowski of McLenon, Sklodowski, Nelson & White, Assoc., Park Ridge.

The program will begin with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. in the Elks Club, Des Plaines, followed by dinner and the panel. Reservations are being taken by NWSBA executive secretary, Judith C. Bush, 253-2562.

Wide, Peaceful Ozarks A Real Breath Of Fresh Air—Especially For Us City Folk

ANGEL'S SHOWER, carved out of the glistening stalactites and stalagmites of Ozark Caverns at Cam-denton, Mo., is just another of the spots that make tourism THE big industry in the Ozarks.

Did You Know?

If fishing's your bag, Oregon has it. The state has 666 square miles of water, 400 miles of coastline, 70 major rivers and hundreds of lakes, ponds, brooks and creeks.

When Charles A. Lindbergh travels he takes as little baggage as possible. Sometimes he "picks" for a trip by dropping a razor, a bar of soap and a toothbrush into a sock which he then crams into a pocket.

Mystic Seaport, in Connecticut, has one of the finest collections of ship figureheads in the United States, and a unique collection of more than 300 individual pieces of scrimshaw, carving done on whale teeth and bone by whalers.

The largest aircraft display of its kind in the world can be seen in the National Army Aviation Museum at Fort Rucker, near Ozark, Ala., which features Army aircraft from early bi-planes to modern helicopters.

One of the most fascinating shows in the world is presented daily at famous Ardastra Gardens in Nassau. The flamingo parade "stars" long-legged flamingos, which make quite a sight as they obey drill instructions from their trainer.

LAKE OF THE OZARKS, Mo. — They really like us "city folks" down here in the Ozarks.

And for "city folks" who are mind-boggled and tension-wracked with all the swarming, scrambling of a fast-paced daily routine, the peace of the Ozarks can't be matched.

The rugged beauty of the area — especially inviting this time of the year — somewhat takes your breath away as you drive through wide spans of peaceful terrain.

Tourism is a big industry in the Ozarks these days — as any Ozarker will tell you. Just ask him what the main crop is and he'll likely answer:

"Tourists!"

NO WONDER. The wealth of recreation possibilities is enormous. For a family vacation spot not too far from home, it's hard to beat.

The Lake of the Ozarks is the largest manmade lake in the U.S., with 1,375 miles of shore.

Fishing is great. And what a variety! Largemouth bass, walleyed pike, white bass, crappie and catfish.

When you get tired of fishing you can take a boat and skim over shimmering emerald waters.

The many arms of Lake of the Ozarks form behind 39-year-old Bagnell Dam, and when the privately financed dam was built, the lake area was cleared — eliminating danger of underwater hazards.

THE SCENIC terrain of the lake offers a constant variety — from ever-changing shoreline with sandy beaches to rock walls rising from the waters. There are nine major marinas available to assist with launching and storage.

Of course there's swimming, water skiing and sunbathing. For even more variety there are seaplane and helicopter flights.

Or, you can go horseback riding. I learned to ride a horse in the Ozarks. Even though I was scared half out of my wits, I'll have to admit it was fun — and there's no better way to enjoy the wild, rugged scenery than on an early-morning trail ride.

I also learned to square dance in the Ozarks — and believe me, you've never really square danced until you've mastered it Ozark style!

JUST WHAT are the Ozarks? Some people say mountains. Some say hills — and some say plateau, dome, or highland.

Whatever they are, they cover a huge hunk of southern Missouri and northern Arkansas.

The area is also one of the few genuine frontier districts left in the country, for the Ozarks still nurture folkways and customs of a hundred years or so ago.

When you go there — and fall in love with it — as we did, you'll agree with them.

Silver Dollar City: A Trip Back To 1880

SILVER DOLLAR CITY, MO. — Mrs. Lyndall Hinkle isn't kidding when she says her work "starts from scratch."

She spins and weaves dog hair into attractive and durable women's ponchos, coats and handbags at this little Ozark crafts colony.

Just 40 miles south of Springfield, biggest city in the Ozarks (pop. 125,000), this recreated village of the 1880s helps to keep alive the old frontier.

Here you'll watch candles being carved into unique shapes from a foot-treadle lathe used a hundred years ago.

Nearby a blacksmith will be making horseshoes or a housewife will be spinning yarn or making old-fashioned lye soap, and millers will be grinding corn meal.

SILVER DOLLAR City is a wide-ranging colony of native Ozark handcraftsmen, who present 21 rare and historic skills in action, ranging from log-cabin construction and gunsmithing to basketweaving and wool spinning.

The nation's last remaining "tintype" photographer operates an 1880-style studio for tourists and a steam train conducts frequent excursions through the rugged, densely wooded countryside.

The colorful settlement of Silver Dollar City overlooks federally controlled Table Rock Lake, a popular resort and camping region.

Silver Dollar City's annual season continues from late April until late October, with special events scheduled in spring and autumn — the "Root Diggin' Days" celebration May 13-14 and May 20-21, and the "National Festival of Craftsman" Sept. 30 through Oct. 15.

CAMPING in the Ozarks brings peace and a change-of-pace from city living that can't be matched. This family found a calm bit of shoreline at Big Spring State Park, near Van Buren, Mo. Lake of the Ozarks is the nation's largest man-made lake, with 1,375 miles of shoreline.

Arkansas' Beaver Lake

It's A 'Lake For All Seasons'

by FAUNE CONNER

BEAVER LAKE, Ark. — Beautifully rugged, bluff-lined Beaver Lake, northwest Arkansas' prime recreational contribution to mid-America, has justly earned the title of "lake for all seasons."

Last year more than 2½ million people came to Beaver to participate in its endless range of recreational activities.

Beaver Lake was formed in 1966, when construction of Beaver Dam was completed nine miles northwest of Eureka Springs. As the churning waters backed down the rugged terrain of the river valley, a deep picturesque lake, nearly 75 miles long, was formed.

In the past five years, the lake and a surrounding 30,000 acres of land have been transformed into a heaven for nature lovers of all ages — campers, fishermen, swimmers, hikers, or just plain sightseers.

For those who like to have nature at their doorstep, 529 well-equipped camping sites are available around the lake.

FOR FISHERMEN, Beaver offers 449 miles of shoreline and fishing in a lake that is scientifically stocked and controlled. Fish varieties are unlimited and include bass, crappie, channel cat, walleye, northern pike, sunfish and bream.

In the crystal clear, cold waters below the Dam, colorful rainbow trout are found.

Seven commercial docks around the lake also provide the fisherman with boats, motors, tackle, bait, food and guide services. Some of the docks have ski rigs, scuba diving gear, cruisers and houseboats for rent. For those who have their own boats, there are 151 launching lanes around the lake.

While well-defined areas are provided for swimmers, summer skiers will enjoy Beaver's warm, clean waters. It's rarely uncomfortably hot around the lake because of gentle breezes that calm the summer's high temperatures.

For those who like hiking, Beaver Lake is a paradise. Several carefully mapped-out nature trails close to the lake take visitors down winding, steep trails into the forest where wildlife is abundant. EXPLORERS ENJOY investigating the many natural caves in the mountainous hillsides and hunters have the chance to nab such game as deer, rabbit, squirrel, quail and wild turkey.

Many visitors to the lake have been so impressed with its beauty they decided to retire there. A number of impressive land developments can be seen around the lake with homes ranging from $100,000 mansions to simple cabins. There are also many fine resorts and restaurants in the park area.

Although Beaver is the ideal isolated place to "get away from it all," it's also close enough to the convenience of cities and sightseeing.

At the top of Beaver Lake is unusual, charming Eureka Springs, nicknamed "Little Switzerland of the Ozarks" because of its twisting, narrow streets and old-fashioned homes stacked on the hillsides. Here is located Beaver Dam, the seven-story Christ of the Ozarks Statue, the biblical Passion Play and numerous little curio shops filled with antiques, art objects and Arkansas handcrafts.

EPHESUS, Turkey — A volatile Moslem Turk helped us recapture some of Christendom's most dramatic moments. "My name is Yilmaz Ozgen . . . but just call me Jim!"

That was our introduction to Turkey as we disembarked at colorful Kusadasi, on the country's west coast.

Thanks to "Jim," one of the most imaginative, informative guides we've ever encountered, we found ourselves whisked back more than 2,000 years — as with histrionics, showmanship, good humor and just the right amount of awe he made archeological wonders of ancient Ephesus spring to life.

With the sun high in a cloudless sky — and air so wind-rinsed our lungs never felt so clean — we walked where the Apostle John wrote his Gospel and is buried — and where Paul preached.

THERE it was — astonishingly well-restored — the theater where Paul spoke to 25,000 screaming Ephesians. I sat there on an ancient marble slab and recalled the way it was written in Chapter 13 of the Book of Acts. The Scripture had never seemed so real!

"Ephesus is the first large city Christianity came to before Rome," said our Turkish guide.

But long before that, pagans worshipped at the magnificent Temple of Artemis, considered one of the seven wonders of the ancient world.

The temple, built for Diana, Roman goddess of hunting and the moon, and completed by Alexander the Great, was four times larger than the Parthenon, according to Jim.

IT'S ALMOST eerie. You stand there by the ruins of this magnificent temple, dug out from under 25 feet of soil and rubble by a British architect-archaeologist, and your feet very nearly tingle because you can virtually swear you feel the thunder of chariots approaching.

Jim helped us imagine how it must have been in the hey-day of this glorious city, when its grandeur rivaled Rome's.

"The gleaming gold statue of Diana was so brilliant it could be seen by ships coming into the harbor 15 miles away!"

And how those ships came. During the most prosperous history of Ephesus the whole world beat a path to the city.

Even Cleopatra came in her golden sailing ship. The streets streamed with red wine poured from 25,000 jars, as a procession of city officials, singers, acrobats, guards resplendent on white horses, priestesses, drummers and sceptre-bearers passed by thousands of cheering Ephesians.

WE STOPPED there on the white marble blocks of that street — surrounded by fragmented palaces, temples and arches — and felt far, far removed from the modern world.

Impressive, too, are the ruins of the Agora (market place), the thermal baths, Hadrian's Temple, the city brothels and gymnasiums.

Walls 10 feet wide and 20 feet high built around Ephesus 2,250 years ago out of hard local stone are still standing. The view is tremendous when you walk along these walls — the plain of Ephesus on the right and the blue waters of the Aegean stretching out before you.

In the distance we could distinguish a square tower.

"That's where Paul was imprisoned," our guide told us.

Glorious as it was, Ephesus finally came to its end — buried with river sludge.

We passed bands of field hands (mostly women) hoeing tobacco and were told that the silt that ruined Ephesus had built the fertile valley where they worked.

EPHESUS, just 20 minutes by car from the port city of Kusadasi, is included on most Greek Island cruises.

Kusadasi has only recently become a popular resort and prices are still fantastically low — around $9 a day for a room with balcony overlooking the Aegean, plus all three meals!

What a place to shop! Fabulous buys in leather, furlined boots, jewelry and brass.

Climate is ideal. And the "Hos geldiniz" (welcome) is wonderful — especially if you're lucky enough to get our guide, Yilmaz Ozgen!

It's been "happy holiday time" for three local area couples recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mitchell, 2 S. Elm St., Mount Prospect, just returned from a seven-day Caribbean cruise aboard the m/s Boheme.

"There's just nothing like a cruise to make you forget all your worries," says Mrs. Fran Mitchell.

The Mitchells stopped to visit the Dominican Republic, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and Haiti on the cruise.

Before boarding the cruiser at Miami, the Mount Prospect couple had spent two weeks in Florida, including the Gulf Coast, Coral Gables and Marco Island.

A TRIP TO MEXICO was the prize won by Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Shuey, of Shuey's Music Education Center, 27 W. Prospect, Mount Prospect.

The vacation was awarded to Conn Organ dealers for outstanding performance during the past year.

"It was great," said Mr. Shuey. "We were flown to Mexico City where we attended the Ballet Folklorico and bullfights — and did a lot of sightseeing."

Later the Shueys flew to Acapulco, where they stayed at the new Acapulco Princess luxury hotel.

RECENT CALIFORNIA vacationers were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murphy, 740 Stuart Ln., Palatine.

They visited San Diego and Disneyland, but report the highlight of their trip was the four hours they spent on the Queen Mary at her berth in the Port of Long Beach.

The stately retired ocean liner which will be made into a hotel next fall — is open for tours of the museum, Jacques Cousteau's Living Sea and upper deck area.

There are 40 specialty shops to browse through, two coffee shops, five banquet rooms, the observation lounge and the elegant Lord Nelson restaurant on the ship, according to Mrs. Murphy.

State Needs Interim Board

Three years from now, the top public educational office in Illinois will go through a Constitutionally induced metamorphosis. Whether the change produces a butterfly or a confused caterpillar is up to the state legislature.

The present state superintendent, Michael Bakalis, cannot be elected to another term. In January, 1975, the new Constitution mandates an appointed state board of education, a body which will appoint a state superintendent.

When the new board steps into office, one of its first jobs will be to appoint a new superintendent. This process, which could take months, will supplement the regular day to day tasks of the office.

With no prior introduction to the duties of the state office, the 13 board members will need to spend their first months in orientation. It is conceivable that the office will be thrown into unproductive chaos before the new board members can adequately carry on the job.

To ease this adjustment, several legislators have proposed the board be established in 1973 so it will be ready to take over by 1975. It would have no official power before Bakalis leaves office.

Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, for example, is sponsoring HB 1903 which calls for an interim board. The bill has passed the House and is now being studied by the Senate Education Committee.

Putting the board in the state office to learn the ropes before it takes over is a practical solution to the problem. By studying the office operation, the board can gain expertise and be in a position to make knowledgeable decisions.

In addition, the board can get a head start on looking for a new superintendent, and it can evaluate long range projects begun by Bakalis.

It would be foolhardy to wait until the moment of change to institute the new board. If we want responsible service, then we must give the board a chance to gain experience.

Voters can give impetus to early formation of the board by writing their legislators and urging a "yes" vote on the proposed legislation. If no steps are taken to prepare the board for its new role, the voters will be the first to suffer.

Some Views On Death

One of the great unresolved moral questions in medicine is whether or not a doctor has a duty, or even a right, to employ heroic measures to keep the spark of life flickering in a hopelessly ill patient.

There is a companion quandary to this question. While not so profound as the first, it is a situation more doctors are more likely to encounter. This is whether to tell or not to tell a dying patient that he is dying.

It would seem that it ought to depend upon the patient, his personality, his store of psychological strength or spiritual resources.

Bur mankind has apparently devised as many styles of dying as it has of living. After surveying doctors from four continents, a team of researchers at the Medical College of Ohio at Toledo report that the decision more often than not is based on the physician's own quirks, cultural background and religion — not the patient's.

The study included 230 doctors: 24 from Argentina, 31 from India and Ceylon, 24 from the Far East, 45 from Israel, 40 Jewish-American doctors and 66 non-Jewish American doctors.

Each physician responded to a battery of 12 interlocking questions designed to reveal his attitudes toward telling a patient about a fatal disease (in this case, cancer), about ordering "aggressive treatment" for the disease and about his views on death and immortality.

The investigation turned up significant differences in the handling of terminal illness. The researchers believe these differences stem from the cultural and religious background of the physicians themselves.

American doctors, for instance, strongly believe in telling the patient he has a fatal illness. Non-Americans just as strongly oppose this.

Argentinians believe in aggressive treatment — never say die, as it were — even though it subjects the patient to added pain and expense without much benefit to him.

Indians and Ceylonese do not favor aggressive treatment; Americans and Far Easterners would use aggressive treatment only for selective cases, and Israeli doctors were almost evenly split on the question.

Israeli, Far Eastern and Jewish-American doctors give little credence to immortality. The other groups believe in some form of afterlife.

Alone among all the doctors, the Jewish-American doctors believe that man can be happily reconciled to the fact of his nonexistence after death.

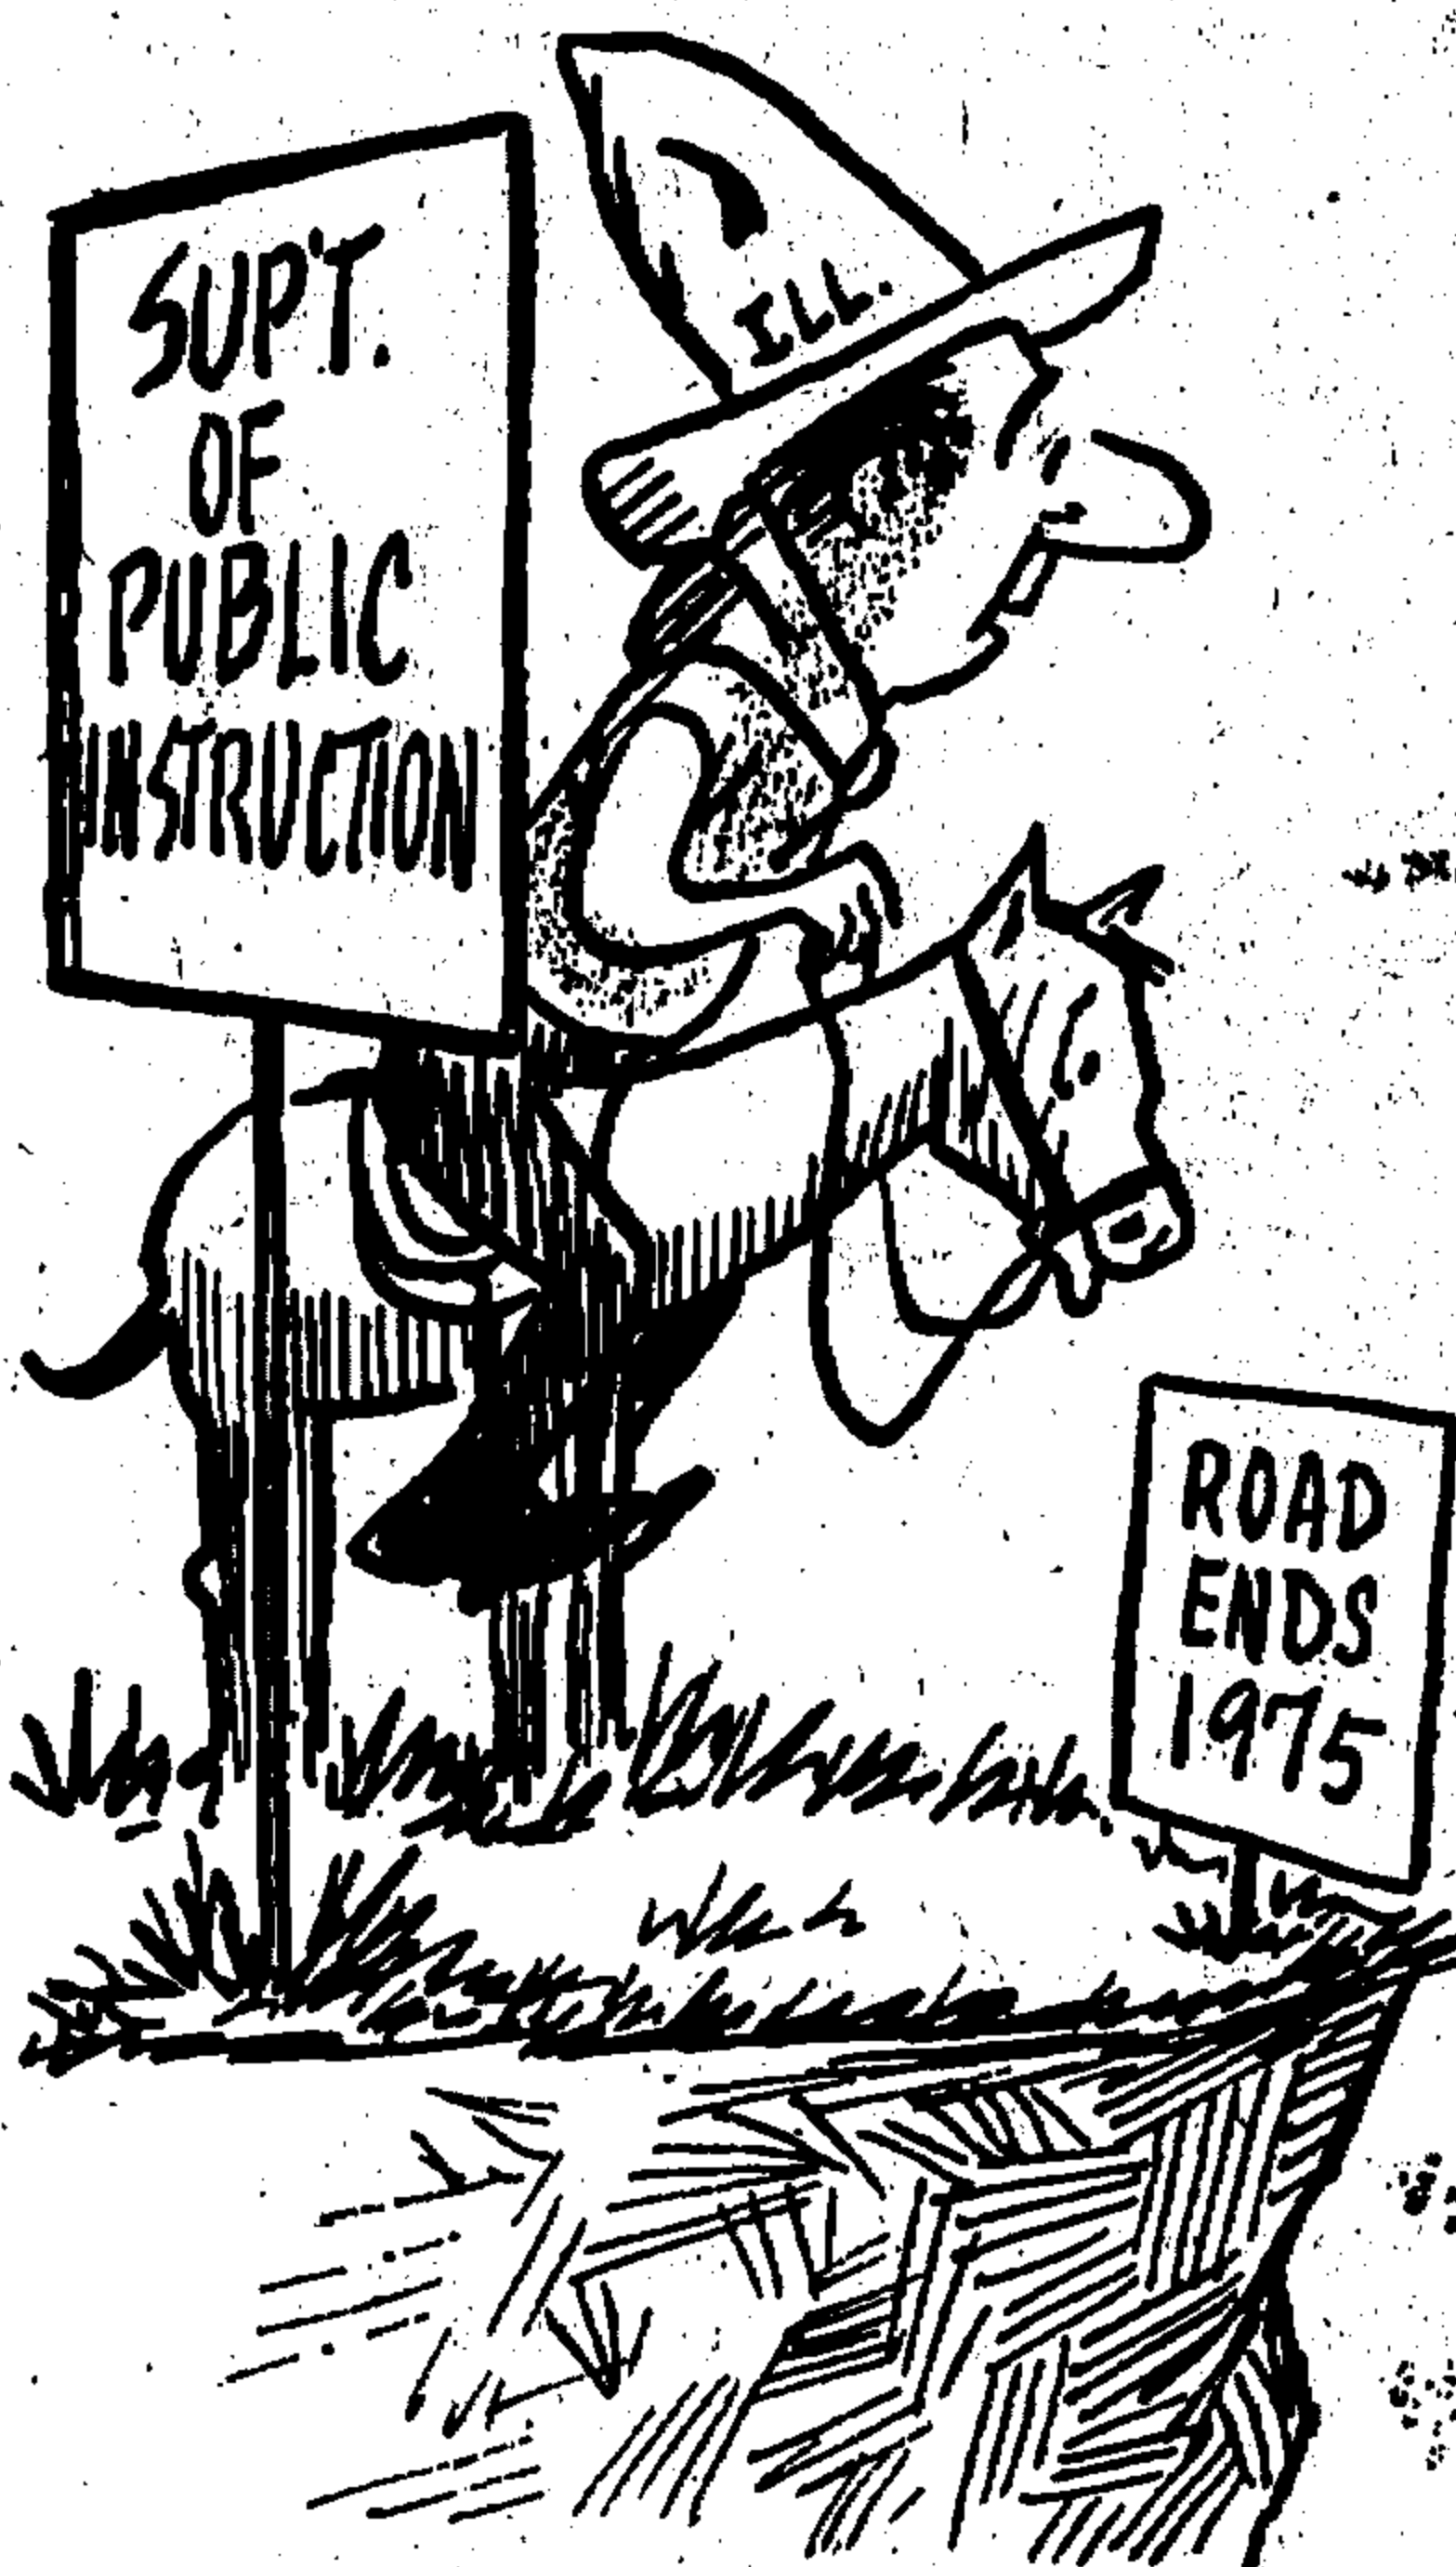

The Israeli and Jewish-American doctors, says the study, "do not believe in preparing spiritually for death, and therefore see no point in telling the cancer patient about his illness. It is more important to them to prolong life and cause no aggravation or sadness to the patient."

By contrast, the Indian and Ceylonese doctors believe the patient must have time to prepare for death, but that it is difficult for the patient to cope with the knowledge that his illness is fatal.

The researchers conclude that it is of the "utmost importance" for each doctor to be aware of his own particular attitudes about death so that he can prevent these idiosyncrasies from interfering with the quality of medical care he administers to the fatally ill patient.

Physician, know thyself.

'Fortune Kookies' Disbelieved

ning water installed in her shack. And whoever heard of a witch with indoor plumbing? So we washed our hands and went to have our palms read.

The first thing this fortune kooky said to me — after complaining about her light bill — was, "I see you have an inflamed colon; you will have three children and be married three times." "In that order?" I wondered. Being very young I couldn't understand what a hot punctuation mark had to do with having children.

One marriage and three children later — wise about colons and a lot of other things — I had my fortune told via the cards. Not a common bridge deck, you understand, but the real thing, full of cards with skulls and hearts and pots of gold and devils. I held one card showing a heart with the point resting in a pot of gold and heat waves all around. While I was reading it to mean that I was going to have a hot romance with a rich man, the dealer was telling me to stay away from rich foods or I'd get heartburn.

Then she dealt a card that looked like somebody spilled a banana split on it and said, "Aha! You will be married three times."

The kids were with me and of course they couldn't wait to run home and blab to their father.

Until yesterday Wally preferred fortune cookies to any other kind of sooth-saying. He says they never predict anything more upsetting than "Have faith in your own judgement," and "Several changes will come about for you." In fact, he liked that "Everything happens for the best" one so much that he kept it in his wallet and would read it aloud every time I came home with another three-marriage prediction.

Until yesterday, that is. Then his fortune cookie said, "Beware of cookie bearing fortunes."

Arlington Beautified By Roses

A spot of real beauty has recently been created in our village of Arlington Heights. The Arlington Beautification Council applauds the Arlington Park District, especially Mr. Angelo Capulli, for introducing a community rose garden at Northwest Highway and Windsor Drive. Twenty-five Peace rose bushes were donated to the Park District by Mr. Wilfred G. Wolf and the Northwest Trust and Savings Bank, a commendable civic gesture. This gift provided the impetus for the project. The Stonegate Homeowners Association followed with a financial contribution to continue development of the site. Together, a business, a governmental body, and a citizens group have made a major contribution to the beauty of Arlington Heights. Our congratulations!

Police Chases 'Seldom Justified'

It seems that more and more frequently I find myself reading in the Herald about one or the other of our suburban police departments engaging in high-speed chases in order to apprehend someone for a relatively minor offense. I would submit to your readers that these "chases" are seldom justified by circumstances.

Apparently these high-speed chases are undertaken at the slightest provocation with complete disregard for public safety. The participants seem to be oblivious to the possible tragic consequences of pursuing another vehicle at speeds of up to 90 miles per hour in heavily populated areas such as ours. They are, in my opinion, endangering their own lives, and the lives of innocent persons.

The average citizen is not aware of the fact that a police officer is able to pick up the microphone in his car and request information on any Illinois license plate number. In a few minutes he can have the name and address of the fugitive. So why the "chase?"

Coverage Applauded

The League of Women Voters of Des Plaines would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your excellent newspaper coverage this past year, not only for our League, but also in relation to the local issues and candidates.

We of the League are always interested in informing our community and encouraging and assisting its participation and support in achieving an even better Des Plaines for today and tomorrow.

Thank you again.

Mrs. Richard D'Hondt
President

Admittedly there are instances where a chase is necessary; but these are rare and should be held to the absolute minimum as a matter of policy.

Word-A-Day

One-Party Rule Hit

I recently had the opportunity to represent Conant High School in the Hoffman Estates Student Government Day. In your article entitled "Youths Take Over Village Offices" I was quoted as saying that I disapproved of the present village board because they're all Republicans. This is not at all what was being discussed and I would like to clarify myself.

The discussion concerned machine politics and I brought up the fact that Hoffman Estates village government shared one thing in common with any good political machine, the total dominance of one party. Understanding that our two party system is dependent upon competition to insure qualified candidates, one has to realize that in a situation like the one existing in Hoffman, with no real competition, the quality of candidates slated is bound to suffer.

At no point did I indicate the GOP is an inferior party nor do I believe that it is.

However, I do believe the situation is such that an unqualified person could be elected to office. His only merit being that his name appears on the Republican ticket.

Since I feel that I was misquoted and the article puts a completely different implication on the conversation, I hope you will print my letter.

All of the students and I are very grateful to the village officials for the time and effort they put into Student Government Day. It was a fine experience.

DO NOT POLLUTE

by LeROY POPE
NEW YORK (UPI) — Many business firms support ecological and environmental improvement grudgingly, but one industry does so with zealous zeal because its survival depends on it.
"If water pollution and abuse of the environment kill off the fish, we're out of business," said Tom Lenk, president of Garcia Corp. of Teaneck, N.J., the world's leading makers and distributors of fishing tackle.
His competitor, Everett R. Hames, vice-president of Shakespeare Co. of Kalamazoo, Mich., agrees. Hames, who is president of the American Fishing Tackle Manufacturers Association, devotes all his time at Shakespeare to ecological and environmental problems. Not long ago, Shakespeare set an example for other industries in the Kalamazoo region by cleaning up an effluent problem at its own plant.
Lenk and Hames said all tackle makers are acutely conscious of the need for improved ecology just as they became conscious years ago of the need for fish conservation and more raising of trout and bass in state and privately owned hatcheries.
"SOME LITTLE manufacturers in the business devote an enormous amount of their personal time to the cause," said Hames. He also said the Sportfishing Institute and thezaak Walton League raise money constantly to support campaigns for ecological and environmental improvement.
Garcia not only publishes material on ecological problems and conservation but has active programs of its own. It recently launched a nationwide fish restocking program. With every purchase of a Garcia fishing reel the company buys two hatchery fish and arranges to have them stocked in the waters of the buyer's choice. Considering that Garcia is the country's biggest seller of reels that can add a lot of fish to the nation's streams and lakes.

Garcia also interested Ralph Nader in a program to organize the nation's 50 million fresh and salt water anglers in a campaign to clean up the waters. Garcia provided Nader with seed money for the campaign.
GARCIA ESTABLISHED a station at its Teaneck plant for the collection of waste materials for recycling. The more material recycled, the less chance there will be to find effluents that pollute streams.
Garcia also gave up its sales-oriented exhibit at the industry's biggest annual show, that of the tackle manufacturers association, and substituted an ecological action display.
A fisherman himself, Lenk says he has contributed a lot of personal time to conservation just for the selfish reason that he wanted to catch more fish.
More than ten years ago he was instrumental in helping to get Congress to appropriate money for the first national marine research program on behalf of sports fishermen. Prior to that time, the federal government had limited its interest to commercial fisheries.

Big China Trading Unlikely

by LEA TONKIN
Trading on a grand scale with the People's Republic of China is still no more than a gleam in the American businessman's eye, according to a local trade expert.
He's Lawrence McQuade, president and chief executive officer of Procon, Inc., in Des Plaines, a subsidiary of Universal Oil Products Co.
If you could measure this trade potential in animal terms, it's more like a mouse than an elephant, says McQuade. Current speculation on adding the masses of Communist China as consumers of American-made goods is largely unfounded, he contends. That is, unless you're a manufacturer of agricultural fertilizer or a few other specialized goods.
True, President Nixon did ease the controls on exporting of non-strategic items to the People's Republic of China. But McQuade, a former U.S. Assistant Secretary of Commerce, says this market is laced with complexities. Although he readily admits a lack of United States trade experience with the People's Republic, he notes that dealings with other Far Eastern countries often require the willingness to play a waiting game before any commitment is gained.
ASSUMING THE American trader realizes in time that his way of international wheeling and dealing is just that — American — and not that of the Chinese, he can take a look at the positive aspects of the market. Just what could the Americans expect to buy from the Chinese? Aside from art and decorative items there are textiles, fresh meat, fresh fish, rice and fruit, for starters. And that's just about where the list ends, says McQuade.
Textiles offer the only major attraction for U.S. importers, according to McQuade. He adds that this item "runs into the buzzsaw of artificial limitations in world markets including President Nixon's dearly bought panoply of voluntary quotas on Far Eastern and other textile exporting countries."
The People's Republic of China may export manufactured goods, competing with Hong Kong and Korea as the low-cost labor pools of the world. Chinese exports to the United States are estimated at $25 to $250 million by 1980, reflecting the uncertainty of the market.
Chemical fertilizers for agricultural uses, textile fibers for the industrial sector and minerals and metals for construction, transportation and heavy industrial sectors are billed as the People's Republic's areas of imports form the United States, says McQuade. The aircraft industry could also benefit from China trade. He adds that the prospects are only modest in the near future and that any agreements for exports to the country are accompanied by comparable import contracts.

Since 1950, trade relations with the People's Republic of China have been virtually nonexistent for U.S.-based companies. McQuade says several attempts to trade in limited areas were rebuffed. Traders with the People's Republic of China may also have to sever relationships with Taiwan-based firms which currently offer much greater potential, he said.
WHAT ADVENTURES await the intrepid U.S. businessman seeking business from the People's Republic? Well, first he has to realize he's dealing with the government of a culturally revolutionized country, not an individual entrepreneur.
Getting one foot in the China trade door can be difficult, says McQuade, drawing on the experience of countries which have dealt with the People's Republic. Representation through third country nationals, overseas affiliates or using the group approach seem to work better than trying to go it alone.
Writing a handsome letter to the all-encompassing Ministry of Foreign Trade could be a good source for your average would-be trader, but then those letters aren't always answered. The businessman could try to wangle an invitation to the exclusive Canton Trade Fair held each April and October. This is the primary source of trade with the People's Republic, says McQuade.
The several thousand lucky traders who attended the session take a seven-hour train ride from Hong Kong. Then they're put up in the "slogan-ridden, poorly lighted, air conditioned Hotel Tang Fang," he says.
The fair-to-middling prospects of exporting to the People's Republic are limited by the amount of imports to be negotiated in return, McQuade warns. Should a persevering trader succeed in negotiating a contract with this Far Eastern country, he must gain approval from state-run trade authorities and comply with uniquely Chinese financial and customs arrangements.
OUR TRADER has no idea of who the end users of his product will be since state controlled agencies bargain on a national basis. The fancy packaging and gimmicky promotions of American-made goods are not a great selling tool in this country, McQuade says.

Noting that the Chinese have a reputation for persistent and skillful bargaining, McQuade moves on to additional built-in hazards. Cancellation of import and export licenses, accusations of technical personnel as spies and the occasional detention of foreign bankers who do not make amends to the Chinese liking are a few examples.
Occasional political reverberations in the cultural revolution of the People's Republic can add to the frequency of these happenings, according to McQuade. There is also the outside chance that the American firm doing business with the People's Republic will be subject to pressure by stockholders and customers, as experienced by some traders with Eastern European nations.
The acceptance of American trade on the same basis as other Western nations by the Chinese can overcome many of these barriers, McQuade believes. Dealing with licensees and overseas affiliates can provide a good background, he says, in addition to securing assistance from the U.S. Department of Commerce.
McQuade served as U.S. Assistant Secretary of Commerce before joining Procon in 1969. He is president and chief executive officer of the international construction and engineering firm.

Better Earnings Predicted By Commonwealth Edison Co.

Improved earnings for Commonwealth Edison Co. were forecast for 1972 by Gordon Corey, chairman of the firm's finance committee, at the annual stockholders meeting recently.
Also announced at the meeting was the retirement next April of J. Harris Ward as Edison's chief executive officer. Thomas Ayers, Edison president, also addressed the group.
"We expect 1972 earnings to be in the area of $3.10 a share, possibly a little better if everything goes well," Corey said. This, he indicated, would be well above last year's $2.86 which was depressed by large power purchases resulting from nuclear plant delays.
Ward said: "Edison today continues strong. Gross revenues are rising but net income per share is lagging because we are still incurring the costs of rapid adjustment to new environmental demands. Nevertheless, we expect earnings per share to resume an upward trend as these matters are resolved."
In his remarks, Ayers said nuclear energy will supply about half of the electricity required by customers. "Each of Edison's nuclear plants will conform to all environmental and safety standards, both state and federal. And we believe each will produce power at reasonable cost and more reliably than fossil-fueled plants," he said.
REFERRING TO regulatory delays and conflicting standards that have held up the operation of nuclear plants, Ayers called for legislative action to provide for settlement of differences before the construction of a power plant begins. As a result of the delayed operation of the company's Quad-Cities nuclear station, he said, Edison is approaching the 1972 summer peak load period with a less than adequate generating reserve.
Ayers also cited Edison's research and development activities, stating that last year alone the company spent over $17 million on research, $16 million of it on projects relating to the environment.
Corey said the resolution of environmental problems will inevitably mean higher electric rates in the future. Rate increases will also be needed, he in-dedicated, to pay for high-cost plant already built or well underway and to maintain the company's credit standing and the quality of its securities. The company is striving for increased before-tax earnings.

A company goal, he said, is to increase the amount of cash generated from operations in order to help pay for Edison's $3 billion five-year construction program.
COMMONWEALTH EDISON CO.'s net income in the first three months of 1972 increased to $43,294,000 from $35,786,000 in the same period of 1971. Electric operating revenues rose 14 per cent to $222,496,000 for the quarter, Ward said.
Earnings per common share on a greater number of common shares in the recent quarter edged up to 79 cents from 76 cents in the first quarter of 1971.
For the 12-month period ended March 31, the company reported earnings of $2.89 a common share, compared with $2.98 in the 12 months ended March 31, 1971, but three cents higher than the $2.86 posted for the full year of 1971.
"Our strong gain in quarterly revenues was helped by a rate increase which became effective last December and by an increase in kilowatt-hour sales," Ward said. "But it remains difficult to improve earnings in the face of continued high expenses for power purchased to cover delayed operation of our new nuclear units."

Hawks' Hitzeman, Stevens Qualify For National Meet

Harper's tennis team went down to the Region IV with two goals in mind — one was accomplished.

For the first time in Harper's brief history a doubles team captured the coveted doubles championship. Bill Hitzeman, a veteran performer for Coach Roy Kearns the past two seasons, combined with freshman Paul Stevens for the title at the Springfield host tourney Friday and Saturday.

However, the Hawks came up just one slim point for succeeding in both aims. Belleville, a surprise tennis power, joined Rock Valley, one of the co-favorites with Harper, in the winner's circle. Both teams tied with eight tourney points with Harper just off the pace with seven.

So both championship teams win berths to the national finals with Harper also earning a trip on the efforts of Hitzeman and Stevens.

"I was proud of them all the way through," said Kearns, a veteran in such regional battles having won team titles in 1969 and 1970. "They didn't dominate, but their steadiness — that's their strong point — won for them in the long run."

The Hitzeman-Stevens combination had little trouble the first two rounds. Lincoln's Rex Geffs and Kevin Stortzum fell in the opener, 6-1, 6-2, and Lincoln College's Bob Mitzel and Mike Kensil did the same, 7-5, 6-3.

The semifinal matchup had the Hawk duo going against Rock Valley's Tom Sloggett and Dick Saunders. Harper won the opener, 6-0, had what Kearns described as a mental lapse in losing 5-7, and then surged with another 6-0 victory.

College of DuPage's Dale Allen and Tom Duellman proved to be just as tough for Harper in the finals. The Hawks won this one 6-2, 3-6, 7-5.

"The competition gets tough every year," said Kearns of the 23-school meet. "It's very competitive now with better players at all the schools."

This more challenging field helped spoil the hopes of Harper's two singles competitors — Bruce Holland and Randy Fischer. Holland scored two of those seven team points with his pair of wins. Falling before Harper's No. 1 singles player were Kaskaskia's Ed Schaerterle by 6-2 scores and Waubesa's Craig Wamsley, 6-1, 7-5.

Then Holland had the misfortune of having to face Dan Perone in round three. Perone, Rock Valley's defending singles champion, stopped the Harper freshman's bid by 6-2 scores.

Fischer had to win his opening match just to gain a playing position in the first round. He did just that by stopping Kankakee's John Davis, 6-3, 6-0. Fischer then chalked up his only point of the tourney by beating Lincoln Land's Gary Palmer, 6-3, 6-3. Lake Land's Curt Weber knocked Randy out of the tourney by 6-1 scores.

"If we could have gone a little farther in singles..." said Kearns, but added, "They did the best they could at the time. The experience they have now will be real profitable for them in the future."

Palatine Lands Top Area Position At Chevy Chase

Golf Editor

There weren't many smiles on the 10th tee as the 125 prep golfers made the turn.

Chevy Chase Country Club was playing long and windy while the greens were unpredictably fast. As each foursome soberly trudged from the ninth hole carpet to the concession stand, their long faces perked up slightly when informed that scores in the 40's were the exception rather than the rule.

The 25-team field ate up the daylight hours before every player in the sixth annual affair could finish 18 holes. The scores of 15 holes thereby became official as the final three holes were eliminated from everyone's scorecard.

After the revision, Glenbrook North emerged with team honors with four counters in the 60's. Its total of 268 nipped Deerfield's 272 and Palatine's 273. Prospect garnered fourth with 276 while St. Viator and host Wheeling shared fifth with 279's. Further area domination came from Arlington's 280 for seventh, Conant's 285 and deadlock for 12th, Hersey's 291 for 18th, Forest View's 21st in 296, Elk Grove's 299 for 22nd and Fremd's even 300 for 23rd.

The final team positions would not have fluctuated much according to meet director and Wheeling head coach Jack Berry.

"Glenbrook North would have won either way (counting 15 holes or 18)," he said. "We got started a little late and the overcast and rain didn't help us out much."

By the time half the field had completed nine, the main topic of discussion centered around Glenbrook North's Tom Evans who fired a first-round 38 and Arlington's Chris Marszalek who tossed in 39. Everyone else was saddled with scores in the 40's at best.

Marszalek was one of the fortunate to complete 18 and his 37 back nine produced a sparkling 76. When the necessary alterations had been made, Chris was credited with a 64 and shared medalist honors with Evans.

The lanky Spartan posted the same composite of 76 for 18 holes but showed a 63 for 15. On the basis of their 18-hole deadlock, though, both he and Chris received gold medals. Evans began the day with a triple-bogey seven on the first hole, but was dazzling the rest of the way in ringing up identical rounds of 38.

Palatine must have gained state-wide acclaim by virtue of its solid showing. The Pirates parlayed 15-hole scores of 41-25-66 by Jim Sobczynski who garnered the third-place medalist award with John Loneragan's 41-26-67, Bob Capoun's 41-27-69, Mike Long's 45-26-71 and Dave Hafner's 46-23-74.

Prospect, the owner of an unbeaten dual-meet mark this season, combined Don Tessmer's 41-25-66, Norm Schwartz's 46-28-68, Scott Anderson's 45-25-70 and Bob Horwath's 44-28-72 for fourth in the standings. Tessmer's 66 earned the second-place medalist trophy while Scott Januzik rounded out the Knights' scoring with 47-27-74.

Wheeling and St. Viator, two other local powerhouses, played the course to a standstill in head-to-head competition. Lion counters came from 69's by Terry McDonald (43-26) and Vic Incinelli (42-27), Ray Carroll's 43-27-70, Mickey Fitton's 45-26-71 and Larry Wittek's 44-28-72.

The host Wildcats countered with Dave Mehler's fifth-place medalist rounds of 40-26-66, Bob Winter's 42-25-67, Jack Kennedy's 44-28-72, Mark Bull's 44-30-74 and Chris Krolack's 51-29-80.

Joining Marszalek's super 64 for Arlington were the 41-28-69 by Steve Sluka, 45-27-72 by Jeff Palmer, 46-30-76 by John Gibbel and the 44-38-82 by Steve Ringel.

Dave Love shared the fifth-place medalist award for Conant with rounds of 40-28-66 while support came from Chris Dilger's 43-29-72, Kevin Eakins' 44-29-73, Eric Brewner's 44-30-74 and Keith Kellogg's 49-32-82.

Al Glaser was Hersey's team leader with nines of 42-26-63 while Kurt Miller (45-29) and Mike Henry (43-31) carded 74's. Bruce Conroy toured in 44-31-75 while Ray Peterson hit 45-32-77.

Todd McDonald was tops for Conant with his 40-27-67. Teammate Pat Walsh carded 40-34-74, Dave Moody, 49-28-77, Gary Mayer 45-33-78, and Chuck Felice 50-30-80.

Elk Grove's 299 was derived from Keith Moore's 43-29-72, 74's by Scott Walker (46-28) and Ernie Woolard (43-31), Mark Okuma's 43-26-79 and Scott Gander's 47-34-81.

Fremd counted scores of 74 from Bob Frank (47-27) and Lach Frew (46-28), 75 by Brian Brown (48-27), 77 by Craig Falkenthal (46-31) and 80 by Pat Roxworthy (47-33).

Hersey Golfers 6th At Lockport

Golf Editor

Hersey employed its overall depth in gaining sixth place in a massive 27-team field at the Lockport Golf Invitational Friday.

Under the play-five, count-five method of scoring, the Huskies were in the thick of contention throughout the contest while totaling 414 strokes.

Hillcrest was the team winner with 405 with West Aurora second with 408, Carl Sandburg third in 412 and Fenton and Homewood-Flossmoor tied for fourth with 413.

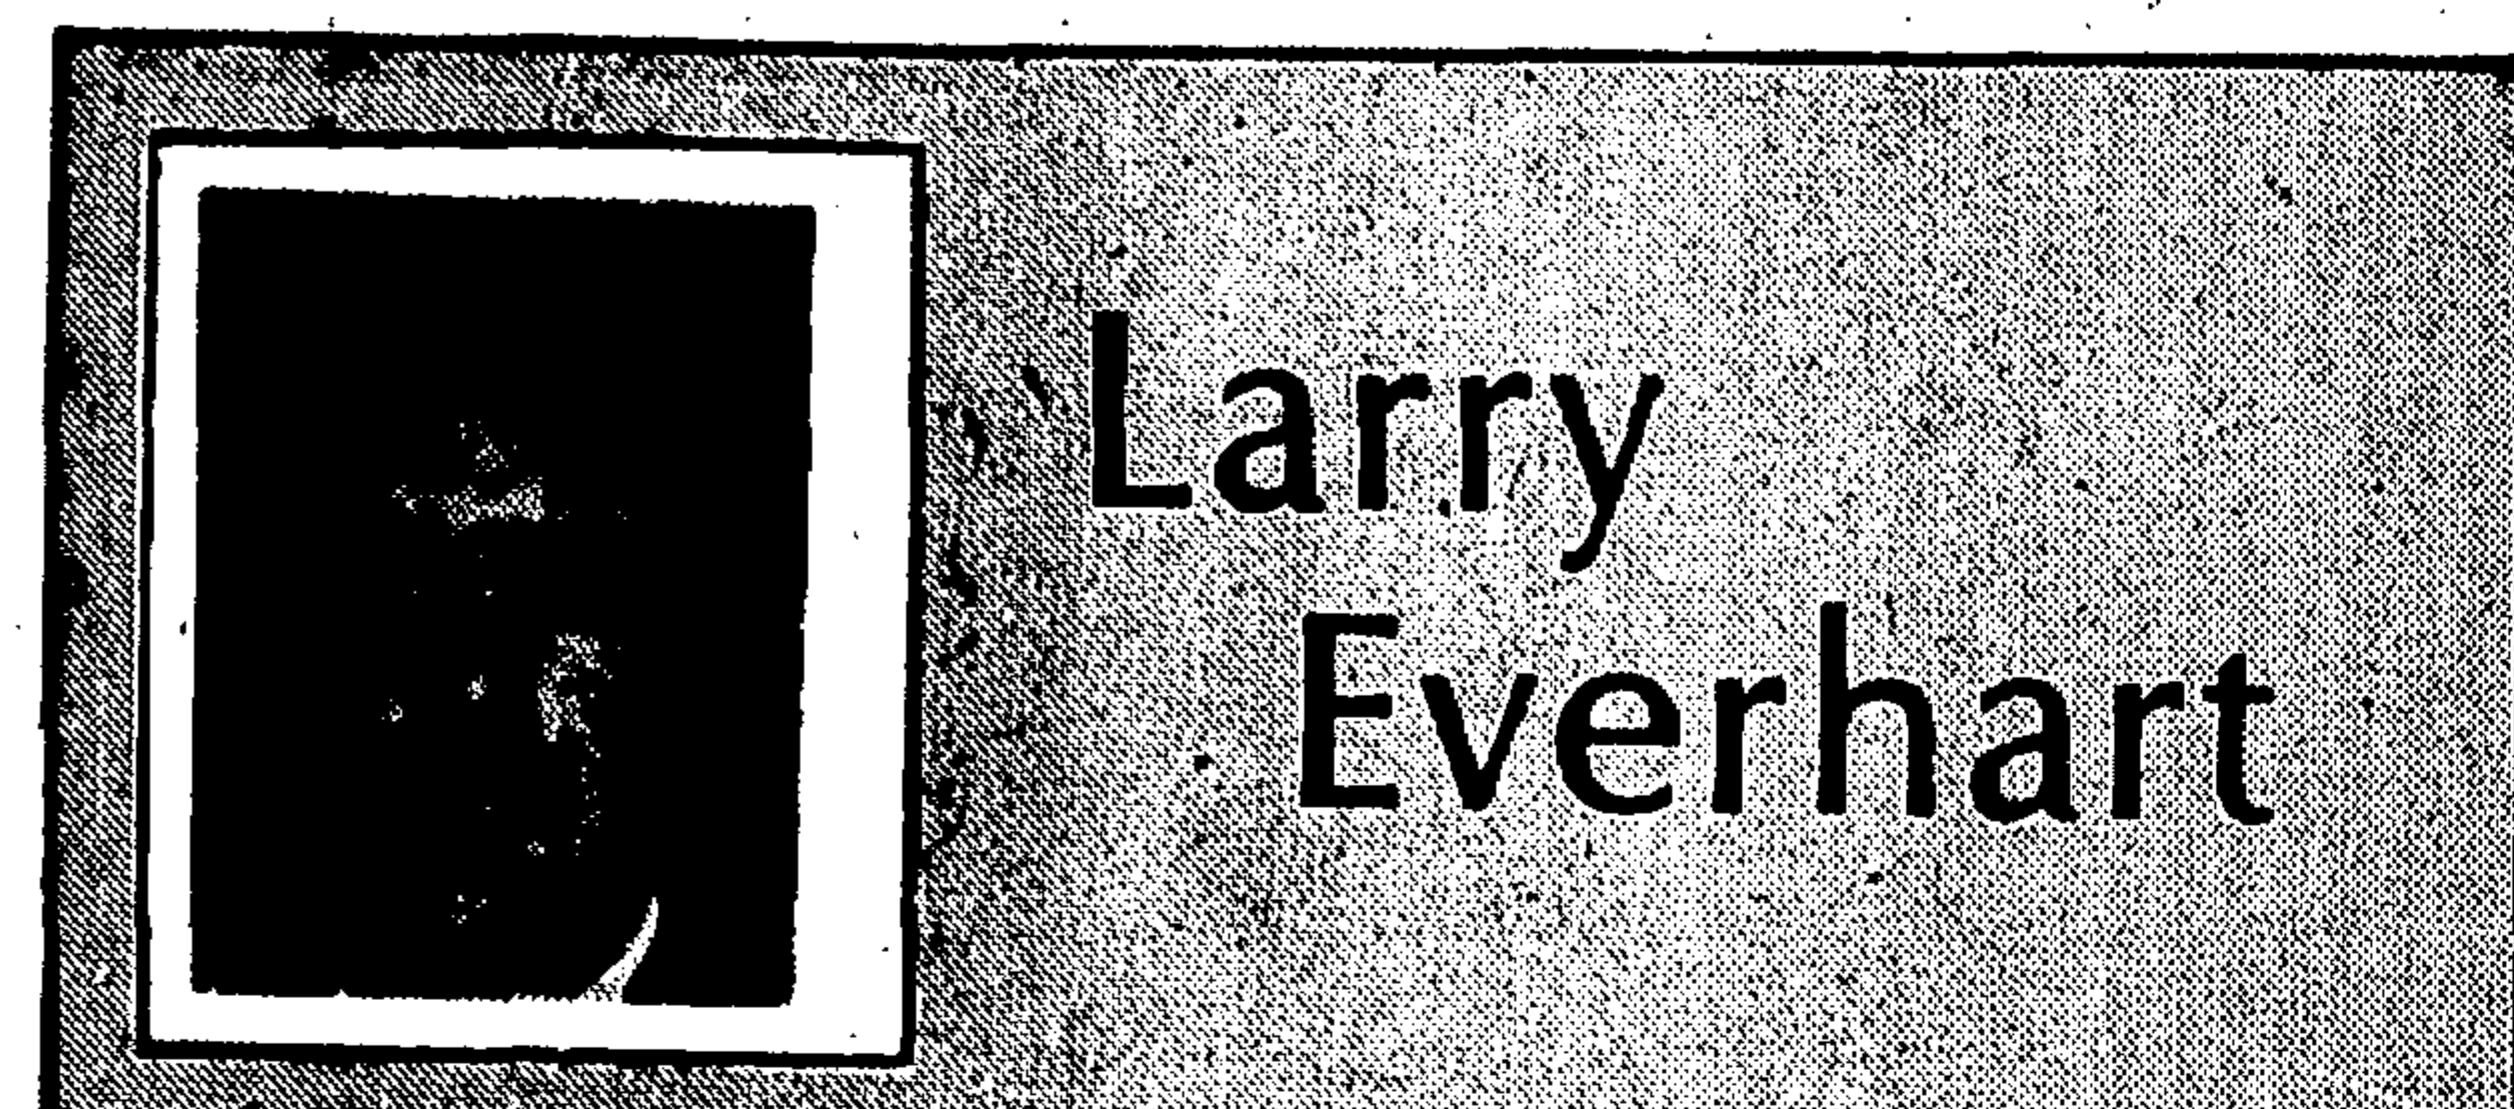

Following in order of finish were Hinsdale Central 417, St. Charles 417, Lincoln-Way 419, Hinsdale South 421, Joliet West 421, Highland Park 424, Rich East 424, Proviso West 428, Marian Catholic 428, Reavis 439, Argo 439, Maine South 440, Thornton 441, Ottawa 442, Niles North 442, Lockport Central 447, Lemont 447, Crete Monee 447, Evergreen Park 458, Oak Lawn 483 and Stagg 515.

Individually, the Huskies sparked behind Ray Peterson's sixth-place medalist rounds of 38-41-79. Kurt Miller was a stroke behind after parlaying 40-40-80. Al Glaser hit 39-43-82, Mike Henry 42-42-84 and Dean Taggart 41-48-89.

The overall meet medalist was Rick Garcia of Fenton who fired 36-36-74. Jim Wyatt of Ottawa, Homewood-Flossmoor's Dave Reed, Tom McIntosh of Carl Sandburg and Hillcrest's Tom Boylan were all tied for second with 79's.

According to head coach Ken Carter, his Huskies adjusted well to the Big Run Country Club layout. Carter described the course as "immaculate and in excellent condition."

A Hairy Subject For Coaches

(First of a two-part series)

"Gimme a head with hair; long, beautiful hair..."

It's been more than three years since this refrain was first heard from the theme of the musical "Hair." Of course, it has been longer since such an attitude was adopted popularly by other than young ladies.

The changes in attitude on hair length understandably took longer to spread into athletics than other walks of life. Athletes are traditionally among the most conservative members of our society.

But the winds of change have been blowing longer and longer hair as time has passed, and those winds are now affecting coaches' and athletes' feelings just the same as anyone else's.

Long hair has continued to be an issue even though standards in that regard have relaxed gradually on almost every athletic club — all types, levels, ages. The issue still pops up because it seems that no matter how long a coach will allow his boys to let their golden locks hang, the boys will always try to get away with another half-inch.

To find out how much feelings have changed, I decided to poll at random a few area coaches representing all high school sports and compare what they have to say now with answers obtained for a similar feature in the Herald two and a half years ago.

There's no doubt that this length of time has made a difference. When football and cross country coaches were asked in August, 1969, about their attitudes on hair for their athletes, just one coach (who is still in the area and again was polled for this study) had what I would call a liberal attitude.

Others had definite restrictions — almost all disliking hair below the ears, sideburns below the earlobe, or mustaches of any kind for high school kids. One coach at that time went so far as to say, "If their hair's long enough for me to grab hold of, it's too long!"

Now, though, not as many coaches seem to care about how a boy looks (within reason). They're concerned mainly with the practical aspect. Some agree with St. Viator head football and track coach Jim Lyne, who says, "I have no feelings about it as long as a football helmet fits and a boy wants to hit!"

The question was, do you have any feelings for or against long hair for your athletes and if so, what are the reasons? Here is what a few other coaches had to say — all reflecting that they are fairly relaxed in their feelings on looks:

than the length of hair."

Dennis Garber, Schaumburg track: "In general, hair does not present itself as an issue for myself or the athletes I coach. As long as the boys look well-groomed, they meet the requirements. Times are changing. I used to feel very strongly about long hair... but length of hair should not be an issue. The coach should be reasonable and understanding of the personal feelings of his boys when he sets down rules."

Al Ratcliff, Fremd football: "The hair length of a football player concerns me in only three areas — the safety factor, cleanliness, and if it impairs performance."

That does not mean, however, that there are no standards or that boys are left completely on their own once they are on a squad. Obviously, if hair interferes with performance in any way, a boy will be asked to get a haircut immediately or turn in his uniform.

As Garber says, "If a boy needs to wear a headband to keep the hair out of his eyes, then it is too long."

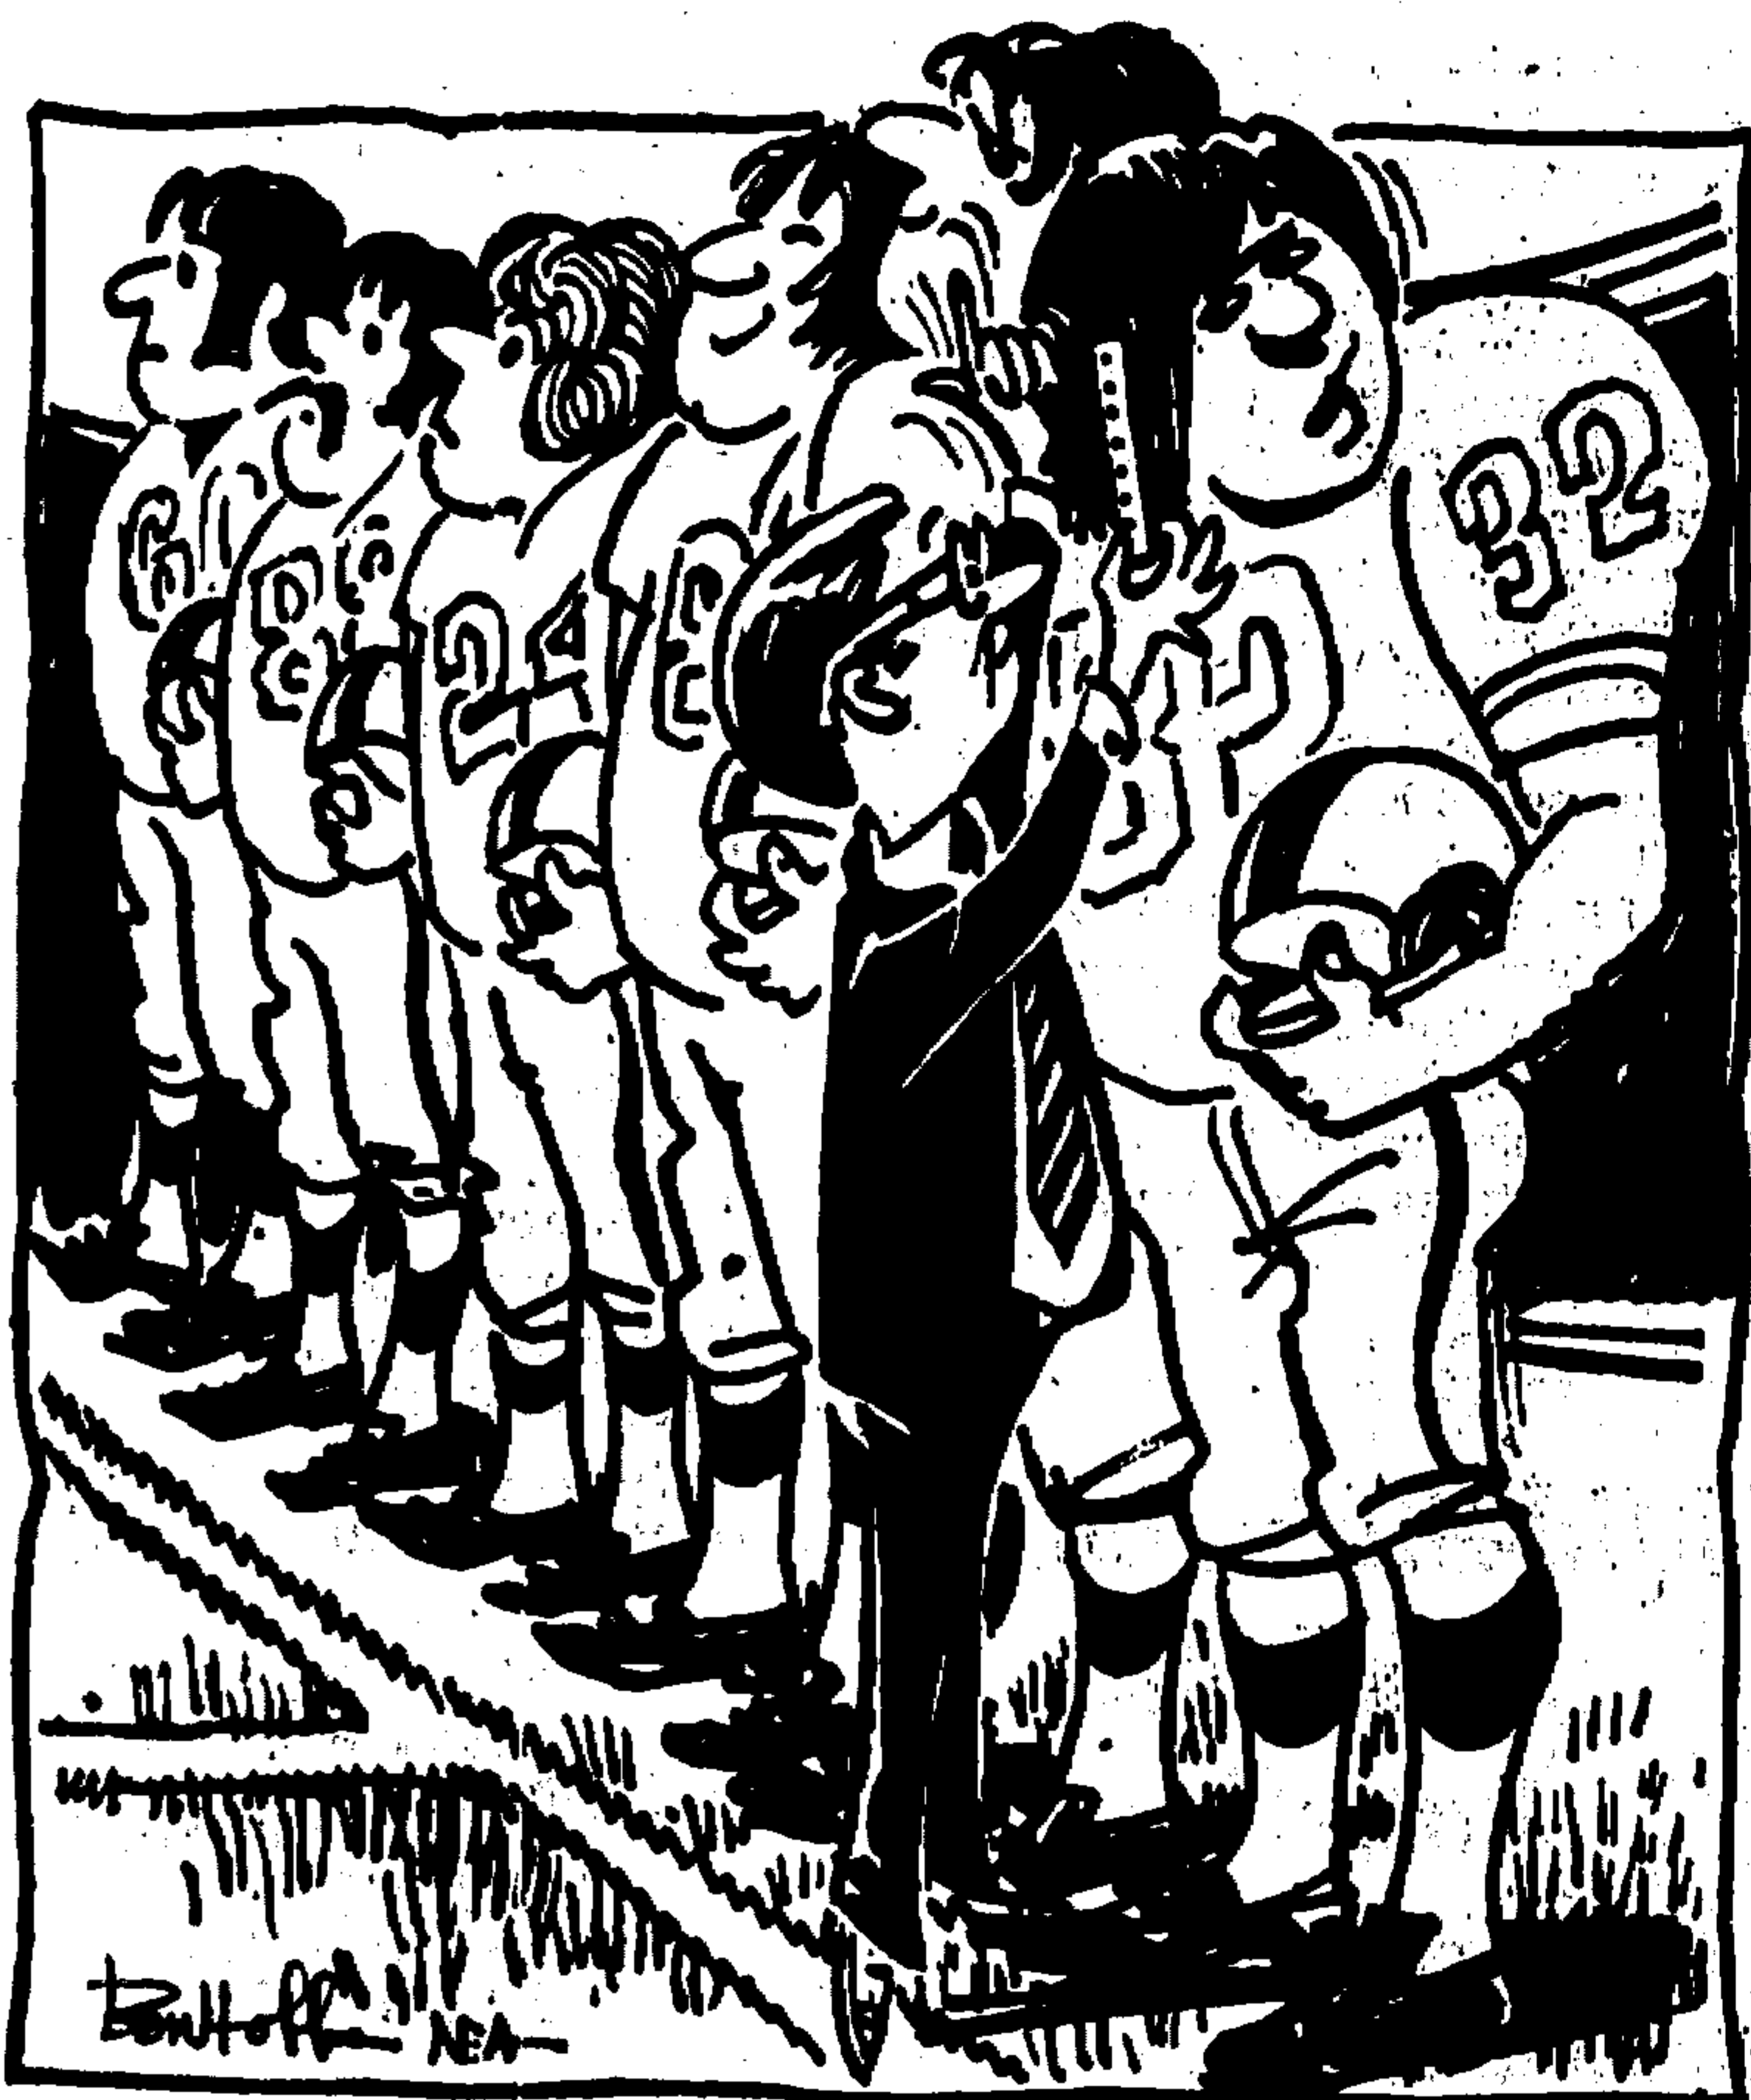

Larry Pohlman, Prospect baseball coach, represented the feelings of many coaches when he said, "I think personally that hair on the shoulders is obnoxious. It is unathletic. The athlete has always set himself apart from the masses. Today with the long hair craze I feel that the true athlete does not have to be a hippy-looking creature to gain acceptance with his peers."

"He is different because he has athletic talent. Many of the long-haired kids have nothing going for them. They do not excel in anything — scholastics, music, or athletics. There are a few exceptions, but not many."

Ken Arneson, Rolling Meadows basketball coach, admitted that he does have feelings against long hair. "Regardless of whether it is right or wrong, I feel that society still judges us according to personal appearance and I still feel that good grooming is a personal quality worth developing in young people."

"Some people say 'What difference does it make if a kid had hair down to the floor as long as he can put the ball in the basket?' I would answer by saying that a GOOD coach teaches a lot of things that are not basketball fundamentals. Stressing certain values are still a big part of any game."

(In the final part of this series next Tuesday, the following questions will be explored: How much have coaches' feelings changed in recent years? Is hair a matter of discipline, practicality, or both with most coaches? Do professional athletes set a bad example for high school kids with their grooming?)

Harper's Weekend Shows No Profit, Two Setbacks

by PAUL LOGAN

Harper was both nipped and nailed in consecutive games over the weekend. Hammering the Hawks in the championship game of the sectional tournament was Amundsen, 12-4. That loss had to hurt the most for it prevented them from advancing into this week's second round of junior college tourney action.

Following the slaughter on Friday the Hawks tried to play a doubleheader against visiting Rock Valley. The latter outscored the Hawks 4-1 in the first three innings and held on to win, 4-2. The second game was called because of rain.

Coach John Elisk's young men will be hoping to regroup this afternoon at Morton beginning at 3:30. The Hawks will be looking for their ninth win in 15 outings.

The first two innings of the nine-inning title game probably set the tempo. The Amundsen Falcons swooped in for the kill in the top of the first by sending 10 men to the plate before the side was retired. Keying the early surge was Chuck Haymes, the hitting star of the game. Following a one-out walk, he crunched a homer to deep left field. Four more runs scored after this and Harper came to bat down 6-0.

Wally Wiener led off with a double, but he was left stranded. In the second inning, following another score by Wau-bensee, Kim Boley reached on an error. He moved to second on another error which allowed Bruce Eberle to also reach base. With only one out, it appeared Harper was ready to take advantage of the Falcons' miscues. Instead, the visitor forced Harper into two of its own. Boley was picked off second by the pitcher and the next batter struck out.

Harper did manage to score two in the fourth and a like number in the sixth, but the punch was definitely taken out of the Hawks' offensive attack.

A bloop double by Dean Sheridan to lead off the fourth inning helped break the scoring ice. Ray Carlson followed with a run-scoring single. He moved up on a passed ball and scored on Boley's single.

Carlson started the other minor rally in the sixth with a walk. Single by Boley and Rich Gawron scored Carlson with Boley coming home on an error.

Amundsen scored one in the fifth and two each in the sixth and the ninth in forging the rout. Haymes went 4-for-5 including two doubles along with his homer.

Boley, Gawron and Wiener had two hits each, the latter's included a triple. Luke Wolanski was tagged with the loss.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Amundsen .....610 012 002—12-14-3
Harper .....000 202 000— 4- 8-1

The Hawks broke out in front in the first inning against Rock Valley. Wiener walked, stole second, went to third on a ground out and scored on a sacrifice fly by Mike Honel.

Then the visitors came up with two in the second, with the help of two errors, and a pair in the third.

Harper cut the margin to two in the sixth. Sheridan walked, went to third on a single by Tony Fricano and scored on Boley's single.

The hosts could have pulled it out the in the seventh. Bob Andreas had a pinch hit single, Wiener doubled and Carlson walked to load the bases. Then followed a strikeout and a double play grounder.

Buzz Johnson was the loser. He went five innings, walked five and fanned four. Wolanski went the last two, allowed no hits while fanning one and walking one.

Wiener and Fricano had two hits each for the Hawks.

Palatine Topples Meadows

Steve Garoutte's two-run triple keyed a five run rally in the fifth inning that propelled Palatine past hosting Rolling Meadows in conference baseball action at Pioneer Park Friday, 7-4.

Garoutte's three bagger and a bouncing circuit shot by Andy Knotek were the big blows helping sophomore twirler Buddy Hughes register his fourth triumph in five loop decisions at the expense of the Mustangs. Meadows had taken a 4-1 lead into the fifth with their starting hurler Gordy Johnson helping out his own cause with a two-run homer.

Three double plays also helped the hosts but this standout fielding was nullified by a pair of miscues during the fateful fifth, allowing Palatine to gain four of their five tallies the unearned way.

In the fifth Knotek singled to get things started and then moved all the way up to third on a wild pitch. An out later Smith walked and Juan Martinez ran for him.

A delayed double steal had Knotek scoring and Martinez advancing to second. An error, a fielder's choice and another error followed, allowing Martinez to come across, and then Garoutte poled his triple to left center field, producing the tying and go ahead runs.

Garoutte also tallied, on a single by Mike Hughes, before the Palatine bats were finally stilled. The score was 6-4 then and the Mustangs were unable to catch up.

Earlier, Rolling Meadows had taken a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first on Len Link's base hit, scoring Dave Blake who had walked and stolen second base. When the Pirates evened things up in the second on Knotek's round tripper — which appeared to be a single until it bounced unexpectedly over the left fielder's head — the hosts bounced right back into the lead in the third on Pat Earley's one-base rap scoring Marc Klomp.

It was a 4-1 ballgame after Johnson connected for his home run in the fourth inning, Jack Lloyd scoring ahead of him.

Palatine scored one final run in the last inning and once more it was Garoutte driving it in. The victory allowed the visitors to snap back from a two-game losing skid that had included elimination from district action a day earlier.

Palatine 3rd In Two Mile Relay At East

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

The state track picture looks as muddled as ever.

Friday night's Maine East Relays was supposed to answer a few question marks and perhaps establish a state meet favorite, at least from the Chicagoland area.

Following the meet, everyone was going around trying to find some hidden meaning in the results, but none was to be found. "The results are very inconclusive as to establishing a favorite," said Maine East coach John Coughlan. "I don't think you can pick out a favorite based on what happened tonight," said Palatine coach Joe Johnson.

As Coughlan said, the results were inconclusive, mostly for the following reasons:

a) All of the running events were relays and only two relay events are in the state meet — 880 yards and one mile.

b) It rained, thus the high expectations for outstanding performances did not come to pass in the field events.

c) The Maine East track is cinder and was "heavy" due to the rain.

d) Evanston's Howard Jones, a 9.5 sprinter, did not compete due to a slight strain in the muscle behind his knee.

But, as Sgt. Joe Friday would say, just the facts. So here they are.

Evanston won the meet with 67 points. Proviso West was second with 63, Glenbard East third with 51½, Bloom fourth with 49, LaGrange fifth with 48, Oak Park sixth with 30, Glenbard West seventh with 20, Maine East and Maine South tied for eighth with 13, Palatine 10th with eight and one-half, Highland Park 11th with five and New Trier East 12th with none.

But, in varsity only events, Proviso West was the leading scorer with 53, Glenbard East was second with 51½, Bloom was third with 49 and Evanston dropped to fourth with 47. LaGrange scored as few as 28 points on the varsity level.

In events which will be run at the state meet (the 880-yard relay, the mile relay and the field events), Glenbard East was the leading scorer with 29½ points, Bloom was second with 29, Evanston third with 27, LaGrange fourth with 18 and Proviso West dropped to fifth with 17.

Since top notch performances only will score at the state meet, the Maine East relay victory count is important. Bloom had the most wins with four while Proviso West and LaGrange had three each, Glenbard East two and Evanston and Glenbard West one each.

In state meet events, Bloom had three winners, LaGrange two, Glenbard East and Proviso West one each and Evanston was shut out.

Therefore, there were four "winners" at the Maine East Relays — Evanston in total points, Proviso West in varsity points, Glenbard East in state meet event points and Bloom in overall wins and state meet event wins.

"Another factor in this meet," Coughlan said, "is that we don't know who was using their best boys in what events." That, of course, only compounds the question marks.

The top performances in the meet were Proviso West's win in the four-mile relay in 17:42.5 (just five-tenths of a second off the best ever in the state), wins by Bloom's Dan Lueder in the shot put and the discus and John Stueck's 6-8 leap in the high jump for Proviso West.

The best showing for local teams was Maine East's second place finish in the four-mile relay in 17:52.1 with John Lovasz, Gary Marshak, Rick Phalen and Pat Moyer.

Palatine took third in the two-mile relay in 8:05.7 with sophomore Tom Glenn, Scott Williams, Fred Miller and Brian Barnett. Maine East was fifth in the same event with Mike Bell, Mike Siefert, Phalen and Moyer.

Rick Gurolnick took fifth place in the pole vault for Maine East with 12-0.

Perhaps the best place to find the pre-state meet favorite would be Alton where Lester (Bo) Scott may win it all by himself. Scott has the state's best marks in the 100-yard dash, the 440-yard dash and the long jump thus far this season. And 18 points have won a state meet before. And, besides that, Alton also has a state contending high jumper.

But if there still is hope for the Chica-goland area, he may have been at trackside limping slightly at Maine East Friday night.

Oh, yes, Howard Jones of Evanston can also win a state meet all by himself.

Fremd Captures Huskie Track Invite

Fremd, with a victory in the last event on the card, nosed past Maine East and hosting Hersey to capture the second annual running of the Huskie Invitational frosh-soph track meet.

Earlier the Vikings had also captured the 880 relay and their triumph in the mile relay proved to be their only other first place award of the night. But Fremd also placed in every race save two and rang up a trio of second place finishes to help ease them into their championship perch.

Seven meet records were shattered and another one tied despite the cool weather and the noticeable absence of at least one standout performer. The Vikes disposed of two of those standards with their relay efforts while individuals from Maines East and West, Rolling Meadows and Hersey also got into the mark altering act.

Fremd, in snaring the title that Palatine grabbed at the first offering of this annual affair, came away from the field events with just one point in tow. Sparked by Tom Bullen's two runnerup finishes in the 100 and 220 and his help on the 880 relay, the Vikings were up to 23 tallies and tied with Hersey two points shy of Maine East by the time the mile relay came around.

And the last runoff proved to be no contest. Fremd posted a 3:36.7 to easily outdistance Maine West for second place while the Demons snagged a third and Hersey a fourth.

The hosts gained their share of the individual attention and first place hardware anyway. Chris Cooney equaled a meet mark in the 440 with a winning 52.3 effort and Rich Hammesfahr joined with Mike Smith of Maine East to wipe out another record.

Both Smith and Hammesfahr cleared 6-1 in the high jump with Smith earning first place with the least number of misses. In the long distance runoffs, with Forest View's Jim Wise on the sidelines nursing an injury, Tom Burridge of the Huskies slipped into a frontrunner spot and grabbed first in the two-mile with a record 9:35.4 effort.

In the mile Burridge was nosed out at the finish line by Prospect's Mike Tyre, who carded a 4:24.7.

The most impressive individual showing was easily Mustang John Sloan's herculean shot put throw of 53-9½. It not only netted a first prize and easily erased the meet record but was his best toss of the season and right among the best in the whole Herald area this spring.

Another invite record fell in the discus with Bob Raconelli of Maine East unleashing a 134-1 toss to outdistance fine 130-foot-plus performances by Sloan and Falcon Craig Brinkman.

Other marks were eclipsed in the high hurdles and 880 run. Warrior Bill Klippert won the 120 highs with ease at 14.9 and later came back to post a 21.1 in winning the lows. In both instances Jay Maxwell of Glenbard North placed second and Conant's Jeff Barnett latched onto third.

In the 880, Greg Klebe of Maine West clocked in at 2:00.4 to best Mike Rohrer of Fremd by four-tenths of a second.

Bullen's pair of runnerup efforts in the dashes were overshadowed in each case by Forest View's Rick Mirro. Mirro was timed at 10.4 in winning the 100 and later breezed to a 23.8 triumph in the 220.

Other winners were Dave Hillert of Arlington and Bill Fasig of the Cougars. Hillert soared 12-3 to beat out Scott Clark of Conant and Pirate Doug Lindberg by four inches in capturing pole vault honors and Fasig leaped 19-5½ to just scrape past other 19-foot-plus efforts by Brad Cell of Schaumburg, Mike McCoslin of Palatine and Mike Baker of Hersey in the long jump.

The final team tally had Fremd with 34 points, Maine East with 33, Hersey with 30, Forest View with 25 and Maine West with 24. Conant was next in pursuit, followed by Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Arlington, Glenbard North, Prospect, Zion-Benton, Schaumburg, Elk Grove and Wheeling in that order.

FLASHY FRANK. Elk Grove's standout hurdler Frank Taucher displays his picturebook form in winning the 10-yard high hurdles with a time of :15.1 in the Falcon Invitational at Forest View Friday night. Taucher, who hold the top area time of :14.7 in the highs this year, paced the Grenadiers to a third-place finish.

Three Area Net Teams Post Impressive Wins

Three area tennis teams rolled to impressive victories in the only action Friday afternoon.

COUGARS UPSET LANCERS

Conant went to Roselle for a makeup meet and shocked the Tri-County Conference leaders on the efforts of Cougar singles players. The victories came like this:

Buddy Edmondson over Dwaine Hemmerle, 6-1, 6-2; Marty Rohr over Wes Johnson, 6-2, 6-2; and Jim Michaels over Dave Daugherty, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

The Lancer doub- team of Pat Nor-kett and Brian Arimura, downstate tourney veterans from 1971, handled Bruce Koehler and Mark Hennessy, 6-0, 6-1. Scott Frusolone and Tom Tierney stopped Eric Burseth and Mike Knop, 6-0, 6-3.

The Conant frosh-soph team lost 4½-½ in a meet called by darkness.

ST. VIATOR WINS EASILY

The Lions took Bishop McNamara of Kankakee in straight sets to stop a two-meet losing streak. The 5-0 victory went like this:

Mike McMahon over Bob Demarah, 6-1, 6-2; Mike Revnes over Jerry Johnson, 6-0, 6-3; Tom Wenzel over Jerry Klutcher, 6-2, 6-2; Mark Savage and Tom Meyer over Bill Veranda and Mark Vallancourt, 6-4, 9-7; and Tom Cole and Tom Marshall over Mark Moody and Matt Blais, 6-2, 6-3.

There was no frosh-soph meet scheduled because the Kankakee team doesn't have a team.

FREM D CRUSHES CARY

The Vikings had a pretty easy time of it against hosting Cary Grove. The 5-0 victory gave the boys of Coach Rick Galbens their third win of the season. The individual victories came this way:

The charming and colorfully quilted love seat is really a 'Petite' Sleep-Or-Lounge concealing a comfortable single bed inside. At the far left is a folding screen made of Masonite's Translucent Plastic Panels which provides privacy for the guest who may not wish to arise the moment family activity begins.

A CLOSEUP OF THE corner reveals that the sheets and blanket can be folded right up inside the Sleep-Or-Lounge. Masonite's folding screen can be built at home for about $50. Add fresh flowers, a tea tray and a good book to make your mother-in-law or other special guest feel right at home.

Do you panic when "his Mother" announces she's coming to visit? Is there a mad scramble to evict the children from their room? Do you try to create instant elegance amidst the debris of children's spider collections, ice skates and broken crayons?

Why not turn trauma into triumph by treating your Mother-In-Law to a delightful and private room of her own? After the visit, the area can revert back into a practical part of the family room, den or living room.

Kroehler Mfg. Co. and the Masonite Corp. teamed together to solve the problem of gracious entertaining in limited space and came up with sensible solutions that are all easily affordable.

The key to hospitality is privacy and comfort. Kroehler provided real comfort with a new loveseat size Sleep-Or-Lounge in a cheerful colorful quilted print. The sofa opens to reveal a single size bed and can be decoratively delightful with its own color coordinated bedding, that can fold up right inside. Masonite suggests making a folding screen to separate the sleeping area from the rest of the room.

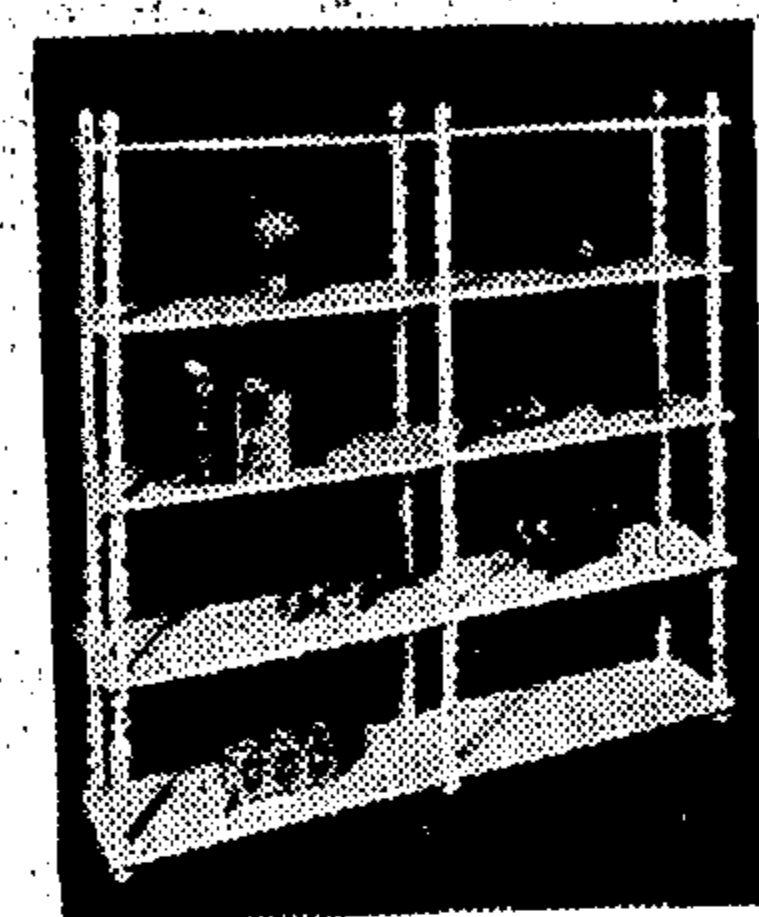

It is made of Masonite's new Translucent Plastic Panels in amber which have the appearance of bottle glass. The Sleep-Or-Lounge can be purchased for under $300. The three section folding screen complete with ready-made moldings can be made for under $50.

The visit will be a memorable event with the addition of a few more thoughtful touches. Flank the sleep sofa with good lighting for reading or sewing. In the table drawers, place writing paper and pens, aspirin, a manicure set and maybe even a bottle of her favorite cologne. Fresh flowers say welcome in a very special way. Select books for the shelves which you feel are of special interest to your guest and provide a small portable television, which can be rented for a few days if you don't have one.

A three drawer chest in walnut can give your guest storage space and allow her to tuck her suitcase away in a closet.

An interesting background for the Mother-In-Law room is provided with economical paneling. One wall is paneled in Masonite's deep textured Shale White with the look of rough sawn wood. It is complimented by the walnut grain of a "Living Wall" opposite. Adjustable shelf brackets snap simply and quickly into hidden slots in the random grooves of the Living Wall panels.

When not being used for the guest, this can be a wonderful and tranquil area for reading or for television viewing by anyone in the family.

Fan-Like Drive Eases Parking

Need off-street parking for guests? Provide it by redesigning your driveway.

Make it a fan shape, with 8 ft center spine two cars wide from street to garage. On either side of the center straight stretch, pave two sections, gently angled outward, to make the fan shape. Each section should accommodate a car's standard width and two thirds of its length, not counting the center strip. That provides space for six cars, four parked in the fan's outer sections, and two end to end in the center.

Each outer section of the parking fan should have a bumper strip at the far end. A length of 4x4 post laid on concrete piers will do nicely. Then, two feet back from the bumper strips, build screens of vertical louvers of spaced cedar 1x2s. This makes the parking area attractive seen from the street and conceals it nicely from an inside-the-house view.

The screens will also stop car lights from shining into house windows as guests' autos pull up and park.

Paneling, Lights Improve Ceiling

Here's an idea for dressing up a boxy entrance hall. Panel the ceiling, bringing the paneling down the walls one foot. Then add a soffit for indirect lighting, matching lumber for the soffit to the ceiling panel boards.

Suggested paneling species are western red cedar, western hemlock, incense cedar, and ponderosa pine. The pine looks especially elegant with a platinum rez finish.

Additional lighting, if required, can be furnished by wall sconces or a swag light hung over a console table.

ABC's Of Clean-Up

Do you know your ABC's when it comes to Spring Clean-Up?

Attic, Basement and Closets are the ABC's which need special attention at home clean-up time and year 'round, too.

These are the areas of the house where combustible clutter and rubbish tend to accumulate, ready to burst into destructive fire when hit by the least little spark, flame or other source of ignition.

"Know Your ABC's" and start now to clear Attic, Basement and Closets of combustibles.

THE OLD AND THE NEW is mixed well in this "switched on" teen room, where solids, strips and patterns are combined for a "total effect." Traditional product uses went out the window. The bed covering, for instance, is a pink and wooly bathroom rug! The fern green Marlite paneling, which comes in 16 inch by 8 foot prefinished planks, ordinarily is installed vertically. Here, it was put up horizontally and accented with a colorful paisley pattern.

Happy Fence Helps House Site; Size, Styling, Plantings Vital

A fence is one of man's best friends. But how to make it look attractive is a problem that besets many homeowners.

It's not always the size or the pattern of the fence that determines appearance. More often it's the way the fence is placed and worked into the overall setting. Handled properly, even the flush board fence can win a beauty contest.

Think of a fence as you think of a house. Both are structures that must enhance and be enhanced by their surroundings. Both must marry to the site to look as though they had been grown rather than built. The logical way to work a fence into a garden is to make it an integral part of the planting plan. It must at all times serve as a backdrop for plant materials, and a careful relationship of heights and masses must be established between structure and plantings.

Because the eye should never see a right-angle junction between fence and ground, base planting should be included even when screens are built around a patio or terrace. If that's not possible, use tubbed greenery or a low, backless garden bench to accomplish the same purpose.

On sloping ground, the fence can be built in sections that step up and down gracefully, the top line of each section always maintaining a true horizontal.

A stepped fence also may be used to give a flat lot the illusion of slope or to ease a tall section of privacy screen into lower, decorative fencing.

A wise homeowner will also exploit the natural texture and coloring of wood. For specialized purposes such as entrance yard fencing, a painted finish matching the house may be best. Usually, however, the soft browns, golden beiges and silver of stained or weathered wood are the most complementary for any use.

Resawn and rough sawn textures are favored because they're as natural to the outdoors as any leaf or petal.

No fence can look attractive unless it's well constructed. Fence posts must be firmly with a third of their overall length below ground. An eight-foot spacing between posts is suggested for most styles and will provide the needed rigidity.

Only woods of proven outdoor quality assure a fence that looks and wears well. Western red cedar, incense cedar, Douglas fir and white fir are four that can be used without hesitation.

Preservative treating of posts and other members in direct contact with the ground is recommended for garden use of any wood.

Redeem Floors

Wood floors always can be redeemed, even if battle scarred by years of abuse. Have them professionally sanded — it's too ticklish a job for an amateur — then refinish to obtain the shade preferred. Deep tones will cover bad stains that can't be removed by bleaching or sanding.

Decorate Teen Room To Reflect Personality

Since teens just naturally gravitate to youthful fashions that are "with it," three young members of the Midwest Chapter of the National Society of Interior Designers joined forces to create a "switched on" teen room.

While admittedly busy, the designers — Jeffrey Smoler, Mary Kathleen McInerney and Denise De Lorenzo — point out that the room reflects the personality and tastes of a style-conscious young lady who registers no qualms about mixing solids, stripes and pattern with textured and smooth surfaces and a touch of the old with the new to create a "total effect."

Starting at the walls, the designers decided on an unusual application for Marlite decorator planks. Tongue-and-grooved fern green paneling, which comes in 16" x 8' prefinished planks, was installed horizontally on wall surfaces and topped with a colorful paisley wall covering. The same pattern is repeated in the fabric selected for the window treatment, skirted table and pillows.

To break up the swirl of pattern and color, the designers decided on white fixed furnishings. White striping on flooring and walls also adds relief while accenting the horizontal plane.

The designers made an unusual selection for a bed covering. It's a fire pink wooly carpet, more common to bath than boudoir. The 4' x 6' area rug weaves a subtle geometric pattern into the room while its bright green color tone is repeated on the whimsical mushroom stools. Wall hangings pick up the white and pink colors highlighted on the flooring.

The old and new mix is seen in the skirted tablecloth and traditional Tiffany-styled hanging lamp.

Moisten Your Air For Greater Home Comfort

Many people have become habitually timid about touching metallic objects or other persons in their homes during the winter months. It's because of the annoying shock they get when their fingers come into contact with the objects.

The unpleasant but harmless little shocker is static electricity that accumulates because of a lack of moisture in the air. It can be eliminated, with no fuss or bother, by means of an electric humidifier.

Appliance dealers are now showing various makes and models suitable for homes, apartments, offices and a host of other locations. They overcome the static problem simply by introducing moisture into the air.

One leading model has a water wheel which absorbs moisture from a water container in the machine and a small fan disperses it through the top of the unit. The easily accessible reservoir can be filled without removal from the unit although it can be taken out for occasional cleaning.

Speed of the fan and water wheel is controlled by a transistorized, solid state sensor. The sensor diminishes or increases speed to insure an unwaveringly uniform humidity level. The unit will not operate when the reservoir is empty. A gauge on the control panel shows when the reservoir needs refilling, the unit automatically shuts off and a refill light glows red.

There are several makes from which to choose, in various sizes and price ranges. With a remedy so easily attainable, it isn't sensible to let static make you traumatic.

MORE ACOUSTICAL and decorating ceiling tiles and panels are used in bedrooms than in any other rooms in the home, it was revealed in a recent survey by The Celotex Corporation, a subsidiary of Jim Walter Corporation, national manufacturer of building and construction materials. Bedrooms outranked kitchens, living rooms and the family/den room by almost 10 per cent. Also, the study showed more men selected tiles or panels than women.

Village-Police Salary, Benefit Talks Break Down

by STEVE BROWN

Negotiations between Hoffman Estates village officials and police over salary and fringe benefit increases have completely broken down after eight weeks of meetings, according to representatives of the Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) in the department.

Reportedly, village officials have said they do not care if the police are the lowest paid in the Northwest suburban area.

The details of the bargaining breakdown were learned of Sunday. FOP representatives said the village has offered only a 5.3 per cent and additional hospitalization benefits.

The FOP was recognized in 1969 as the official negotiators for the police officers.

FOP REPRESENTATIVES stressed that their main reason for making the negotiations breakdown public was to influence village trustees to reopen talks. Details of the negotiations had been secret.

"There will be no strike, threats of work stoppages, blue flu or anything like that," one of the representatives emphasized.

The representatives said it appears village officials would like to end the working agreement with the FOP. They speculate that in the future salaries and fringe benefits would be submitted by the village manager and approved by the board without any discussions with the police.

Mayor Frederick Downey declined to comment on whether the village intends to drop the FOP out of the police salary picture.

HE SAID the police salary issue was on the agenda for last night's village board meeting, but declined to speculate on what action the board might take.

He said a letter was sent to the police outlining what the board intended to do.

FOP representatives said they have asked for a 5.5 per cent salary increase, longevity pay and increased hospitalization and disability benefits.

They said the initial request, which has been reduced substantially, is less than requests made in previous years.

THE VILLAGE'S final offer included a $400 salary increase for officers with three years service. The FOP cut their request to $560. Officers with less than 3 years would get smaller increases. Starting pay would increase from $9,400 to $9,600.

The FOP spokesmen said many of the officers have less than three years service. They added that the increased medical benefits would cover the families of married officers and that unmarried officers would get even less from the new salary scale. Seven of the department's 32 men are unmarried.

FOP representatives said their last offer to the village was called "a lot of crap" by Downey.

The men said the village has never attempted to explain why the village could not meet the salary requests. They said morale on the department was low and that several officers have left in the past year because of low salaries.

A SURVEY, compiled by the Schaumburg Police Department last year, revealed the Hoffman Estates police ranked among the lowest paid for villages of similar population in this area.

The increase proposed by the village would not raise them from that position.

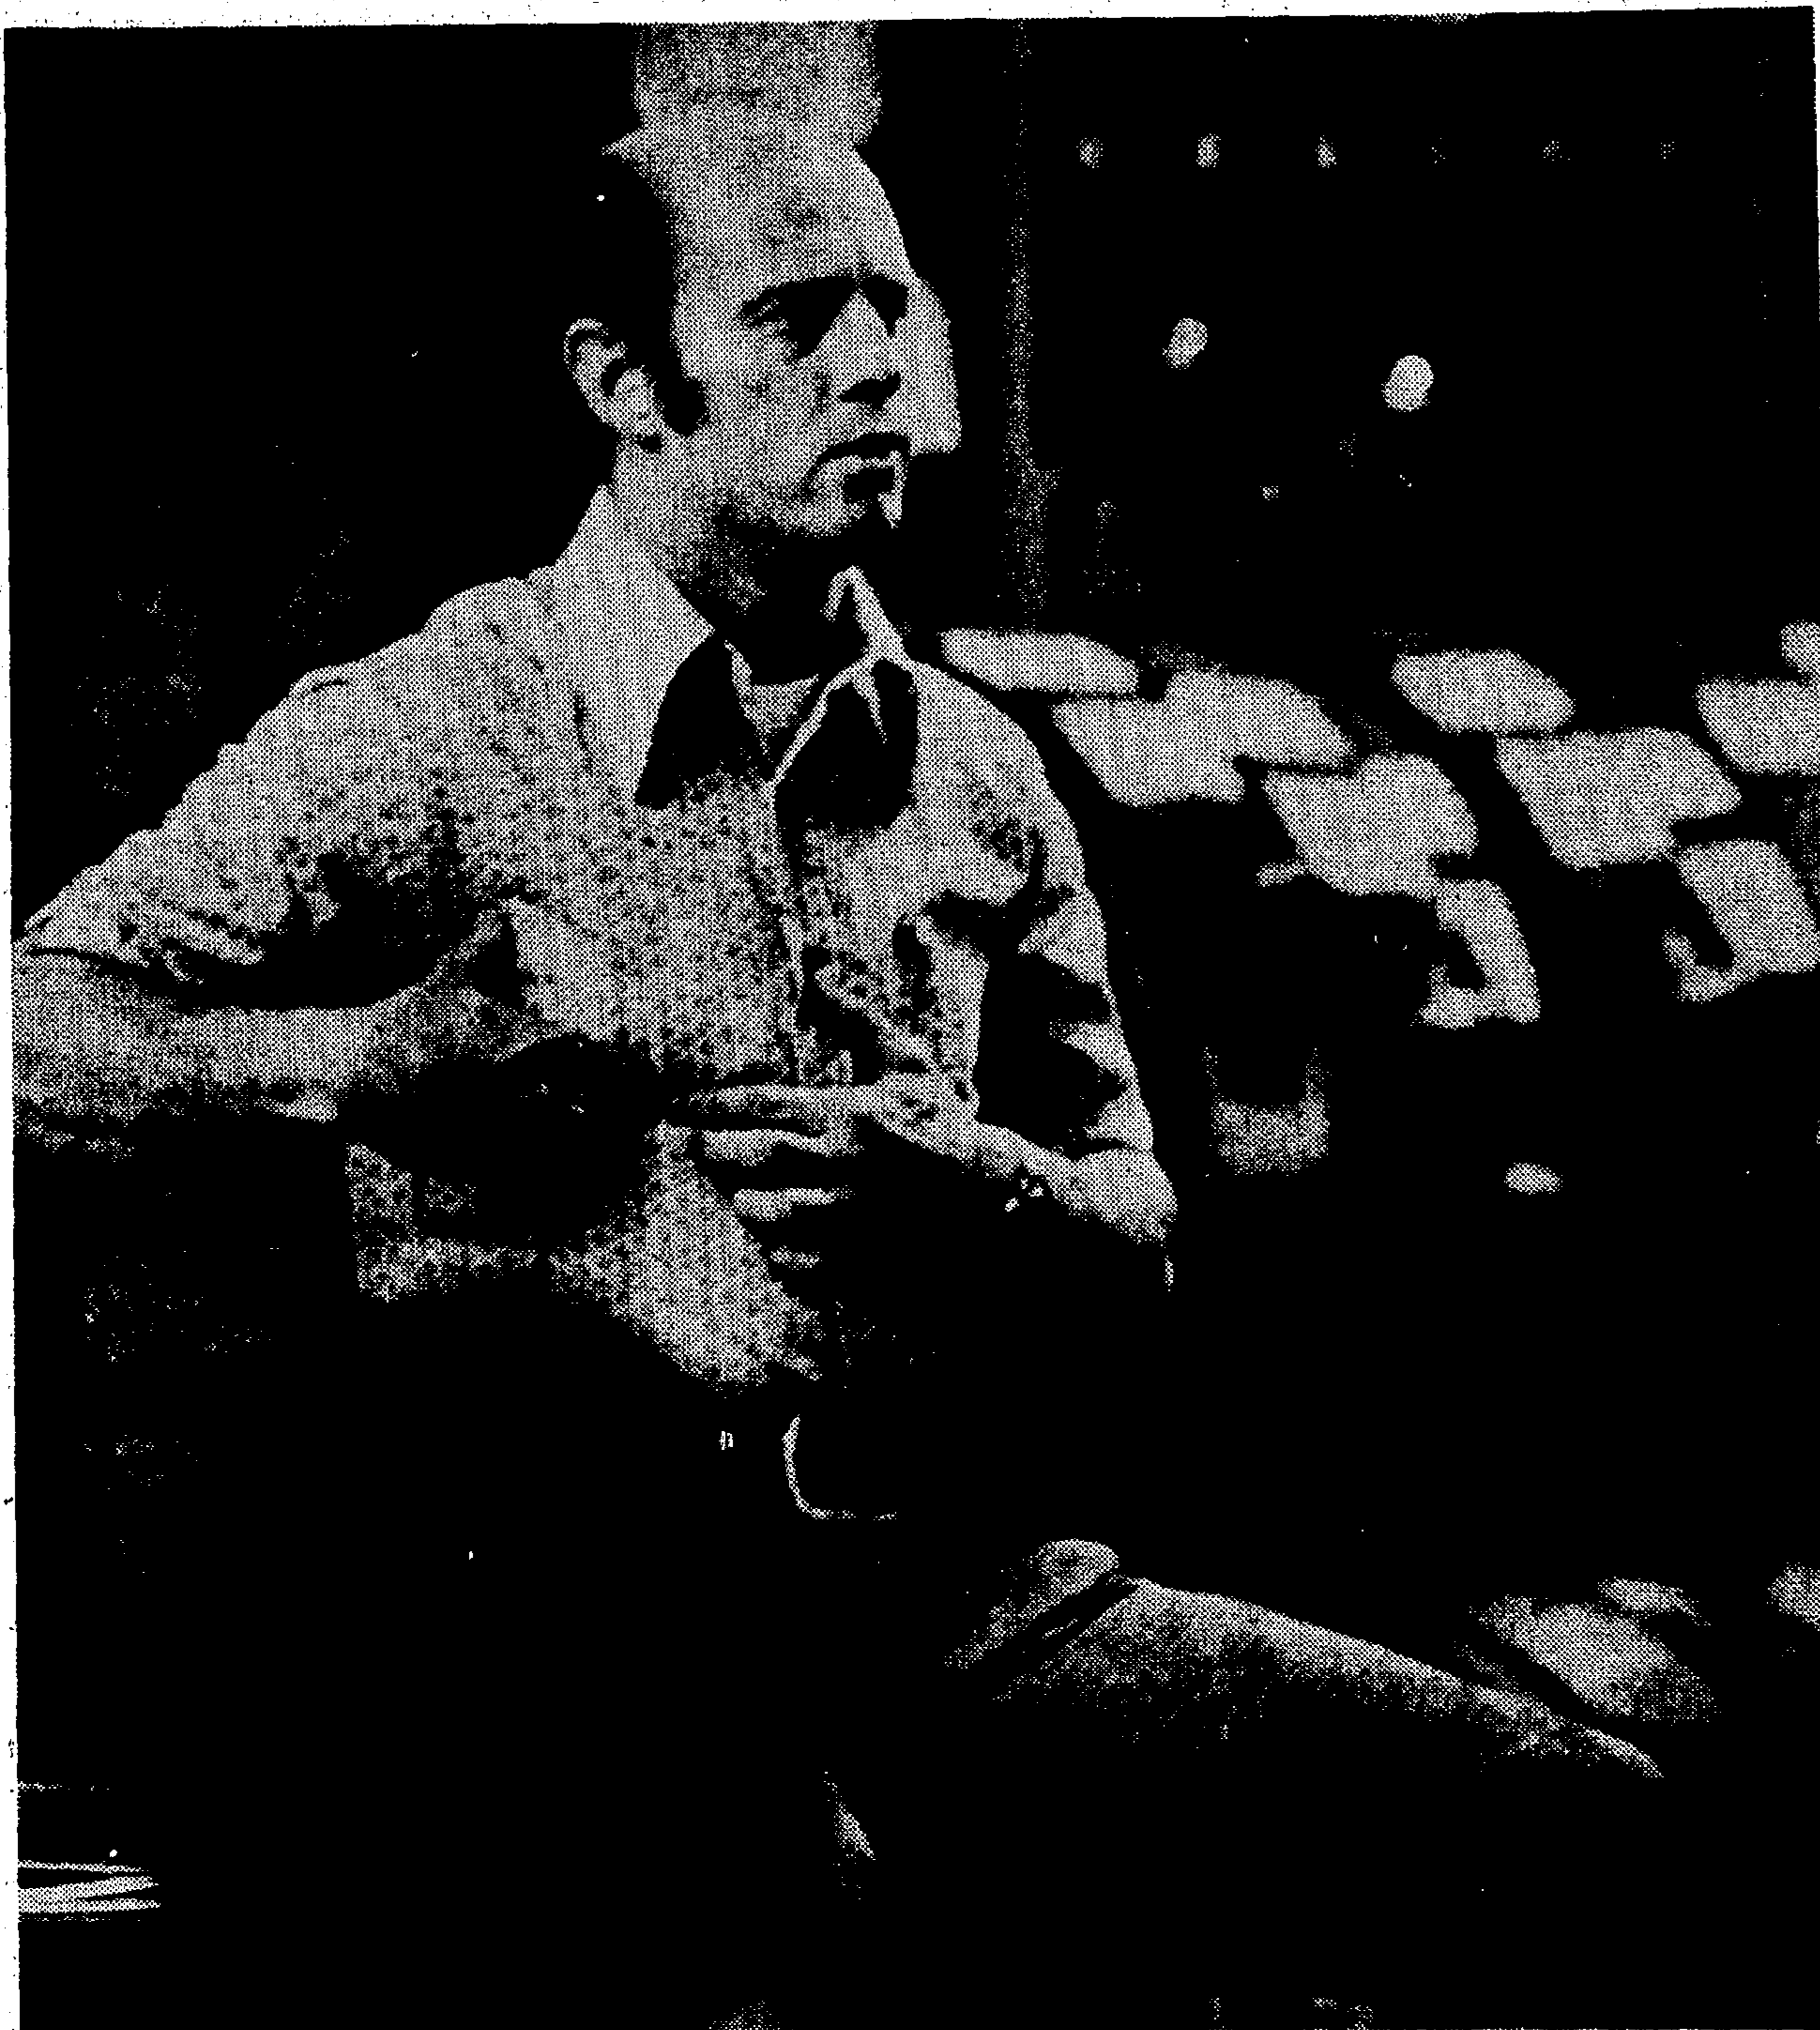

"We want to negotiate, we don't want to be hard nose on the issue," one FOP representative said.

"We just want to be recognized as human beings, we don't want to be pushed around," another added.

THE FOP is a civic organization according to the spokesmen. The group sponsors a Little League team, provides speakers for other groups in the village and is involved in a number of other projects.

The group each year functions in a labor relations role to negotiate salaries with the village. The FOP is affiliated with a national organization, but the body is not a union.

All of the Hoffman Estates police are members of the FOP.

ARM OF A DOCTOR is what Dr. Stanley Zydlo calls the 220 firefighters and police officers he is currently teaching to be Emergency Medical Technicians. Zydlo, on leave from emergency room work at Northwest Community Hospital, is preparing these men for what he believes will be a vastly improved emergency treatment program throughout the Northwest suburbs.

Fund For Scott Novak, 10, Nears $1,000

Within two weeks of its establishment, a fund to offset medical expenses of Scott Novak of Schaumburg, has climbed to nearly $1,000.

Several additional thousands are also expected to boost the fund at Schaumburg State Bank, established by neighbors of the ten-year-old Weathersfield area boy through telephone pledges received in a Des Plaines FM radio station (WYEN) telethon late last week.

Scott, son of Donna and Bill Novak, of 423 Westover Ln., has been a patient at Chicago's Children's Memorial Hospital for some time. A victim of Von Recklinghausen's disease, a tumor causing affliction affecting the central nervous system, Scott has experienced major surgery nine times.

During a stint in an intensive care unit earlier this year, costs exceeded $400 daily causing neighbors and friends to establish the fund.

A RECENT ADDITION to the growing fund is the $200 donation from the Schaumburg Rotary Club.

Commissions from a World Gift Show benefit held Sunday at Meineke Community Center totaled $138.

Mrs. Joan Guzaldo, 612 Donna Ct., was winner of a Spanish swag lamp raffled as part of the benefit for Scott.

Neighbors will hold a car wash Saturday at Ron's Union 76 Service Station, Schaumburg and Springguth roads, to further boost donations.

COST IS $1 PER car (fill-up is optional) and the operation will be in progress from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Proceeds from a children's film festival, also being held Saturday, at Jane Addams Junior High School, will be donated to the Scott Novak account at Schaumburg State Bank.

Admission is 25 cents per child and viewings of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs and a Roadrunner cartoon will be at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Other recent contributions have been noted from Schaumburg Jaycees and Jayettes, Weathersfield Pharmacy, Delta Theta Tau (Chicago chapter), and groups of neighbors in Weathersfield.

Expected this week also is a contribution from Schaumburg Woman's Club.

Donations may be made directly to Schaumburg State Bank for the Scotty Novak Fund or by calling Mrs. Sylvia Suberlak, 894-4841.

Vocational Pupils Receive Awards

Awards were presented recently to students in the Schaumburg High School Vocational Industrial Club at a dinner given by the students for their employers.

Wayne Kuecker and Beth Luchek were named male and female students of the year. Kem Rejha received an award for perfect attendance and John Roese was named most improved student. In addition, Rich Iemole, class president, received an award for leadership for his work on the banquet.

Guest speakers for the banquet were Sal Santangelo, plant manager for National Can Co., and Clare Sopko, general foreman of National Can Co.

Emergency Medical Technicians In Training

220 Men Become 'Arm Of The Doctor'

BY STEVE BROWN

What good is a hospital full of space age technology and equipment when the patient arrives at the emergency room dead?

None, is the answer to that question, but in the next few months at least one area doctor hopes a new training program will help more emergency cases arrive in time for treatment.

The doctor is Stanley Zydlo and the reason behind his optimism for the future is the 220 men he is training as "Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT)" in this area.

"These men will be a new breed of cat," Zydlo says.

He said the 100-hour training course that is currently being taken by firefighters, police officers and private ambulance attendants will make them eligible to take a test to make them licensed medical technicians.

ZYDLO SAID that while the men will be trained to operate and administer electrocardiograms (EKG), intravenous transfusions, and certain drugs that they will always be in direct communications with doctors.

"These men will become an arm of the doctor," he said. The EMT program, which involves firefighters from almost all the Northwest suburbs, will be fully activated this summer. Communications and telemetry equipment will be placed in both Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village.

Much of the program's emphasis has been placed on treating heart attack victims. The mobile EKG units and defibrillators will enable doctors to monitor and treat these cases while they are in transit to the hospital.

"Over 70 per cent of these cases die before they reach the hospital," Zydlo says. The most dramatic impact from the training course should be seen in this area.

The 38-year-old doctor said that while the men have only been attending classes for five weeks, the results of the course are already being seen.

"Now when a patient is brought in, the ambulance attendants will be able to provide a medical history, details of the accident and other pertinent data," Zydlo says, pointing to the increased quality of service being offered.

The former Air Force flight surgeon said this program is the first of its kind in Illinois. He said similar programs have been in effect in Los Angeles, Miami and Hartford, Conn., for several years. Illinois is three years behind these areas.

"These men won't replace the doctors and nurses, but they will go a long way in improving the service and giving the taxpayer more for his dollar," Zydlo says.

WHILE THIS initial training course ends next month, Zydlo is planning refresher sessions and hoping that one of the area colleges will take over the training full-time.

Before starting the program Zydlo worked in the emergency room at Northwest Community Hospital.

He would like to see a fully standardized national program for this type of training.

Maybe then he will not have to ask about the value of modern equipment. The EMT program will put it in the range of all patients.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has ordered a naval blockade of North Vietnamese ports including Haiphong, to deny Hanoi "the weapons and supplies it needs to continue aggression. These actions are not directed against any other nation," Nixon said. Other countries with ships in North Vietnam's harbors "have been notified their ships will have three daylight periods to leave" in safety. "There is only one way to stop the killing," a grim Nixon told a radio and television address to the nation. "That is to keep the weapons of war out of the hands of the international outlaws of North Vietnam."

Amid rumors of a new allied counter-offensive, or a blockade of Haiphong harbor, President Nixon met for three hours with the National Security Council prior to making a nationwide televised speech last night.

The three leading candidates for the Democratic Party's presidential nomination — Hubert Humphrey, George McGovern, and George Wallace, headed into showdown primaries today in Nebraska and West Virginia.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie accused Democratic challenger Daniel Walker of using campaign tactics similar to those of a Nazi propagandist.

Afternoon classes at Western Illinois University were canceled so that workmen could attempt to trace and repair power line breaks that caused a massive electrical failure on the Macomb campus.

Honduran soldiers searched the jungles for the third day without finding a trace of the hijacker of an Eastern Airlines jet who parachuted Saturday with $303,000 in ransom.

The World

The Communist Party Central Committee met to expel four former party leaders accused of attempting to divide Yugoslavia by promoting nationalism in the country's Croatian Republic.

Three Arab guerrillas hijacked a Belgian Sabena airliner over Europe and flew it to Tel Aviv where they threatened to blow up the plane and 99 persons aboard unless Israel released guerrilla captives from Israeli jails.

The War

The U.S. Command said American warplanes attacked a North Vietnamese military training base 15 miles west of Hanoi, but the Communists said the raids were directed against river dikes in an attempt to cut off the country's food supply. Radio Hanoi said planes bombed along the Red River in the heart of the crop-producing region to try to flood the rice fields. The U.S. Command denied jets bombed the dikes.

BOUNDARIES BETWEEN Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates came down like the walls of Jericho Saturday when residents of both towns united, under the umbrella of PROJECT HELP, to mutually improve their surroundings.

Miles of roadway, from Algonquin Road south to Irving Park Road, were cleared of rubbish and debris by teams of neighbors working side by side.

The joint-community effort, first of its kind in the area, will continue Saturday with plantings in both villages and wind up May 20 when creekbeds in both areas are cleared.

Will the new found unity abruptly end at that point? Many observers tend to feel the alliance could continue to press for continued accord between two communities which have often been at swords points in the past.

If these predictions prove correct, closer harmony between the two communities may have been achieved... not in hushed diplomatic negotiations over a conference table... but through friendly clasp of neighbors hands over a homely litter basket. The environment, after all, is an encompassing subject!

IN SCHAUMBURG, quite a few people are calling Barry Goldberg a copy cat! In his campaign for election as Jaycees president, Barry is rumored to have distributed a number of Burt Reynolds-type photos of himself... but you can't prove it by this reporter.

"It's all just a big put-on," quipped his opponent, Tim Smith.

Anyway, the election was held last night so by this time (in or out of the buff) things have been decided and maybe we'll see whether or not clothes make the man.

FOLLOWING CLOSELY the footsteps of recent action taken in Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates will this week hire a full-time sanitarian.

AN AD HOC airport study committee functioning in Schaumburg is fortunate to have home grown talent available in the form of Bill McHugh, a Timbercrest resident, employed by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

Said to be highly regarded for expertise in such matters, McHugh may serve as FAA liaison with the local group helping to guide them through steps required in processing a master planning grant application.

DO YOU suppose Schaumburg Township Democrats really are disillusioned with leadership displayed by their present committeeman? Reports that John F. Morrissey will soon be replaced by a far different personality type continue to flourish.

SEND CHEER to Barb Vidmar, of Evanston's St. Francis Hospital... and also to Conant senior Jerry Manzardo, recuperating at home in Hoffman Estates, following the setting of a badly broken leg suffered in a gym class soccer mishap last week.

And, condolences to HE Trustee Bruce Lind on the recent death of his father.

ACCORDING TO THE Bard of Jones Road, happiness often sneaks in through a door you didn't know had been left open.

Village Crackdown On Stickers, Pools

The village of Schaumburg is cracking down on violators of ordinances applying to vehicle stickers and swimming pools, according to Village Clerk Sandy Carsello.

Mrs. Carsello's office is cross-checking lists of persons who have purchased 1972 village vehicle registration stickers with lists for water bill mailing.

From these, Mrs. Carsello said, she can determine which residents have not yet bought stickers and send them letters of reminder. While some of those persons may not own cars, said Mrs. Carsello, most do and they generally respond by purchasing the stickers.

Response has been so successful in the past that she never has had to turn over a list of persons to the police department for issuing tickets.

The village ordinance provides a fine of up to $200 for failure to purchase a sticker for a car registered with the state under a name and address in the village.

SWIMMING POOLS also are regulated by village ordinance, and residents planning to use a home swimming pool for the summer are urged to read the ordinance before preparing their pools for use. Copies of the ordinance may be purchased from Mrs. Carsello's office for $1. Permits are required for any pools more than 24 inches deep or covering a surface area more than 250 square feet. Pool owners who have not obtained permits or whose pools do not conform to the ordinance, may be subject to fine.

The ordinance regulates fencing and electrical wiring for filters and pumps, and is to eliminate potential safety hazards in private pools.

"A letter and a copy of the pool ordinance will be sent to prime violators, so that there can be no misunderstanding as to the village's position on enforcing the ordinance," said Hy Yeargin, village violations officer.

Yeargin also noted permits are required for sheds, fences, patios and out buildings, with fines stipulated for violators.

"In the past, the village has not had the manpower to enforce all of these ordinances, but now the village will keep strict control over violators," said Yeargin.

Liquor License Injunction Is Sought

A temporary injunction barring the Hoffman Estates Village Board from holding a public hearing into conflicting requests for the Dale House restaurant's liquor license was to have been sought this morning by Twinbrook Investment, Inc.

Roger Gilbert, Hoffman Estates, who last week told the board he represented Twinbrook, said yesterday afternoon a petition seeking the injunction would be filed this morning. He was to deliver notices of the filing late yesterday to Mayor Frederick Downey, who also is liquor commissioner; Village Atty. Edward Hofert and Village Clerk Virginia Netter. Notice already had been served on Multicon Properties, Inc., who also seeks the license, said Gilbert.

The hearing is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Thursday before the village board. If the injunction is granted by Cook County Chancery Court Judge Nathan Cohen, it will not be allowed until after a decision is reached in a suit Twinbrook has filed against Multicon to determine legal rights of possession of the Dale House.

Hofert said he would appear in court on the matter, but did not expect to argue against the injunction. The village will abide by any directive from the court, he said.

MULTICON AND Twinbrook both requested a liquor license for the Dale House from the village. The hearing was scheduled at the May 1 village board meeting. The hearing is to determine which of the applicants has legal right to the license.

Multicon now has possession of the restaurant. Twinbrook filed the Chancery Court action claiming Multicon obtained it illegally.

Roy Whitehead, regional supervisor for Multicon, last week said his firm questioned the legality of holding the liquor license hearing, and hinted his firm might not send a representative.

8 Day Caravan Open To Boys In Jr. High

Registration is open for an 8-day summer "Caravan" being sponsored by the Twinbrook YMCA. The trip, which leaves in July, will travel through Minnesota and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

The program is open to junior high school boys in the area. The group will travel by bus and camp each night at various campgrounds in the two states.

Swimming, fishing, sports, sightseeing and hiking are only a few of the planned activities according to the organizers.

Paul Lauver will direct the caravan. He reports openings exist for interested boys. Cost will be $59 for "Y" members, and $64 for non-members. For more information call the "Y" at 894-8500.

Library Panel OKs More Construction Contracts

Still contemplating a late July completion date for the addition to the Schaumburg Township Public Library, board directors last week approved additional construction contracts.

The members approved allotting $25,000 for development of 74 parking stalls on the undeveloped parking lot owned by the library. It will be adjacent to the present lot on Pleasant Drive. This will bring a total of 197 parking stalls on library parking lots.

Michael Madden, librarian, added the adjoining Baptist Church lot of 50 or 60 spaces could also be used in emergency.

A $1,300 expense for building a concrete truck ramp instead of the black top ramp originally planned was also approved.

In order to blend the older library facility with the new addition that uses copper facade, the overhang of the old section will be covered with copper at $1,865.

THE LIBRARY directors also decided to renew a service contract with Murphy and Miller for maintenance of the older building's air conditioning and heating systems.

A bid proposal from Honeywell to give limited service maintenance on the new portion of the library was turned down by the board.

The members noting the new section would be under one year warranty voted against a maintenance contract in addition to the warranty.

Asked to consider partial covering and landscaping of the creek at the rear of the property line the board members decided to study the issues further when told it would cost $18,000.

The contractor had recommended cleaning out the creekbed and extending the 48 inch culvert installed by the church up to the border of the library property. However, he also recommended 60 feet of the creek remain open at the west end of the property, and about 30 feet at the east end, to allow storm water to run in.

Board member Harold Bond said if safety were a concern he would prefer complete enclosure of the creekbed. He urged the contractor to check into other methods of solving what might be a landscaping problem instead of a safety problem. The creek bed is normally about 10 inches deep, however at peak flood could reach four foot depths at spots.

In other action the trustees strenuously opposed passage of House Bill 1446 which would provide payment for attendance at regular board meetings.

In answer to a request for comment from a member of the Regional Library Advisory Council the Schaumburg library board directors unanimously were against receiving payment of up to $35 per meeting for their elective board posts.

Houchins Says He'll Quit Race Against Rep. Crane

by BOB LAHEY

Charles W. Houchins of Mount Prospect yesterday informed Democratic leaders of the new 12th Congressional District that he is withdrawing as the candidate attempting to unseat Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Houchins declined to discuss the reasons for his withdrawal, other than to describe them as "complex and personal."

Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman, said he believed Houchins withdrew because of lack of support among the committeemen in the farflung district, which includes 11 townships in two counties.

Chesney, who was instrumental in persuading Houchins to run for Congress, said there were no individuals to blame for the lack of financial and organizational support. "It's a complicated district, and we just haven't got it organized properly yet," Chesney said.

Daniel Pierce, state representative from Highland Park and Democratic state central committeeman for the 12th District, said a replacement will be found to oppose Crane in the November election.

HOUCHINS, 47, an attorney of Borg-Warner Corp., said he had informed Democratic leaders in the district that he will support any qualified candidate whom they pick for the race against Crane.

Pierce said he believed there would be a number of candidates willing to make the race against Crane. He pointed out that, while the results may be misleading, Houchins attracted more than 26,000 votes in the Democratic primary election, while Crane's total in the Republican primary was less than 21,000.

According to statute, a replacement candidate may be named by the Democratic township committeemen in Cook County, the Lake County chairman, and Pierce as state central committeeman.

The 12th District includes Wheeling, Palatine, Barrington, Schaumburg, Hanover and Elk Grove townships in Cook County; and Elia, Vernon, Libertyville, Deerfield and West Deerfield townships in Lake County.

Students To Visit The Inner City

About 100 Conant High School students will take three field trips to the inner city today, the last in a series of trips designed to acquaint students with the lives of members of minority groups.

The students, all seniors in a required social science survey class, were each able to choose one trip in the series, according to Robert Lyons, chairman of the social studies department.

One trip, to Dunbar High School on Chicago's South Side, will focus on black life and will duplicate a trip taken recently to DuSable High School, also in a predominantly black area, Lyons said.

The second trip, titled "Puerto Ricans in Chicago," will include visits to the Department of Labor of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico; Casa Central, a Puerto Rican agency in Uptown; and Senn High School.

The third group, Lyons said, will visit the American Indian Center, Japanese American Service Committee, St. Theresa Chinese Catholic Mission, the Chicago Urban League and the Office of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. Students will have lunch in Chinatown.

Previously, students from the social science class have taken 11 trips to the city, to meet blacks, Puerto Ricans and other minorities, Lyons said. At the end of the three trips today each of the seniors will have met a member of a minority group face to face, he said. "The purpose is to give them a better understanding of other people," he added.

372 Teens Walk For The March Of Dimes

Three hundred seventy-two high school students from Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Palatine and Rolling Meadows completed a 17 mile walkathon to earn approximately $6,000 in pledges for the March of Dimes.

According to March of Dimes representatives in Chicago, the Northwest Suburban student walkathon brought in an average of $20 in cash pledges from each teen who completed the 17 mile walk.

James B. Conant High School in Hoffman Estates was the starting point for the walkers who faced blustery winds and rainy weather.

Palatine Resident Dies In Fire

A small basement fire, apparently started from a burning cigaret, took the life of Dan Del Garza, 48, 562 W. Colfax St. Palatine, early Monday.

The fire, confined to the basement, started shortly after midnight in the two-story house, according to Palatine Fire Chief Orville Helms. Firemen found Del Garza's body a short distance from the bed, which had been destroyed by the flames.

Helms said Del Garza's death was due to smoke inhalation. Del Garza's cousin, Ben, Ben's wife and their eight children who lived in the rest of the house escaped unharmed from the blaze.

Helms said the fire was detected by Mrs. Del Garza when she smelled smoke coming from the basement where Dan lived alone. The blaze already damaged telephone lines from the house, preventing a call to report the fire.

A Palatine police car on patrol was stopped by Ben Del Garza on Colfax Street to alert them of the fire. Police then notified the fire department.

Dan Del Garza had been employed for seven or eight years by his cousin in his business, Ben's Septic Tank and Sewer Service at the Colfax Street address.

Panel To Study Eligibility List For New Firemen

Two Village of Wheeling commissions will have simultaneous meetings tonight in the village municipal building.

The zoning board of appeals will meet in the council chambers to consider requests for sign variations at the new Clark Oil Co. station at Strong Street and Milwaukee Avenue, plans for a shopping center on Elmhurst Road at North Street, and rezoning for an engineering office at 400 S. Milwaukee Ave.

The village fire and police commission, meeting in the committee room, is scheduled to establish an eligibility list for hiring three new village firemen.

The list of eligible men from a recent test will also be in effect for any additional firemen hired during the new fiscal year.

THE THREE new posts, which were authorized in the budget for the last fiscal year, will bring the fire department up to 18 men.

The fire and police commission also plans to discuss a letter from William Hoos, a patrolman assigned to the investigative division, who is president of the Combined Counties Police Association, Wheeling chapter.

A date for testing applicants for the police department is also to be set at the commission meeting.

The police department currently is short two men and there is no current eligibility list of men who have passed the department test.

Roger Stricker, village director of public safety, said additional police positions may also be filled from this test group if the village board approves additional policemen in the new village budget.

THE FIRE and police commission meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

The zoning board hearings are scheduled at 8, 8:30 and 9 p.m. this evening.

The 8 p.m. hearing on the Clark Oil Station sign variations concerns the same piece of property the village refused to rezone for a gas station several years ago.

The village's refusal to allow a new station on the corner was based on the fact that another station had failed there and that a vacant station stood on the property for many years.

HOWEVER, THE oil company took the village to court on the refusal for the rezoning and the station was allowed by the court.

At tonight's hearing the oil company is seeking permission to put the signs at the new station closer to the street than would normally be allowed under village ordinances.

At 8:30 p.m. the zoning board will consider a request from the Dominion Development Co. to rezone property at the southwest corner of North Street and Elmhurst Road from single-family home zoning to retail business district zoning.

A neighborhood shopping center is proposed on the property.

AT 9 P.M. the zoning board will consider rezoning for an engineering office for Robert Neukranz and Associates at 400 S. Milwaukee Ave. The request is for general business district zoning on the property which currently has residential zoning.

The zoning board will make recommendations on all three of the requests to the village board, which has the final say on rezonings and variations.

Miss Buffalo Grove Contest Is Saturday

One of nine young women from Wheeling and Buffalo Grove will become Miss Buffalo Grove at the second annual pageant Saturday night at the James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School Auditorium.

The 18 and 19-year-old queen candidates were announced in April, and have been preparing for the show since then. In addition to individual talent presentations, they will also participate in a group opening number.

The show will begin at 8 p.m. with Larry "The Legend" Johnson of WIND radio as master of ceremonies.

Each girl will participate in swim suit, and will be asked a question taken from a previous interview.

Buffalo Grove Jaycees, sponsors of the pageant, set up a committee, headed by Patti Gass and Carole Guanci, to interview each applicant and make sure they met the requirements. Judging will be done by official Miss America judges, making the winner eligible for the Miss Illinois pageant this summer.

The contestants are: Linda Albrecht, 18, of 290 Melinda Ln., Buffalo Grove; Sandy Horkman, 18, of 13 Beechwood Ct., Buffalo Grove; Cora Rita Jones, 18, of 510 Burnt Ember, Buffalo Grove; Karen Meyer, 19, of 1205 Saratoga Dr., Wheeling; Mary Muzzy, 19, of 4 Regent Ct., Buffalo Grove; Sandy Red, 18, of 435 Regent, Buffalo Grove; Denise Ruckman, 18, of 490 Isa Dr., Wheeling; Maureen Stroup, 18, of 818 Beechwood Rd., Buffalo Grove; and Nance Warf, 18, of 16 E. Willow Rd., Wheeling.

Tickets for the pageant are on sale at four locations in Buffalo Grove: the municipal building, Lieberman Realty, Foremost Liquor Store at the Buffalo Grove Mall and Rose-Lynn Flooring. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Lynn Ann Kloman will end her one-year reign as Miss Buffalo Grove when the new queen is named.

Harmons Off To Ohio For 210-Mile Ride

Mr. and Mrs. Willard H. Harmon of 356 Robert Ave., Wheeling, will be among 2,200 bicycle riders participating in the 11th Annual Tour of the Scioto River Valley this weekend.

The Harmons will participate in the two-day, 210-mile ride along a route from Columbus, Ohio to Portsmouth, Ohio.

The Wheeling residents are members of the Wheeling Wheelmen Bicycle Club which Mrs. Harmon was instrumental in organizing.

Stop-Work Order Issued On Strong Street Buildings

A temporary stop-work order has been issued to the developer of the 47 apartment buildings in Wheeling's W. Strong Street area.

Harold Fagan, a spokesman for the homeowners association suing to stop construction of the six-flat buildings, said the order was issued Friday afternoon to developer Victor Smigel.

Fagan said the temporary injunction halting the construction was issued Friday by Circuit Court Judge Edward Egan.

Fagan said copies of the injunction—in effect until today—were delivered to Smigel at his home in Palatine, to Wheeling Village Clerk Evelyn Diers and to Neale Grippentrog, president of the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank.

The village is involved in the suit because it okayed rezonings and variations for the apartments. The bank holds title to the land in various trusts it administers.

FAGAN SAID the residents opposing the apartments will appear in Judge Egan's court today to seek a permanent injunction to stop the building until after a hearing on the suit.

The suit, filed on behalf of the West Strong Street Area Homeowners Association, asks the court to overturn the rezoning on the property for a number of reasons.

Residents To 'Peddle' For Germany

Wheeling-area residents are going to be pushing bicycle pedals as a means of raising money for the Wheeling High School band trip to Germany.

A 1972 Wheeling "Bikeathon" will be sponsored May 21 by the Wheeling Wheelmen bicycle club.

The five-mile track for the bikeathon will enable riders to clock as many as 100 miles at their own pace.

The track will be laid out on residential streets surrounding Booth Tarkington School.

Students and others hoping to raise money for the band are acquiring sponsors who agree to pay a given amount per mile traveled. Riders also may pledge an amount per mile for the band.

The bikeathon track will be arranged so riders are never more than 2½ miles from the starting point.

RIDERS UNDER 16 must have a release signed by their parents in order to participate.

Link Pool Firm Fire To Arson

A fire apparently started by arsonists caused $7,000 to $8,000 damage to a plant in Wheeling early Sunday morning.

The fire was in an office and a corridor of Paddock of the Midwest Inc., a swimming pool construction company at 300 E. Industrial Ln.

Wheeling Fire Chief Bernie Koeppen said officials from the state fire marshal's office had been called in to help investigate.

Two 5-gallon cans containing flammable liquid were found in the office of the two-story building, fire reports indicated.

Firemen were called to the plant at 3:39 a.m. Sunday and finished cleanup operations by 5:03 a.m.

Koeppen said there was considerable smoke damage to the building.

The Nation

President Nixon has ordered a naval blockade of North Vietnamese ports including Haiphong, to deny Hanoi "the weapons and supplies it needs to continue aggression. These actions are not directed against any other nation," Nixon said. Other countries with ships in North Vietnam's harbors "have been notified their ships will have three daylight periods to leave" in safety. "There is only one way to stop the killing," a grim Nixon told a radio and television address to the nation. "That is to keep the weapons of war out of the hands of the international outlaws of North Vietnam."

Amid rumors of a new allied counter-offensive, or a blockade of Haiphong harbor, President Nixon met for three hours with the National Security Council prior to making a nationwide televised speech last night.

The three leading candidates for the Democratic Party's presidential nomination — Hubert Humphrey, George McGovern, and George Wallace, headed into showdown primaries today in Nebraska and West Virginia.

The World

The Communist Party Central Committee met to expel four former party leaders accused of attempting to divide Yugoslavia by promoting nationalism in the country's Croatian Republic.

Three Arab guerrillas hijacked a Belgian Sabena airliner over Europe and flew it to Tel Aviv where they threatened to blow up the plane and 99 persons aboard unless Israel released guerrilla captives from Israeli jails.

The War

The U.S. Command said American warplanes attacked a North Vietnamese military training base 15 miles west of Hanoi, but the Communists said the raids were directed against river dikes in an attempt to cut off the country's food supply. Radio Hanoi said planes bombed along the Red River in the heart of the crop-producing region to try to flood the rice fields. The U.S. Command denied jets bombed the dikes.

Center Collects $4,260 From Hike

Money is expected to come in for as long as nine months, but the Northwest Opportunity Center has already collected $4,260 pledged by contributors who sponsored marchers in the area-wide "Hike for Your Neighbor" two weeks ago.

Center Dir. Karen Stanley said collections are up about $2,000 over last year at this time. Last year's hike raised about $17,500, and the money "dribbled in" for nine months, Miss Stanley said.

There is still no accurate estimate of how much money will be raised for the center by the approximately 1,000 hikers who took part in the 20-mile walk from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows April 23.

The money already collected this year surpasses the total that the center realized from last year's hike. The $17,500 raised last year was divided among four agencies that shared in the proceeds under the auspices of the Walther League, an organization of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod.

THIS YEAR, the opportunity center sponsored the hike independent of the Walther League and its satellite agencies and all the money raised will fund center programs.

Mrs. Rena Trevor, hike chairman and treasurer of the center's board of directors, speculated two weeks ago that the march might raise as much as $20,000.

Although only about half the anticipated number of people marched, she said the pledge levels are higher this year and more money should be raised.

The "Hike for Your Neighbor" is the main local fund raising project of the

Honeywell Strike Is Over

by DOUG RAY

The United Electrical Union Local 1114 has ended its nine-week strike at the Honeywell Inc. plant in Arlington Heights and union workers are scheduled to be back on the job at 7:30 a.m. this morning.

The union membership Sunday voted 4-1 to end the strike and accept a new two-year contract. The contract "contains substantial improvements," according to Michael Karpa, union business manager.

The 550-member union that makes up about half of the total work force at Honeywell, 1500 W. Dundee Rd., walked off the job March 6 after rejecting the company's contract offer, citing "inadequate fringe benefits."

Karpa said the union voted to end the boycott because of a combination of improved benefits and the length of the strike. "They had to decide how long they want to stay out to get more," he added.

THE STRIKE and subsequent negotiations brought several new benefits in the contract, Karpa said, including full-time vacation pay for veterans, changes in overtime pay provisions, maternity leaves and retirement.

Honeywell spokesman Tony Bartolini said the company made some changes in the contract proposal but would not be specific.

He said the 500 temporary workers, hired to replace strikers, will be released today. Many of the temporary employees are students and housewives.

During the nine-week strike, many of the workers secured other jobs, but Karpa said almost all of the union membership will be back on the job today.

A federal mediator entered negotiations between union and management nearly two months ago, and a dozen conciliation meetings were held before an agreement was reached.

A few incidents were reported to police as the strike progressed and at least two picketers were arrested.

KARPA said the union is unhappy over "the role of the state and the community" in the strike, referring to no-parking signs installed along a frontage road, allegedly to prohibit strikers from parking their cars there, and also alleged outside pressures from police.

Police and the village have denied any such pressures.

Production at the plant reached as high as 80 per cent of normal, management reported, during the latter days of the strike. Production was possible through the temporary workers and salaried workers who performed manufacturing jobs.

Independent trucks delivered Honeywell goods during the strike, but union truckers observed the picket lines and refused to enter the plant, union officials reported.

Honeywell's last strike was in 1961 at its Morton Grove plant, where the factory facilities were located before moving to Arlington Heights last year.

All of the company's commercial operations were consolidated at the Arlington Heights plant. The firm here produces temperature controls, building automation systems and fire and security detectors for commercial buildings throughout the United States.

Houchins Quits Race Against Crane

by BOB LAHEY

Charles W. Houchins of Mount Prospect yesterday informed Democratic leaders of the new 12th Congressional District that he is withdrawing as the candidate attempting to unseat Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Houchins declined to discuss the reasons for his withdrawal, other than to describe them as "complex and personal."

Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman, said he believed Houchins withdrew because of lack of support among the committeemen in the farflung district, which includes 11 townships in two counties.

Chesney, who was instrumental in persuading Houchins to run for Congress, said there were no individuals to blame for the lack of financial and organizational support. "It's a complicated district, and we just haven't got it organized properly yet," Chesney said.

Daniel Pierce, state representative from Highland Park and Democratic state central committeeman for the 12th District, said a replacement will be found to oppose Crane in the November election.

HOUCHINS, 47, an attorney of Borg-Warner Corp., said he had informed Democratic leaders in the district that he will support any qualified candidate whom they pick for the race against Crane.

Pierce said he believed there would be a number of candidates willing to make the race against Crane. He pointed out that, while the results may be misleading, Houchins attracted more than 26,000 votes in the Democratic primary election, while Crane's total in the Republican primary was less than 21,000.

According to statute, a replacement candidate may be named by the Democratic township committeemen in Cook County, the Lake County chairman, and Pierce as state central committeeman.

The 12th District includes Wheeling, Palatine, Barrington, Schaumburg, Hanover and Elk Grove townships in Cook County; and Elia, Vernon, Libertyville, Deerfield and West Deerfield townships in Lake County.

center. In order to meet a $93,000 budget the center has to raise, approximately $35,000 locally to supplement $59,000 from the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity.

Some local funds have been contributed by area municipalities on a per capita basis. That is, towns have contributed money based on the number of people that the opportunity center served last year in a particular town.

ORIGINALLY, the goal was to raise $25,000 in village contributions, but several towns have refused to participate. Only Arlington Heights ($3,100) and Hoffman Estates ($715) have appropriated money for the center. Palatine's village trustees established a fund to which about $400 has been contributed so far.

Buffalo Grove, Barrington, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows so far have refused to participate in funding the center.

In addition to the hike money and the village contributions, funds for the center come from churches and service organizations and clubs in the six townships the center serves.

Money from the hike is still being collected and can be turned in daily at the Northwest Opportunity Center office, 3411 Kirchoff Rd., Rolling Meadows. Hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pledge returns can also be mailed to the center. Checks should be made payable to the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Weekend Incidents Involve Motorists

Two Battery Cases Keep Police Busy

Buffalo Grove police were kept busy last weekend with two separate incidents of battery. The victims in both cases were motorists.

The first incident occurred Saturday afternoon in front of 238 St. Mary's Pkwy., when Paul Frueh's auto grazed a dog.

Frueh, who lives at 580 Maple Dr., yelled out the car window at the dog. According to police, when Frueh turned back into the car a man had jumped into it and began beating him.

Frueh told the police that the man, William Case Sr., of 238 St. Mary's Pkwy., began shouting, "I'm going to kill you."

Police arrested Case and charged him with assault. He was later released on bond and is scheduled to appear in Cook County Circuit Court June 20.

POLICE SAID the second incident was reported directly to them when the victim walked into the station late Saturday afternoon. Kurt Lau of Rolling Meadows told police the brakes on his car had failed and he struck the rear of another auto at the corner of Arlington Heights and Dundee roads.

Lau told police the driver of the other vehicle got out of the car and told him and a passenger that if they got out of the car he'd "pound lumps" on both of them. Lau said the assailant then struck him in the face with his fist and drove away.

According to police, Lau and his companion followed the assailant to 653 Hickory Dr. in Buffalo Grove, where the man allegedly tried to strike Lau again, but his fist did not get through the opening in the window.

Lau said the assailant then tried to break the window with his elbow and began kicking Lau's car. Lau also told police the man tried to pull his rearview mirror off the car.

Police went to the Hickory Drive address and arrested Gary Rosentrater. They charged him with battery and he was released on bond. He is to appear in Cook County Circuit Court June 27.

Student Awarded Tour Of Europe

An Adlai Stevenson High School junior has been awarded a four-week tour of Europe and Mediterranean countries this summer.

Eugene D'Ambrosio received the award from the Civil Air Patrol. He is one of 14 Illinois CAP cadets who will take the tour under the auspices of the United States Air Force.

D'Ambrosio earned the honor through his three-year membership in the CAP unit which meets at Stevenson. He holds a student pilot's license.

village will have a standby ambulance.

The department just received the 1972 chief's car and is in the process of converting the old 1966 station wagon for use as an ambulance.

The old car will be able to hold one stretcher and will be used when the main ambulance is on a call or when it can't handle an emergency operation alone.

Chief Winter said, "This car will be used strictly for back-up purposes. There is a state law that says station wagons can no longer be used as primary ambulances but can be used for our purposes."

The use of the extra vehicle will eliminate calling in other suburban departments to assist in transporting victims to the hospital, said the chief.

He added that the department has all the necessary equipment to convert the station wagon into an ambulance and the money spent on the new vehicle is well within the department's own budget.

Residents To 'Peddle' For Germany

Wheeling-area residents are going to be pushing bicycle pedals as a means of raising money for the Wheeling High School band trip to Germany.

A 1972 Wheeling "Bikeathon" will be sponsored May 21 by the Wheeling Wheelmen bicycle club.

The five-mile track for the bikeathon will enable riders to clock as many as 100 miles at their own pace.

The track will be laid out on residential streets surrounding Booth Tarkington School.

Students and others hoping to raise money for the band are acquiring sponsors who agree to pay a given amount per mile traveled. Riders also may pledge an amount per mile for the band.

The bikeathon track will be arranged so riders are never more than 2 1/2 miles from the starting point.

RIDERS UNDER 16 must have a release signed by their parents in order to participate.

The ride will begin at 6 a.m. and end at 6 p.m., but individuals may start and finish anytime between those hours.

A registration fee of $1 will be charged for participating in the bikeathon. Each participant will receive a patch and a certificate for the miles ridden.

Riders planning to tackle the "Century" ride should register between 5:30 and 6 a.m. to be within the 12 hour limit to the 100 miles.

Additional information on plans for the ride are available by calling Phyllis Harmon at 537-1268 evenings.

The Wheeling Wheelmen Club is sponsored by the Wheeling Park District.

He pointed out that, while the results may be misleading, Houchins attracted more than 28,000 votes in the Democratic primary election, while Crane's total in the Republican primary was less than 21,000.

According to statute, a replacement candidate may be named by the Democratic township committeemen in Cook County, the Lake County chairman, and Pierce as state central committeeman.

The 12th District includes Wheeling, Palatine, Barrington, Schaumburg, Hanover and Elk Grove townships in Cook County; and Elia, Vernon, Libertyville, Deerfield and West Deerfield townships in Lake County.

Palatine Resident Dies In Fire

A small basement fire, apparently started from a burning cigaret, took the life of Dan Del Garza, 48, 562 W. Colfax St. Palatine, early Monday.

The fire, confined to the basement, started shortly after midnight in the two-story house, according to Palatine Fire Chief Orville Helms. Firemen found Del Garza's body a short distance from the bed, which had been destroyed by the flames.

Helms said Del Garza's death was due to smoke inhalation. Del Garza's cousin, Ben, Ben's wife and their eight children who lived in the rest of the house escaped unharmed from the blaze.

Helms said the fire was detected by Mrs. Del Garza when she smelled smoke coming from the basement where Dan lived alone. The blaze already damaged telephone lines from the house, preventing a call to report the fire.

A Palatine police car on patrol was stopped by Ben Del Garza on Colfax Street to alert them of the fire. Police then notified the fire department.

Dan Del Garza had been employed for seven or eight years by his cousin in his business, Ben's Septic Tank and Sewer Service at the Colfax Street address.

Village Plans September Blood Drive

The Palatine Environmental Control Board (ECB) will work with the American Red Cross this summer to develop plans for a September blood drive which could provide all Palatine residents with unlimited amounts of blood in case of an accident.

According to the Red Cross program, if four per cent of the population of a municipality each donates one pint of blood, then all residents of the town will be covered to receive free blood for a year when the need arises.

A schedule will be set up for a donation drive in September. Volunteers could give blood to the program at community hospitals or through the Red Cross mobile blood bank.

Members of the ECB plan to meet with homeowners associations and various civic groups throughout the summer to explain the blood program and seek volunteers in order to get blood pledges from the necessary four per cent of the population.

If less than the four per cent of the residents give one pint, then those persons who donated their blood and their immediate families would be covered for the next year for unlimited use of blood.

The ECB selected the Red Cross program from two possibilities, the other being the Northwest Suburban Blood Bank.

The basic difference between the two is that blood donated to the Red Cross will be used throughout the county while the suburban bank limits its blood collections and distribution to the Northwest suburban area.

"The Red Cross offers a true community program because of its policy of nationwide distribution of blood," Richard Dawson, director of the Palatine Environmental Health Department, said.

The Red Cross program also allows persons covered by it to receive blood from any location in the country.

Similar blood programs have been set up in other Northwest suburbs, although most others belong to the suburban blood bank.

Better Get Your Vehicle Sticker

The Palatine Police Department has warned that it will continue to crack down on residents who fail to obtain village vehicle stickers.

Some 250 to 300 tickets already have been issued, and Sgt. Eugene Bobinski said several hundred more Palatine residents are believed to be driving cars without 1972 stickers.

Last year, an estimated 10,200 stickers were sold to residents. This year, over 10,500 have been sold. During the past year, the population of Palatine, and the number of car owners living in the village, has gone up slightly.

Applications for vehicle stickers are available both at Palatine Village Hall, 54 S. Broadway St., and the police department, 110 W. Washington St. The stickers are to be obtained at village hall for a $10 annual fee.

Tickets issued to car owners who fail to register their vehicles are $5 each.

Burns To Head St. Colette Council

Joseph Burns has been elected chairman of the executive board of the St. Colette Parish Council.

Also elected to the executive board for the next year were James White, vice chairman; Gary Nelson, recording secretary; and Judith Ulbrich, corresponding secretary.

Center Collects $4,260 From Hike

Money is expected to come in for as long as nine months, but the Northwest Opportunity Center has already collected $4,260 pledged by contributors who sponsored marchers in the area-wide "Hike for Your Neighbor" two weeks ago.

Center Dir. Karen Stanley said collections are up about $2,000 over last year at this time. Last year's hike raised about $17,500, and the money "dribbled in" for nine months, Miss Stanley said.

There is still no accurate estimate of how much money will be raised for the center by the approximately 1,000 hikers who took part in the 20-mile walk from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows April 23.

The money already collected this year surpasses the total that the center realized from last year's hike. The $17,500 raised last year was divided among four agencies that shared in the proceeds under the auspices of the Walther League, an organization of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod.

THIS YEAR, the opportunity center sponsored the hike independent of the Walther League and its satellite agencies and all the money raised will fund center programs.

Mrs. Rena Trevor, hike chairman and treasurer of the center's board of directors, speculated two weeks ago that the march might raise as much as $20,000.

Although only about half the anticipated number of people marched, she said the pledge levels are higher this year and more money should be raised.

The "Hike for Your Neighbor" is the main local fund raising project of the center. In order to meet a $93,000 budget the center has to raise approximately $25,000 locally to supplement $59,000 from the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity.

Some local funds have been contributed by area municipalities on a per capita basis. That is, towns have contributed money based on the number of people that the opportunity center served last year in a particular town.

ORIGINALLY, the goal was to raise $25,000 in village contributions, but several towns have refused to participate. Only Arlington Heights ($3,100) and Hoffman Estates ($715) have appropriated money for the center. Palatine's village trustees established a fund to which about $400 has been contributed so far.

Buffalo Grove, Barrington, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows so far have refused to participate in funding the center.

In addition to the hike money and the village contributions, funds for the center come from churches and service organizations and clubs in the six townships the center serves.

Money from the hike is still being collected and can be turned in daily at the Northwest Opportunity Center office, 3411 Kirchhoff Rd., Rolling Meadows. Hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pledge returns can also be mailed to the center. Checks should be made payable to the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Ask Special Use Permit For Nursing Home

Owners of a Chicago nursing home have submitted a petition to the Palatine Village Board asking a special use to contract a 300-bed nursing home on a 5-acre site at 1011 S. Quentin Rd. west of William Fremd High School.

Dr. Richard E. Howell, present owner of the site, and A. Webster of the All American Nursing Home, 5448 N. Broadway in Chicago and contract purchaser of the new site, jointly submitted the petition for the special use in a residential district for the home.

The site is presently bordered on the north, south and east by land zoned for manufacturing use.

Two acres of the 5-acre site would be used for construction of the home, with the remaining three acres to be landscaped "in a park-like manner, retaining as many of the existing trees as possible to enhance and beautify the development," the petition stated.

The home would be constructed in accordance with the state, Medicare and Village of Palatine requirements.

The Palatine Village Board has referred the request to the village plan commission for a public hearing later this month.

Theft Reported

An estimated $300 in paint analyzing equipment, including two hypodermic syringes, were stolen Sunday from a car owned by Richard Matthews of 553 Stuart Ln., Palatine.

Police said a spray gun, attache case, stop watch and other small items were taken from Matthews' car. Matthews reportedly used the equipment and the syringes to measure minute quantities of silicon for enamel painting tests.

President Nixon has ordered a naval blockade of North Vietnamese ports including Haiphong, to deny Hanoi "the weapons and supplies it needs to continue aggression. These actions are not directed against any other nation," Nixon said. Other countries with ships in North Vietnam's harbors "have been notified their ships will have three daylight periods to leave" in safety. "There is only one way to stop the killing," a grim Nixon told a radio and television address to the nation. "That is to keep the weapons of war out of the hands of the international outlaws of North Vietnam."

Amid rumors of a new allied counter-offensive, or a blockade of Haiphong harbor, President Nixon met for three hours with the National Security Council prior to making a nationwide televised speech last night.

School District Changes Student Teaching Method

by JOANN VAN WYE

Six weeks ago five student teachers started their classroom assignments at Hunting Ridge School in Palatine.

The appearance of a student teacher in a class used to elicit an "Oh boy, a student teacher" from the students who proceeded to run wild sensing the nervousness of the student teacher.

Things were different this time, however, and the classes went on as normal.

Due to a new student teaching program started in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 this semester, the student teachers had spent some time in their class before being assigned to it and were not total strangers. The previous experience also gave them the confidence necessary to assume the new responsibility.

INSTEAD OF the traditional nine week student teaching experience in one class under one teacher, the five student teachers and 15 other student teachers at different schools were in the district for 18 weeks.

The first nine weeks they were exposed to a variety of experiences ranging from classrooms to district budgets. They worked with teachers but also with nurses, secretaries and administrators learning all facets of the district. Most had an opportunity to teach every subject at every grade level.

At the end of the nine weeks the student teachers were allowed to select what grade level they would like to work with and the supervising teacher they would like to be assigned to.

Of course there was some adjusting but at least the student teachers saw a few familiar faces checking them out and didn't find their voices cracking and knees wobbling.

THE PRINCIPAL, supervising teachers, university coordinating instructor and students themselves all think the new program is good.

"It is much better from our point of view," said Alan Hopkins, principal of Hunting Ridge School. "The student teachers know what they are doing and what is expected of them. They also have a pretty concise idea of what the district is from top to bottom."

Drawing from their own student teaching experiences and experiences with other student teachers, the five supervising teachers feel the new student teaching program is definitely an improvement.

"It is a lot broader program than what I was introduced to," said Mrs. Pam Koby, a third grade teacher. "They have been able to see different grades and curriculum in operation. I wasn't given this chance but instead just thrown into a classroom."

"THEY ARE definitely more prepared. They have more background to draw from and more of an idea of what is expected of them," said Mrs. Sandy Poliak, a third grade teacher. Because they have been in the school for nine weeks before having a classroom assigned to them they are already acquainted with the building and staff and are ready to assume responsibility, she explained.

The only disadvantage the supervising teachers saw to the program was that the student teachers were in so many classrooms and asked to do so many different things during the first nine weeks they thought it would be confusing.

This apparently didn't bother the student teachers though who feel the program is "really great."

By moving around we could see the progression in maturity and ability at each grade level, said Miss Gail Ellam, a third grade student teacher. When she started her student teaching experience she was partial to the first grade but after exposure to every grade level she is now partial to third grade.

"I FEEL competent in teaching all grade levels now," said Mrs. Barbara Tsutsumi, a third grade student teacher.

"Moving around also instilled a feeling of growth. I don't think I'll be as apt to stay at one grade level now but will be more inclined to move around. I found I can enjoy teaching all grades."

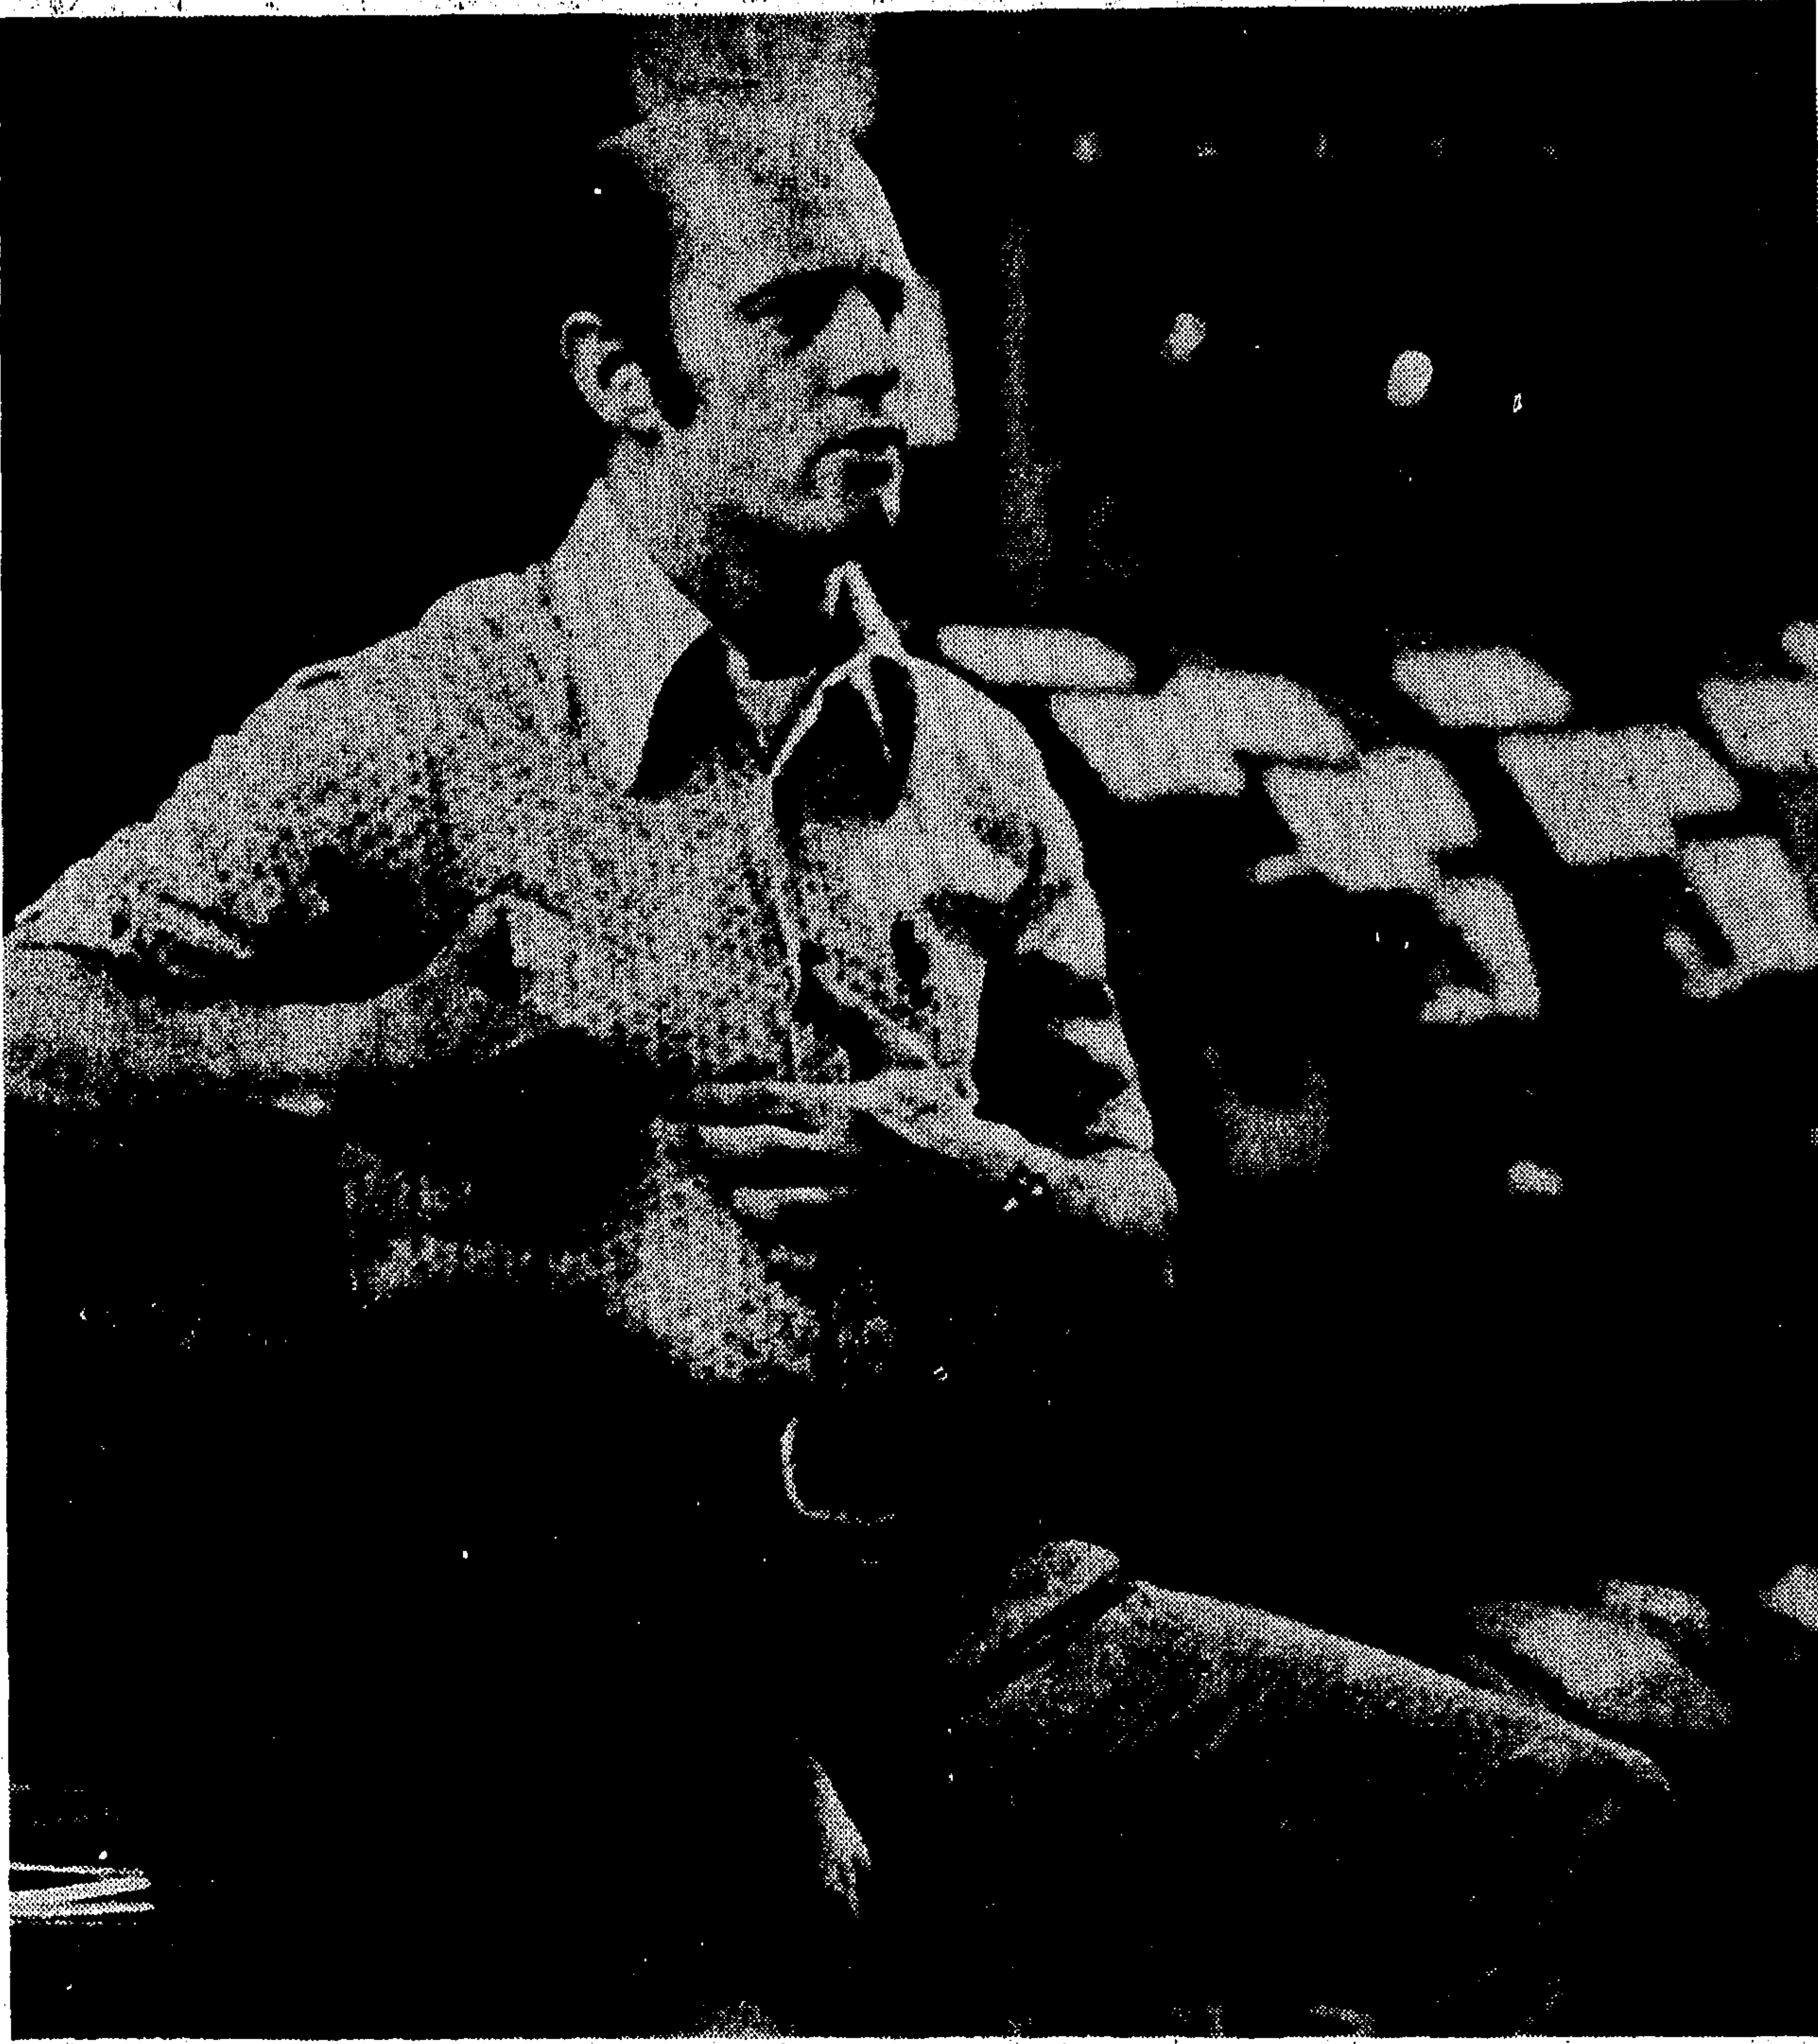

"I had already been in the class so I knew a few names and felt more comfortable and prepared," said Miss Ellam.

"You work yourself into flexibility," said Miss Carol Prybil, a third grade student teacher. "Sometimes it just seemed like there weren't enough hours in the day (during the first nine weeks). You wanted to float and get all the experience you could but yet you wanted to stay with the class you had just gotten used to."

The student teachers are given weekly evaluations by their supervising teachers. The evaluations indicate their areas of strength, areas they should place more concentration on and what they can do to improve.

THE STUDENT teachers also meet weekly in seminars with Arthur Ferguson, Northern Illinois University's supervisor of student teaching. In the seminars educational philosophy, educational theories and tests and measurements are discussed along with problems the student teachers might be experiencing in the classroom.

Some of the student teachers are planning to spend the last couple of days in the district visiting other programs and parochial schools. They feel they will be better able to evaluate what is going on in the classes after their own experience.

ARM OF A DOCTOR is what Dr. Stanley Zydlo calls the 220 firefighters and police officers he is currently teaching to be Emergency Medical Technicians. Zydlo, on leave from emergency room work at Northwest Community Hospital, is preparing these men for what he believes will be a vastly improved emergency treatment program throughout the Northwest suburbs.

Emergency Medical Technicians In Training

220 Men Become 'Arm Of The Doctor'

BY STEVE BROWN

What good is a hospital full of space age technology and equipment when the patient arrives at the emergency room dead?

None, is the answer to that question, but in the next few months at least one area doctor hopes a new training program will help more emergency cases arrive in time for treatment.

The doctor is Stanley Zydlo and the reason behind his optimism for the future is the 220 men he is training as "Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT)" in this area.

"These men will be a new breed of cat," Zydlo says.

He said the 100-hour training course that is currently being taken by firefighters, police officers and private ambulance attendants will make them eligible to take a test to make them licensed medical technicians.

ZYDLO SAID that while the men will be trained to operate and administer electrocardiograms (EKG), intravenous transfusions, and certain drugs that they will always be in direct communications with doctors.

"These men will become an arm of the doctor," he said. The EMT program, which involves firefighters from almost all the Northwest suburbs, will be fully activated this summer. Communications and telemetry equipment will be placed in both Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village.

Much of the program's emphasis has been placed on treating heart attack victims. The mobile EKG units and defibrillators will enable doctors to monitor and treat these cases while they are in transit to the hospital.

"Over 70 per cent of these cases die before they reach the hospital," Zydlo says. The most dramatic impact from

by DOUG RAY

The United Electrical Union Local 1114 has ended its nine-week strike at the Honeywell Inc. plant in Arlington Heights and union workers are scheduled to be back on the job at 7:30 a.m. this morning.

The union membership Sunday voted 4-1 to end the strike and accept a new two-year contract. The contract "contains substantial improvements," according to Michael Karpa, union business manager.

The 550-member union that makes up about half of the total work force at Honeywell, 1500 W. Dundee Rd., walked off the job March 6 after rejecting the company's contract offer, citing "inadequate fringe benefits."

Karpa said the union voted to end the boycott because of a combination of improved benefits and the length of the strike. "They had to decide how long they want to stay out to get more," he added.

THE STRIKE and subsequent negotiations brought several new benefits in the contract, Karpa said, including full-time vacation pay for veterans, changes in overtime pay, provisions, maternity leaves and retirement.

Honeywell spokesman Tony Bartolini said the company made some changes in the contract proposal but would not be specific.

He said the 500 temporary workers, hired to replace strikers, will be released today. Many of the temporary employees are students and housewives.

During the nine-week strike, many of the workers secured other jobs, but Karpa said almost all of the union membership will be back on the job today.

A federal mediator entered negotiations between union and management nearly two months ago, and a dozen conciliation meetings were held before an agreement was reached.

A few incidents were reported to police as the strike progressed and at least two picketers were arrested.

KARPA said the union is unhappy over "the role of the state and the community" in the strike, referring to no-parking signs installed along a frontage road, allegedly to prohibit strikers from parking their cars there, and also alleged outside pressures from police.

Police and the village have denied any such pressures.

Production at the plant reached as high as 80 per cent of normal, management reported, during the latter days of the strike. Production was possible through the temporary workers and salaried workers who performed manufacturing jobs.

Accidents Take Lives Of Three

Three Elk Grove Township residents were killed in two separate accidents in DuPage County this weekend.

William Crews, 25, and Mrs. Michael Pabst, 24, both of Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., were killed Sunday in a two-car collision on Rte. 59 near the East-West Tollway. Seven persons were injured.

DuPage County Sheriff's Police said a car driven by Crews and a second car driven by Nancy Lash, 24, of Aurora, collided after Crews' car came off the tollway exit ramp onto Rte. 59.

Injured in the Crews' car were Mrs. Pabst's husband, Michael, 25, treated and released at Edward Hospital in Naperville; Rebecca DuFore, 18, Itasca, in satisfactory condition with internal injuries at Central DuPage Hospital in Winfield; Kathy Luebbers, 25, of 729 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine, in intensive care with internal injuries and fractures at Central DuPage; and Benjamin Seelye, 20, of 3200 Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, in satisfactory condition with a broken pelvis at Hines Veterans Hospital, Maywood.

INJURED IN the Lash car were the driver, Miss Lash, in satisfactory condition with facial and internal injuries; Barbara Simmons, 24, of Naperville in satisfactory condition with a broken arm, and Alice Brown, 22, of Carbondale, in satisfactory condition with a broken leg and arm. All three were taken to Edward Hospital.

Kermit Medlock, 47, of 549 Corinthia Dr., was killed in a head-on collision Saturday on Rte. 64 near Wheaton.

Police said a car driven by Frank Cappuccio, 41, of Chicago, was heading west when it crossed the median strip and collided with Medlock's eastbound auto.

Cappuccio was in serious condition in the intensive care unit with eye injuries and leg lacerations at Central DuPage Hospital. His son, Roy, 13, a passenger in the car, sustained two broken legs and a broken arm. Police said no charges have been filed in connection with the accident.

Illegal Immigrants Arrested For Fighting

Five illegal immigrants were arrested Sunday night by Palatine police for a fight downtown and were turned over yesterday to immigration officials for return to Mexico.

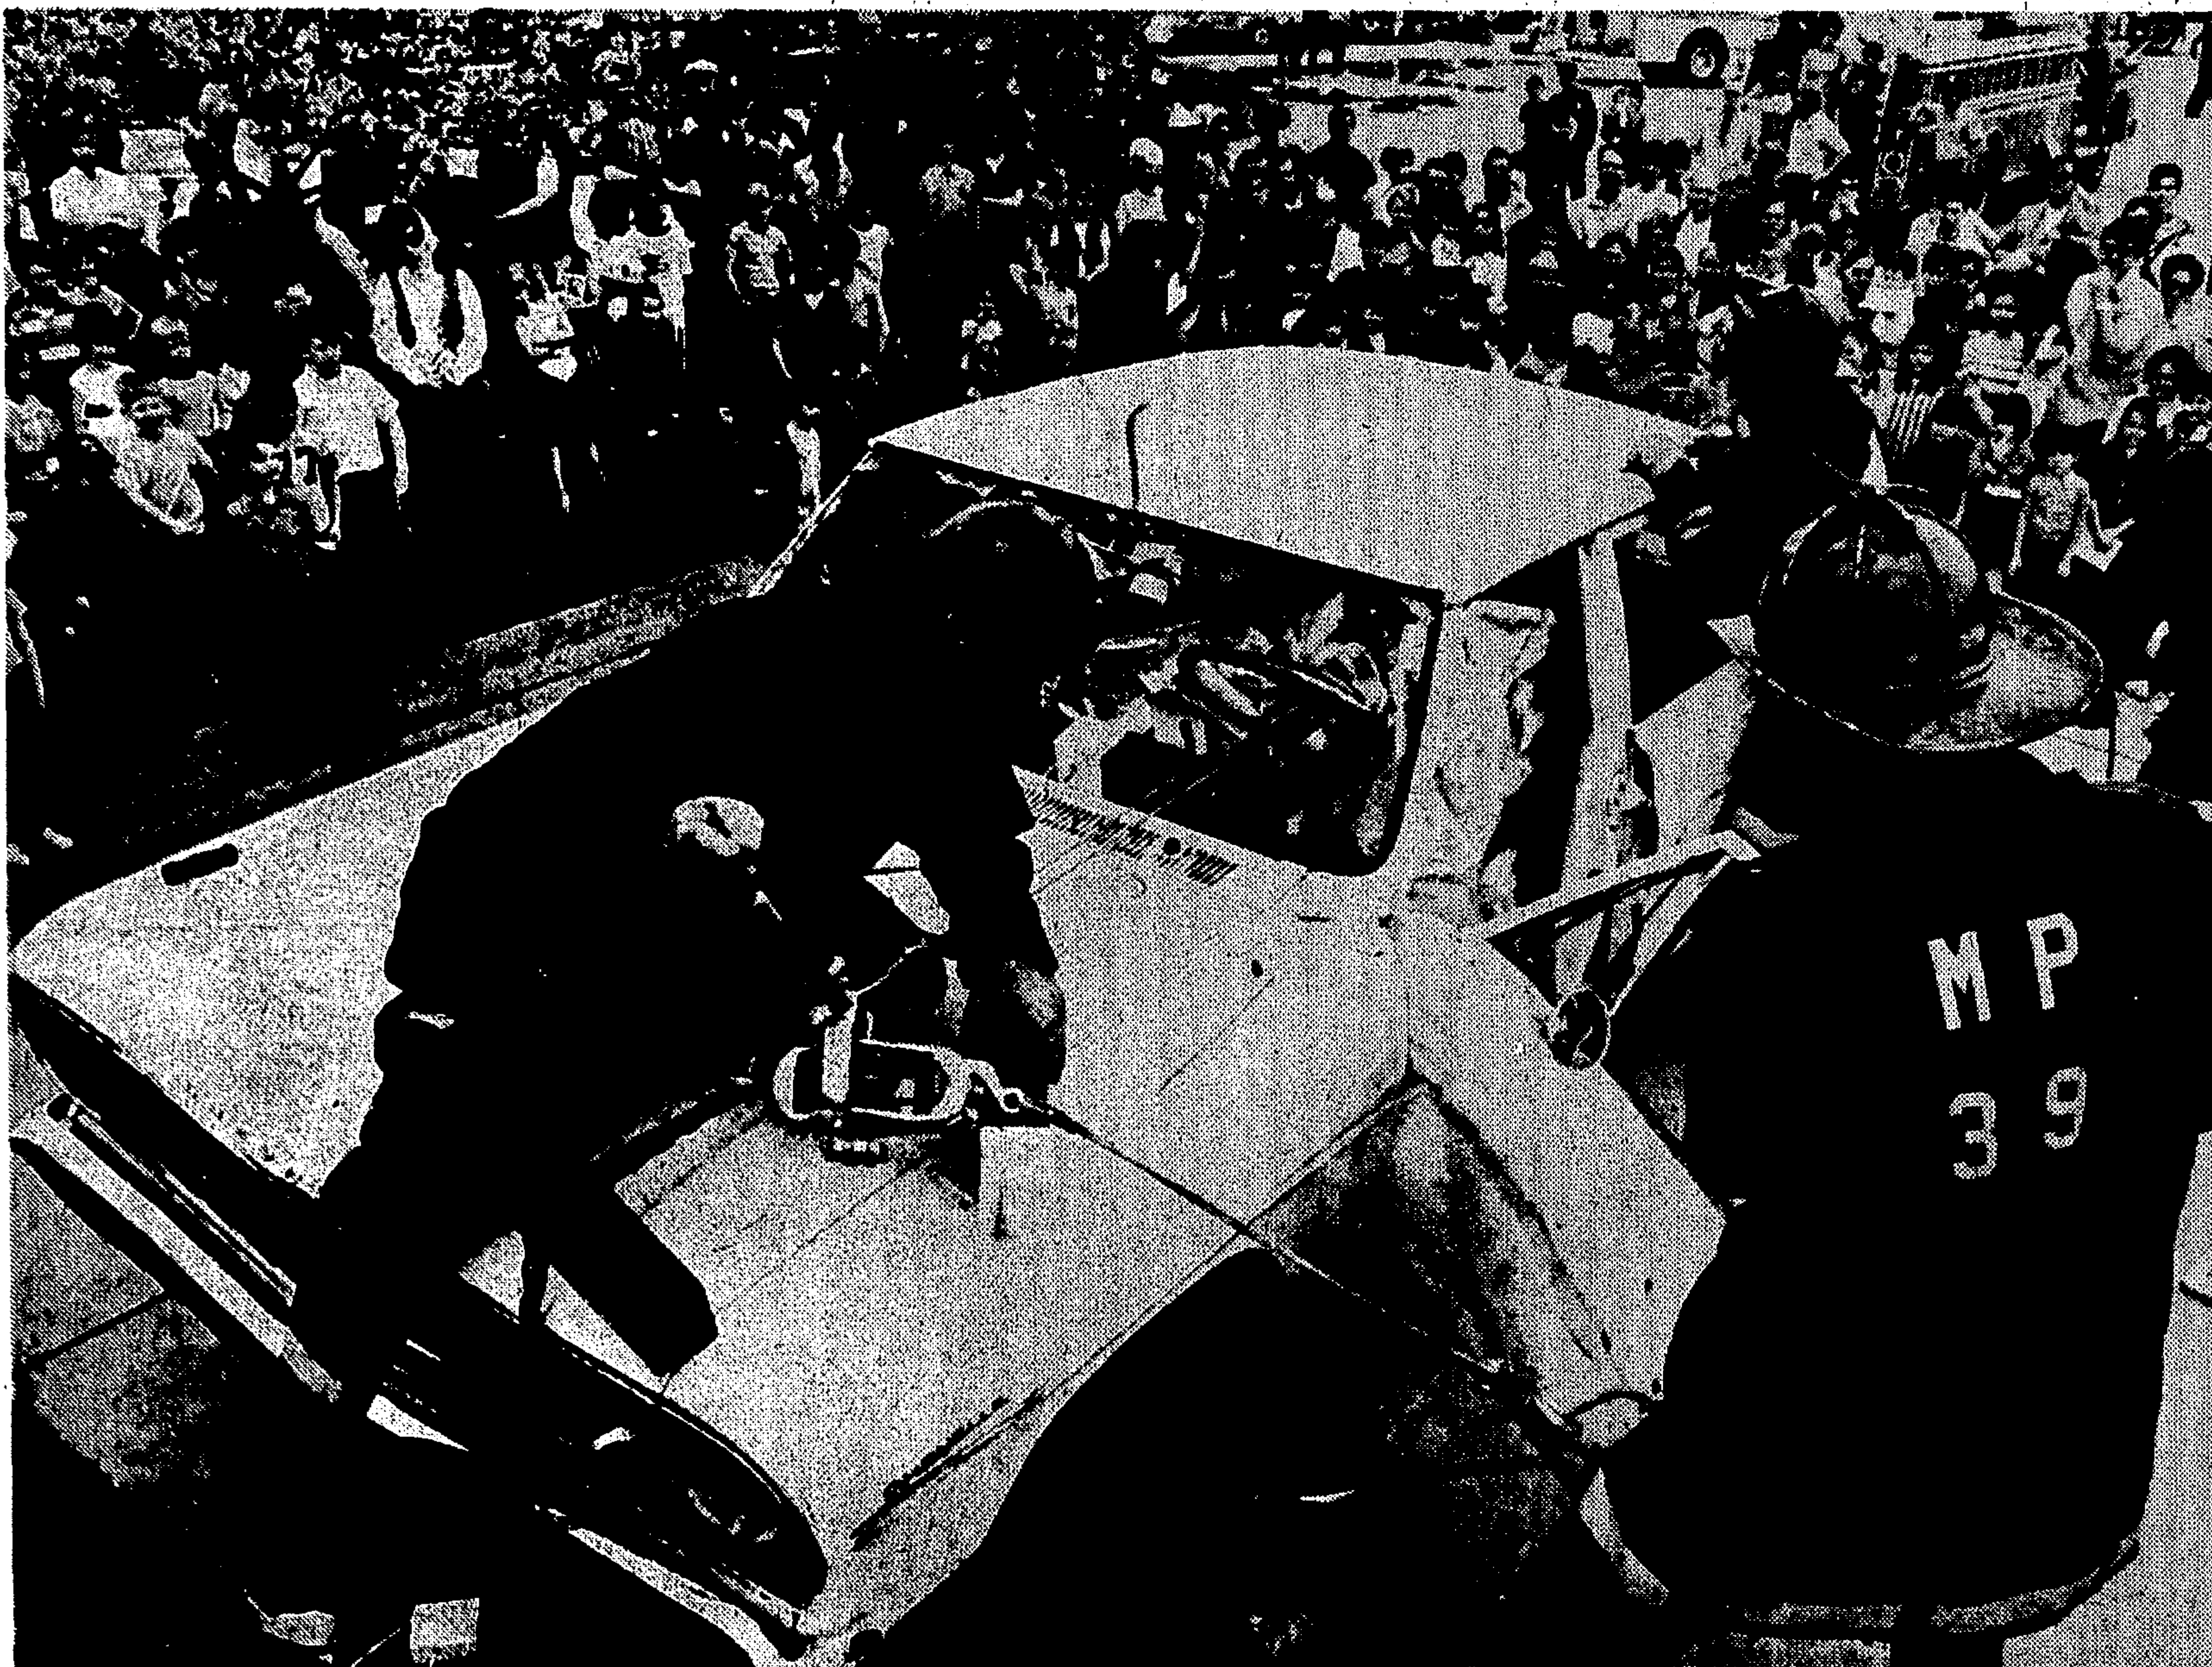

The five men, two from the Palatine area and the rest from outside town, were involved in a fist fight about 8:15 p.m. Sunday outside Mac and Al's Bar at 60 N. Bothwell St.

When police were called to break up the fight, they found inadequate identification on the men and reported them to immigration authorities.

Police said during the fight one of the men was pushed through the front door window of the bar, causing the only reported damage to property. No one was taken to the hospital for treatment.

Police said a sixth man was also involved in the fight, but escaped from the scene.

FIRE SERVICE RECOGNITION WEEK was climaxed Saturday at the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect with a demonstration by firemen of how they remove victims from an auto accident. Here, firemen pry open a car door. "Victims" were then flown by helicopter to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines. Also Saturday firemen fought a simulated fire at the shopping center. Almost 20 area fire departments took part in the week-long observance at the shopping center. It was sponsored by the Elk Grove Village and Mount Prospect fire departments. Demonstrations of various firefighting and rescue techniques were held nightly at the shopping center also.

Houchins Says He'll Quit Race Against Rep. Crane

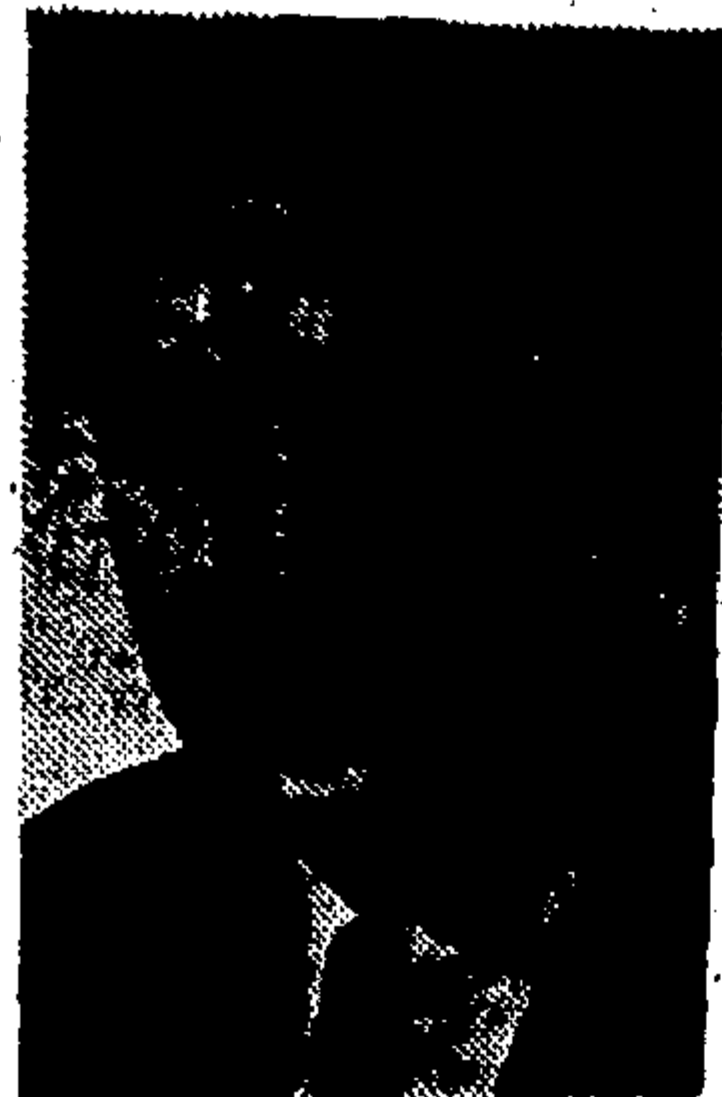

by BOB LAHEY

Charles W. Houchins of Mount Prospect yesterday informed Democratic leaders of the new 12th Congressional District that he is withdrawing as the candidate attempting to unseat Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Houchins declined to discuss the reasons for his withdrawal, other than to describe them as "complex and personal."

Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman, said he believed Houchins withdrew because of lack of support among the committeemen in the farflung district, which includes 11 townships in two counties.

Chesney, who was instrumental in persuading Houchins to run for Congress, said there were no individuals to blame for the lack of financial and organizational support. "It's a complicated district, and we just haven't got it organized properly yet," Chesney said.

Charles W. Houchins

Daniel Pierce, state representative from Highland Park and Democratic state central committeeman for the 12th District, said a replacement will be found to oppose Crane in the November election.

HOUCHINS, 47, an attorney of Borg-

Warner Corp., said he had informed Democratic leaders in the district that he will support any qualified candidate whom they pick for the race against Crane.

Pierce said he believed there would be a number of candidates willing to make the race against Crane. He pointed out that, while the results may be misleading, Houchins attracted more than 26,000 votes in the Democratic primary election, while Crane's total in the Republican primary was less than 21,000.

According to statute, a replacement candidate may be named by the Democratic township committeemen in Cook County, the Lake County chairman, and Pierce as state central committeeman.

The 12th District includes Wheeling, Palatine, Barrington, Schaumburg, Hanover and Elk Grove townships in Cook County; and Elia, Vernon, Libertyville, Deerfield and West Deerfield townships in Lake County.

Center Collects $4,260 From Hike

Money is expected to come in for as long as nine months, but the Northwest Opportunity Center has already collected $4,260 pledged by contributors who sponsored marchers in the area-wide "Hike for Your Neighbor" two weeks ago.

Center Dir. Karen Stanley said collections are up about $2,000 over last year at this time. Last year's hike raised about $17,500, and the money "dribbled in" for nine months, Miss Stanley said.

There is still no accurate estimate of how much money will be raised for the center by the approximately 1,000 hikers who took part in the 20-mile walk from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows April 23.

The money already collected this year surpasses the total that the center realized from last year's hike. The $17,500 raised last year was divided among four agencies that shared in the proceeds under the auspices of the Walther League, an organization of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod.

THIS YEAR, the opportunity center sponsored the hike independent of the Walther League and its satellite agencies and all the money raised will fund center programs.

Mrs. Rena Trevor, hike chairman and treasurer of the center's board of directors, speculated two weeks ago that the march might raise as much as $20,000.

Although only about half the anticipated number of people marched, she said the pledge levels are higher this year and more money should be raised.

The "Hike for Your Neighbor" is the main local fund raising project of the center. In order to meet a $93,000 budget the center has to raise approximately $35,000 locally to supplement $58,000 from the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity.

Some local funds have been contributed by area municipalities on a per-capita basis. That is, towns have contributed money based on the number of people that the opportunity center served last year in a particular town.

ORIGINALLY, the goal was to raise $25,000 in village contributions, but several towns have refused to participate. Only Arlington Heights ($3,100) and Hoffman Estates ($715) have appropriated money for the center. Palatine's village trustees established a fund to which about $400 has been contributed so far.

Buffalo Grove, Barrington, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows so far have refused to participate in funding the center.

In addition to the hike money and the village contributions, funds for the center come from churches and service organizations and clubs in the six townships the center serves.

Money from the hike is still being collected and can be turned in daily at the Northwest Opportunity Center office, 3411 Kirchoff Rd., Rolling Meadows. Hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pledge returns can also be mailed to the center. Checks should be made payable to the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Palatine Man Dies Of Smoke Inhalation

A small basement fire, apparently started from a burning cigaret, took the life of Dan Del Garza, 48, 562 W. Colfax St. Palatine, early Monday.

The fire, confined to the basement, started shortly after midnight in the two-story house, according to Palatine Fire Chief Orville Helms. Firemen found Del Garza's body a short distance from the bed, which had been destroyed by the flames.

Helms said Del Garza's death was due to smoke inhalation. Del Garza's cousin, Ben, Ben's wife and their eight children who lived in the rest of the house escaped unharmed from the blaze.

Helms said the fire was detected by Mrs. Del Garza when she smelled smoke coming from the basement where Dan lived alone. The blaze already damaged telephone lines from the house, preventing a call to report the fire.

A Palatine police car on patrol was stopped by Ben Del Garza on Colfax Street to alert them of the fire. Police then notified the fire department.

Dan Del Garza had been employed for seven or eight years by his cousin in his business, Ben's Septic Tank and Sewer Service at the Colfax Street address.

ARM OF A DOCTOR is what Dr. Stanley Zydlo calls the 220 firefighters and police officers he is currently teaching to be Emergency Medical Technicians. Zydlo, on leave from emergency room work at Northwest Community Hospital, is preparing these men for what he believes will be a vastly improved emergency treatment program throughout the Northwest suburbs.

Emergency Medical Technicians In Training

220 Men Become 'Arm Of The Doctor'

BY STEVE BROWN

What good is a hospital full of space age technology and equipment when the patient arrives at the emergency room dead?

None, is the answer to that question, but in the next few months at least one area doctor hopes a new training program will help more emergency cases arrive in time for treatment.

The doctor is Stanley Zydlo and the reason behind his optimism for the future is the 220 men he is training as "Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT) in this area.

"These men will be a new breed of cat," Zydlo says.

He said the 100-hour training course that is currently being taken by firefighters, police officers and private ambulance attendants will make them eligible to take a test to make them licensed medical technicians.

ZYDLO SAID that while the men will be trained to operate and administer electrocardiograms (EKG), intravenous transfusions, and certain drugs that they will always be in direct communications with doctors.

"These men will become an arm of the doctor," he said. The EMT program, which involves firefighters from almost all the Northwest suburbs, will be fully activated this summer. Communications and telemetry equipment will be placed in both Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village.

Much of the program's emphasis has been placed on treating heart attack victims. The mobile EKG units and defibrillators will enable doctors to monitor and treat these cases while they are in transit to the hospital.

"Over 70 per cent of these cases die before they reach the hospital," Zydlo says. The most dramatic impact from

Honeywell Strike Over

by DOUG RAY

The United Electrical Union Local 1114 has ended its nine-week strike at the Honeywell Inc. plant in Arlington Heights and union workers are scheduled to be back on the job at 7:30 a.m. this morning.

The union membership Sunday voted 4-1 to end the strike and accept a new two-year contract. The contract "contains substantial improvements," according to Michael Karpa, union business manager.

The 550-member union that makes up about half of the total work force at Honeywell, 1500 W. Dundee Rd., walked off the job March 6 after rejecting the company's contract offer, citing "inadequate fringe benefits."

Karpa said the union voted to end the boycott because of a combination of improved benefits and the length of the strike. "They had to decide how long they want to stay out to get more," he added.

THE STRIKE and subsequent negotiations brought several new benefits in the contract, Karpa said, including full-time vacation pay for veterans, changes in overtime pay provisions, maternity leaves and retirement.

Honeywell spokesman Tony Bartolini said the company made some changes in the contract proposal but would not be specific.

He said the 500 temporary workers, hired to replace strikers, will be released today. Many of the temporary employees are students and housewives.

During the nine-week strike, many of the workers secured other jobs, but Karpa said almost all of the union membership will be back on the job today.

A federal mediator entered negotiations between union and management nearly two months ago, and a dozen conciliation meetings were held before an agreement was reached.

A few incidents were reported to police as the strike progressed and at least two picketers were arrested.

KARPA said the union is unhappy over "the role of the state and the community" in the strike, referring to no-parking signs installed along a frontage road, allegedly to prohibit strikers from parking their cars there, and also alleged outside pressures from police.

Police and the village have denied any such pressures.

Production at the plant reached as high as 80 per cent of normal, management reported, during the latter days of the strike. Production was possible through the temporary workers and salaried workers who performed manufacturing jobs.

Accidents Take Lives Of Three

Three Elk Grove Township residents were killed in two separate accidents in DuPage County this weekend.

William Crews, 25, and Mrs. Michael Pabst, 24, both of Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., were killed Sunday in a two-car collision on Rte. 59 near the East-West Tollway. Seven persons were injured.

DuPage County Sheriff's Police said a car driven by Crews and a second car driven by Nancy Lash, 24, of Aurora, collided after Crews' car came off the tollway exit ramp onto Rte. 59.

Injured in the Crews' car were Mrs. Pabst's husband, Michael, 25, treated and released at Edward Hospital in Naperville; Rebecca DuFore, 18, Itasca, in satisfactory condition with internal injuries at Central DuPage Hospital in Winfield; Kathy Luebbbers, 25, of 729 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine, in intensive care with internal injuries and fractures at Central DuPage; and Benjamin Seelye, 20, of 3200 Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, in satisfactory condition with a broken pelvis at Hines Veterans Hospital, Maywood.

INJURED IN the Lash car were the driver, Miss Lash, in satisfactory condition with facial and internal injuries; Barbara Simmons, 24, of Naperville in satisfactory condition with a broken arm, and Alice Brown, 22, of Carbondale, in satisfactory condition with a broken leg and arm. All three were taken to Edward Hospital.

Kermit Medlock, 47, of 549 Corinthia Dr., was killed in a head-on collision Saturday on Rte. 64 near Wheaton.

Police said a car driven by Frank Cappuccio, 41, of Chicago, was heading west when it crossed the median strip and collided with Medlock's eastbound auto.

Cappuccio was in serious condition in the intensive care unit with eye injuries and leg lacerations at Central DuPage Hospital. His son, Roy, 13, a passenger in the car, sustained two broken legs and a broken arm. Police said no charges have been filed in connection with the accident.

Theft Reported

An estimated $300 in paint analyzing equipment, including two hypodermic syringes, were stolen Sunday from a car owned by Richard Matthews of 553 Stuart Ln., Palatine.

Police said a spray gun, attache case, stop watch and other small items were taken from Matthews' car. Matthews reportedly used the equipment and the syringes to measure minute quantities of silicon for enamel painting tests.

Illegal Immigrants Arrested For Fighting

Five illegal immigrants were arrested Sunday night by Palatine police for a fight downtown and were turned over yesterday to immigration officials for return to Mexico.

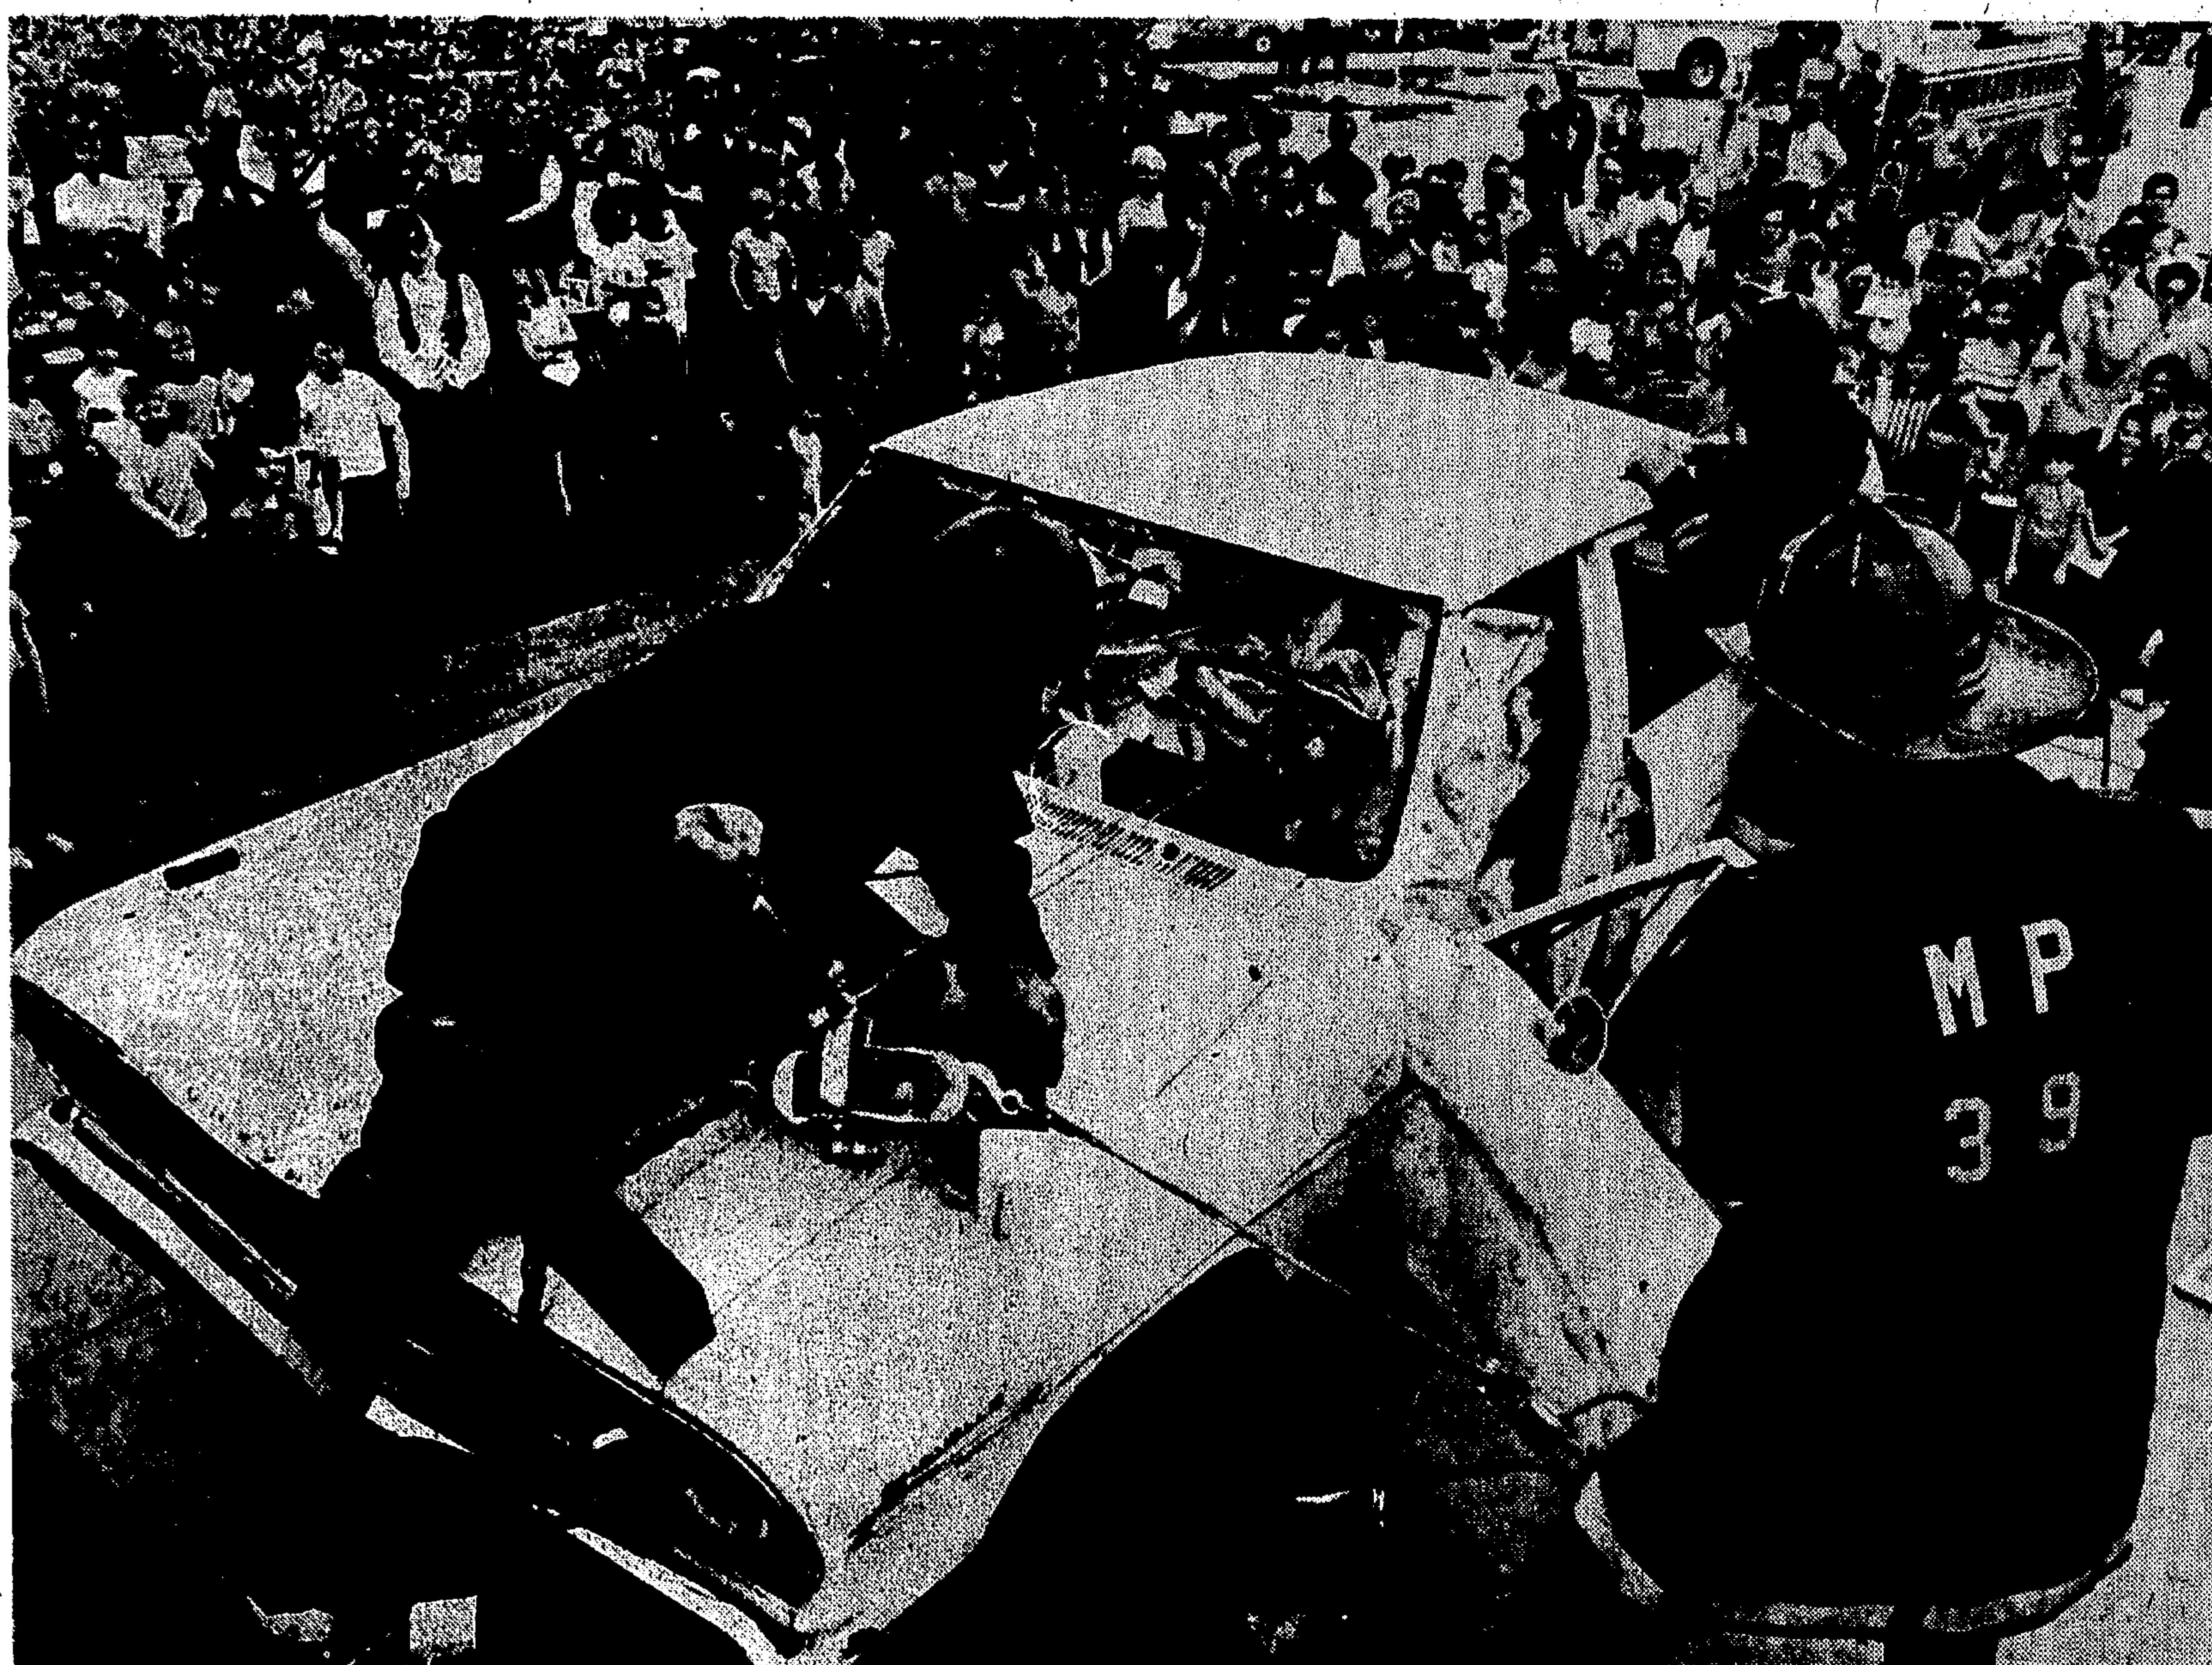

The five men, two from the Palatine area and the rest from outside town, were involved in a fist fight about 8:15 p.m. Sunday outside Mac and Al's Bar at 60 N. Bothwell St.

When police were called to break up the fight, they found inadequate identification on the men and reported them to immigration authorities.

Police said during the fight one of the men was pushed through the front door window of the bar, causing the only reported damage to property. No one was taken to the hospital for treatment.

Police said a sixth man was also involved in the fight, but escaped from the scene.

FIRE SERVICE RECOGNITION WEEK was climaxed Saturday at the Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect with a demonstration by firemen of how they remove victims from an auto accident. Here, firemen pry open a car door. "Victims" were then flown by helicopter to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines. Also Saturday firemen fought a simulated fire at the shopping center. Almost 20 area fire departments took part in the week-long observance at the shopping center. It was sponsored by the Elk Grove Village and Mount Prospect fire departments. Demonstrations of various firefighting and rescue techniques were held nightly at the shopping center also.

Special Assessment '70 Amounts Cut 45% By Jury

by TOM VON MALDER

After more than nine hours of deliberation, the jury in the six-day-old Special Assessment '70 trial returned a verdict reducing the assessments by 45 per cent.

The jury's verdict came after 9 p.m., alleviating fears of a deadlock that might have called for a new trial.

Circuit Court Judge Helen F. McGillicuddy said she would hear additional motions at 10:15 a.m. today.

Among those will be a motion by Atty. William Moore, who said he will seek "a verdict based on law, notwithstanding the verdict of the jury." Moore represented eight Busse Road objectors. He will in effect ask the court to reduce the assessment to "zero."

The jury also increased the compensation to Victor F. Herz of 211 Hatlen Ave. to $1,000 for an easement on his property.

The jury had been ordered to emerge with three required verdicts. At 8 p.m. the judge indicated she would allow the jury to go one more hour before dismissing members for the night. Had the deadlock not ended, a new trial would have been ordered.

FINAL ARGUMENTS were given yesterday morning by attorneys for both sides in the case which sees 112 property owners from along Busse and Meier roads and from the Hatlen Heights subdivision in Mount Prospect objecting to the size of their dollar assessments for the $634,000 storm sewer project. The project is designed to alleviate flooding in the area, according to the village.

Judge McGillicuddy, in her instructions to the jury yesterday morning, stressed that they had only two questions to consider: Namely, whether the subject properties are being assessed more than they are benefiting and whether the compensation offered by the village to Victor F. Herz, of 211 Hatlen Ave., is just compensation for easement on his property.

Herz was the only property owner to object to an easement. Twenty-six other property owners have not objected to the amounts offered by the village for easements on their property. The jury was instructed to bring back a verdict in favor of the village (the third verdict) granting the other easements because there were no objections filed.

It was explained to the jury that under the law benefit is defined as "an increase in the fair cash market value" of a piece of property.

In his summation before the jury, Atty. J. William Braithwaite said that the case was unusual for its type because "the evidence you (the jury) have heard is largely unrefuted. The only significant difference is with the testimony of the two real estate experts."

AS DID THE OTHER objecting attorneys, Braithwaite told the jury they should give credence and weight to the objectors' real estate witness, Ralph H.

Martin, but should disregard the testimony of Jack Witaowsky, the village's real estate expert.

Atty. William Moore, who with Braithwaite and Edward G. Finnegan worked as a team in presenting their case, delivered the objectors' first summation. He told the jury they had two tasks: "to separate fact from fiction and credibility from conjecture" when they examined the evidence and the witnesses.

As for Witaowsky, Moore said he had "excellent credentials as a real estate theorist but he doesn't know the territory (Hatlen Heights and its periphery)." During his address, Moore again stressed that he thought the project was designed to serve a much greater area than the 152 acres within the village that had been assessed.

Finnegan, Braithwaite and Atty. James J. Traynor both indicated that their clients would be willing to pay something, as long as it was less than their assessments.

Moore has asked the jury to reduce his eight clients' assessments to zero dollars because they, along Busse Road, are receiving no benefit at all.

The village's attorney, Kenneth O. Stonesieffer, defended both the project and the assessments made. He summarized the flooding problem and locations for the jury. "It is very clear this is the area that has been having flooding," he said, pointing to a map of the assessed areas.

WINTHROP GETS A talking to from Prof. Harold Hill in the Forest View High School production of "Music Man," scheduled to open Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The cast, left to right, are Ben Beach as Winthrop, John Tofilon as the professor, Leslie Green as Mrs. Paroo and Pam Drews as Marian. The play also will be presented at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Houchins Quits Race Against Crane

by BOB LAHEY

Charles W. Houchins of Mount Prospect yesterday informed Democratic leaders of the new 12th Congressional District that he is withdrawing as the candidate attempting to unseat Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Houchins declined to discuss the reasons for his withdrawal, other than to describe them as "complex and personal."

tional support. "It's a complicated district, and we just haven't got it organized," he said. "We just haven't got it organized."

Chesney, who was instrumental in persuading Houchins to run for Congress, said he believed Houchins withdrew because of said there were no individuals to blame for the lack of financial and organiza-

Daniel Pierce, state representative from Highland Park and Democratic state central committeeman for the 12th District, said a replacement will be found to oppose Crane in the November election.

HOUCHINS, 47, an attorney of Borg-Warner Corp., said he had informed Democratic leaders in the district that he will support any qualified candidate whom they pick for the race against Crane.

Pierce said he believed there would be a number of candidates willing to make the race against Crane. He pointed out that, while the results may be misleading, Houchins attracted more than 28,000 votes in the Democratic primary election, while Crane's total in the Republican primary was less than 21,000.

According to statute, a replacement candidate may be named by the Democratic township committeemen in Cook County, the Lake County chairman, and Pierce as state central committeeman.

The 12th District includes Wheeling, Palatine, Barrington, Schaumburg, Hanover and Elk Grove townships in Cook County; and Elia, Vernon, Libertyville, Deerfield and West Deerfield townships in Lake County.

High Density Apartment Zoning Asked

Multi-family housing is being sought for 20 acres just south of Willow Road in Prospect Heights.

Rezoning from the land's present single-family category to multi-family use is sought. The Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a public hearing on the request at 2 p.m. June 2 at the Wheeling Village Hall.

Charles Berke of Skokie, attorney for the land owners, said yesterday, "We are considering all possibilities of multiple-family use," adding that no final decision has been made.

"It may be condominiums or apartments," he said. Final density plans and height of the buildings are to be determined next week, he added.

"I expect it will be more than one building. We're asking for a planned development," he said.

Several apartment buildings are located in the area sought for rezoning, including Brandenberg Park Apartments, one of the largest complexes in the area.

The exact location of the land is north of Olive Street, east of Lancaster Avenue, south of Willow Road and west of Dale Avenue in Wheeling Township.

The Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals also will consider a request for office building zoning at the intersection of Rand Road and Margaret Avenue, north of Arlington Heights. The land is now zoned single-family. Both hearings will be held June 2 in the Wheeling Village Hall.

Plan Work At Center

Alterations in the electrical system were given top priority by an architect listing needed repairs in the Mount Prospect Park District's community center at 600 S. See-Gwon Ave.

The architect, James Viger, made his comments in a presentation last week to the park district's building and grounds committee. As part of their long-range plans, park district officials are considering ways to renovate the 42-year-old building.

Tom Cooper, park director, said yesterday the work would involve remodeling the building's electrical system. He also said that what architects once thought was a sagging roof turned out to be the way the building was designed. As a result, he said, "The ceiling is not in as bad shape as was thought."

Exactly what form the renovation work will take is uncertain at this point. Cooper said yesterday there are no funds in the proposed budget for work at the community center.

The park district purchased the building and the golf course behind it 11 years ago. A golf pro shop was added in 1963.

A "burning bush" will be awarded to one lucky guest at tomorrow's salad luncheon and plant auction, sponsored by the Garden Club of Mount Prospect. The winner will be selected in a drawing. This prize is particularly appropriate because Mayor Robert Telchert has proclaimed the "burning bush" Mount Prospect's official plant.

Tomorrow's luncheon is open to the public. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Eugene Friker at 253-4457. The luncheon begins at 12:45 at the Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 See-Gwun.

ANOTHER SPRING luncheon will be held tomorrow in Fellowship Hall of Trinity United Methodist Church. Members of the Women's Society of Christian Service will hear guest speakers from three local groups discuss the role of volunteer workers.

Speakers will be Anna Forlie of the Laubach Literacy Center; Mary Ellen Brady of the League of Women Voters; and Jackie Christiansen of the Mount Prospect ICE House.

Mrs. Okuma is also a teacher in the preschool program sponsored by the Mount Prospect Park District.

Teen Musical To Be Offered At Churches

"Tell It Like It Is," a 60-minute folk musical, will be performed later this month at several area churches. The show was organized, directed and produced by a group of local teenagers.

The idea originated with a Prospect High School student Nancy Flores during a high school lunchtime conversation with several other students. The girls encouraged classmates to join the production and today the group numbers about 45.

According to a spokesman for the group, the show is "God: who He is; how He reveals himself; what He is like; and some of the problems we are confronted with when we believe in Him." The show was written and composed by Ralph Carmichael and Kurt Kaiser.

The list of performances follows:

— May 14: 9:30 a.m. South Community Baptist Church, Mount Prospect; 3 p.m. Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church, Arlington Heights.

— May 21: 5:30 p.m. St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect; 8 p.m., St. Paul Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect.

— May 22: 7:30 p.m. St. Raymond Catholic Church, Mount Prospect.

Freewill offerings will be taken at each performance to help pay for the cost of music and royalties. A spokesman said other organizations can request the play for their group. Arrangements can be made by calling Ann Carpenter, 394-2321.

Accidents Take Lives Of Three

Three Elk Grove Township residents were killed in two separate accidents in DuPage County this weekend.

William Crews, 25, and Mrs. Michael Pabst, 24, both of Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., were killed Sunday in a two-car collision on Rte. 59 near the East-West Tollway. Seven persons were injured.

DuPage County Sheriff's Police said a car driven by Crews and a second car driven by Nancy Lash, 24, of Aurora, collided after Crews' car came off the tollway exit ramp onto Rte. 59.

Injured in the Crews' car were Mrs. Pabst's husband, Michael, 25, treated and released at Edward Hospital in Naperville; Rebecca DuFore, 18, Itasca, in satisfactory condition with internal injuries at Central DuPage Hospital in Winfield; Kathy Luebbers, 25, of 729 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine, in intensive care with internal injuries and fractures at Central DuPage; and Benjamin Seelye, 20, of 3200 Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, in satisfactory condition with a broken pelvis at Hines Veterans Hospital, Maywood.

INJURED in the Lash car were the driver, Miss Lash, in satisfactory condition with facial and internal injuries; Barbara Simmons, 24, of Naperville in satisfactory condition with a broken arm, and Alice Brown, 22, of Carol Dale, in satisfactory condition with a broken leg and arm. All three were taken to Edward Hospital.

Kermit Medlock, 47, of 549 Corinthia Dr., was killed in a head-on collision Saturday on Rte. 64 near Wheaton.

Police said a car driven by Frank Cappuccio, 41, of Chicago, was heading west when it crossed the median strip and collided with Medlock's eastbound auto.

Cappuccio was in serious condition in the intensive care unit with eye injuries and leg lacerations at Central DuPage Hospital. His son, Roy, 13, a passenger in the car, sustained two broken legs and a broken arm. Police said no charges have been filed in connection with the accident.

Return Voted After 9 Weeks

Honeywell Strike Is Over

by DOUG RAY

The United Electrical Union Local 1114 has ended its nine-week strike at the Honeywell Inc. plant in Arlington Heights and union workers are scheduled to be back on the job at 7:30 a.m. this morning.

The union membership Sunday voted 4-1 to end the strike and accept a new two-year contract. The contract "contains substantial improvements," according to Michael Karpas, union business manager.

The 550-member union that makes up about half of the total work force at Honeywell, 1500 W. Dundee Rd., walked off the job March 6 after rejecting the company's contract offer, citing "inadequate fringe benefits."

Karpas said the union voted to end the boycott because of a combination of improved benefits and the length of the strike. "They had to decide how long they want to stay out to get more," he added.

THE STRIKE and subsequent negotiations brought several new benefits in the contract, Karpas said, including full-time vacation pay for veterans, changes in overtime pay provisions, maternity leaves and retirement.

Honeywell spokesman Tony Bartolini said the company made some changes in the contract proposal but would not be specific.

He said the 500 temporary workers, hired to replace strikers, will be released today. Many of the temporary employees are students and housewives.

During the nine-week strike, many of the workers secured other jobs, but Karpas said almost all of the union membership will be back on the job today.

A federal mediator entered negotiations between union and management nearly two months ago, and a dozen conciliation meetings were held before an agreement was reached.

A few incidents were reported to police as the strike progressed and at least two picketers were arrested.

KARPA said the union is unhappy over "the role of the state and the community" in the strike, referring to no-parking signs installed along a frontage road, allegedly to prohibit strikers from parking their cars there, and also alleged outside pressures from police.

Police and the village have denied any such pressures.

Production at the plant reached as high as 80 per cent of normal, management reported, during the latter days of the strike. Production was possible through the temporary workers and salaried workers who performed manufacturing jobs.

Independent trucks delivered Honeywell goods during the strike, but union truckers observed the picket lines and refused to enter the plant, union officials reported.

Honeywell's last strike was in 1961 at its Morton Grove plant, where the factory facilities were located before moving to Arlington Heights last year.

All of the company's commercial operations were consolidated at the Arlington Heights plant. The firm here produces temperature controls, building automation systems and fire and security detectors for commercial buildings throughout the United States.

Center Collects $4,260 From Hike

Money is expected to come in for as long as nine months, but the Northwest Opportunity Center has already collected $4,260 pledged by contributors who sponsored marchers in the area-wide "Hike for Your Neighbor" two weeks ago.

Center Dir. Karen Stanley said collections are up about $2,000 over last year at this time. Last year's hike raised about $17,500, and the money "dribbled in" for nine months, Miss Stanley said.

There is still no accurate estimate of how much money will be raised for the center by the approximately 1,000 hikers who took part in the 20-mile walk from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows April 23.

The money already collected this year surpasses the total that the center realized from last year's hike. The $17,500 raised last year was divided among four agencies that shared in the proceeds under the auspices of the Walther League, an organization of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod.

THIS YEAR, the opportunity center sponsored the hike independent of the Walther League and its satellite agencies and all the money raised will fund center programs.

Mrs. Rena Trevor, hike chairman and treasurer of the center's board of directors, speculated two weeks ago that the march might raise as much as $20,000.

Although only about half the anticipated number of people marched, she said the pledge levels are higher this year and more money should be raised.

The "Hike for Your Neighbor" is the main local fund raising project of the center. In order to meet a $93,000 budget the center has to raise approximately $35,000 locally to supplement $59,000 from the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity.

Some local funds have been contributed by area municipalities on a per capita basis. That is, towns have contributed money based on the number of people that the opportunity center served last year in a particular town.

ORIGINALLY, the goal was to raise $25,000 in village contributions, but several towns have refused to participate. Only Arlington Heights ($3,100) and Hoffman Estates ($715) have appropriated money for the center. Palatine's village trustees established a fund to which about $400 has been contributed so far.

Buffalo Grove, Barrington, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows so far have refused to participate in funding the center.

In addition to the hike money and the village contributions, funds for the center come from churches and service organizations and clubs in the six townships the center serves.

Money from the hike is still being collected and can be turned in daily at the Northwest Opportunity Center office, 3411 Kirchoff Rd., Rolling Meadows. Hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pledge returns can also be mailed to the center. Checks should be made payable to the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Houchins Says He'll Quit Race Against Rep. Crane

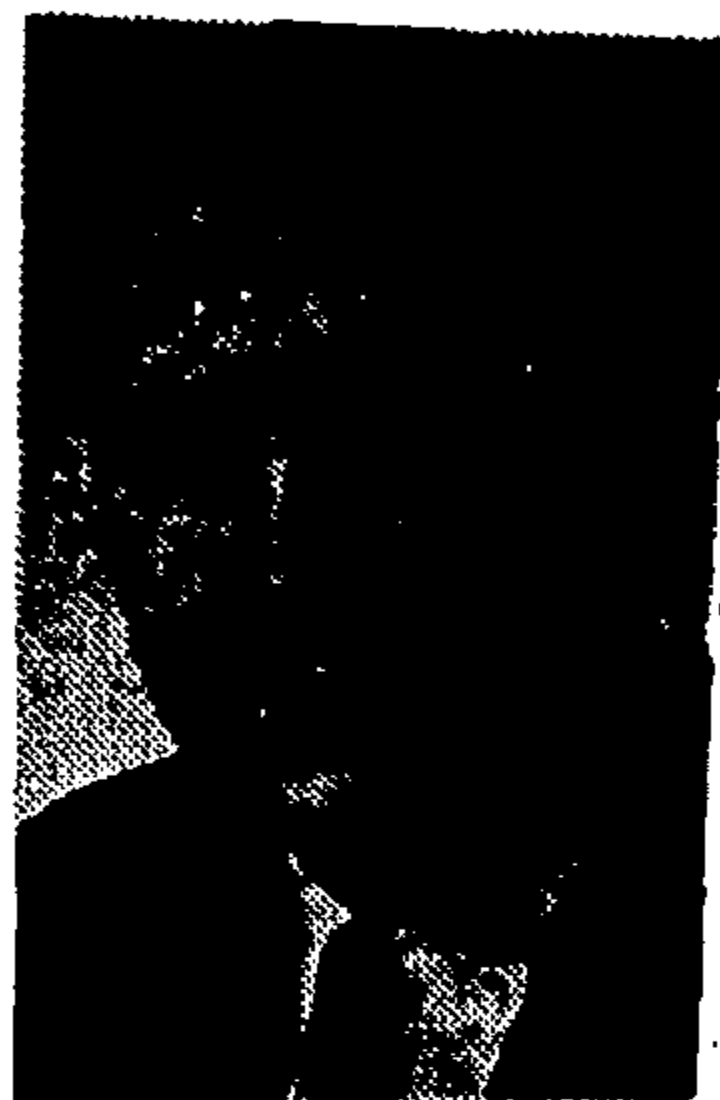

by BOB LAHEY

Charles W. Houchins of Mount Prospect yesterday informed Democratic leaders of the new 12th Congressional District that he is withdrawing as the candidate attempting to unseat Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Houchins declined to discuss the reasons for his withdrawal, other than to describe them as "complex and personal."

Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman, said he believed Houchins withdrew because of lack of support among the committeemen in the farflung district, which includes 11 townships in two counties.

Chesney, who was instrumental in persuading Houchins to run for Congress, said there were no individuals to blame for the lack of financial and organizational support. "It's a complicated district, and we just haven't got it organized properly yet," Chesney said.

Charles W.
Houchins

ized properly yet," Chesney said.

Daniel Pierce, state representative from Highland Park and Democratic state central committeeman for the 12th District, said a replacement will be found to oppose Crane in the November election.

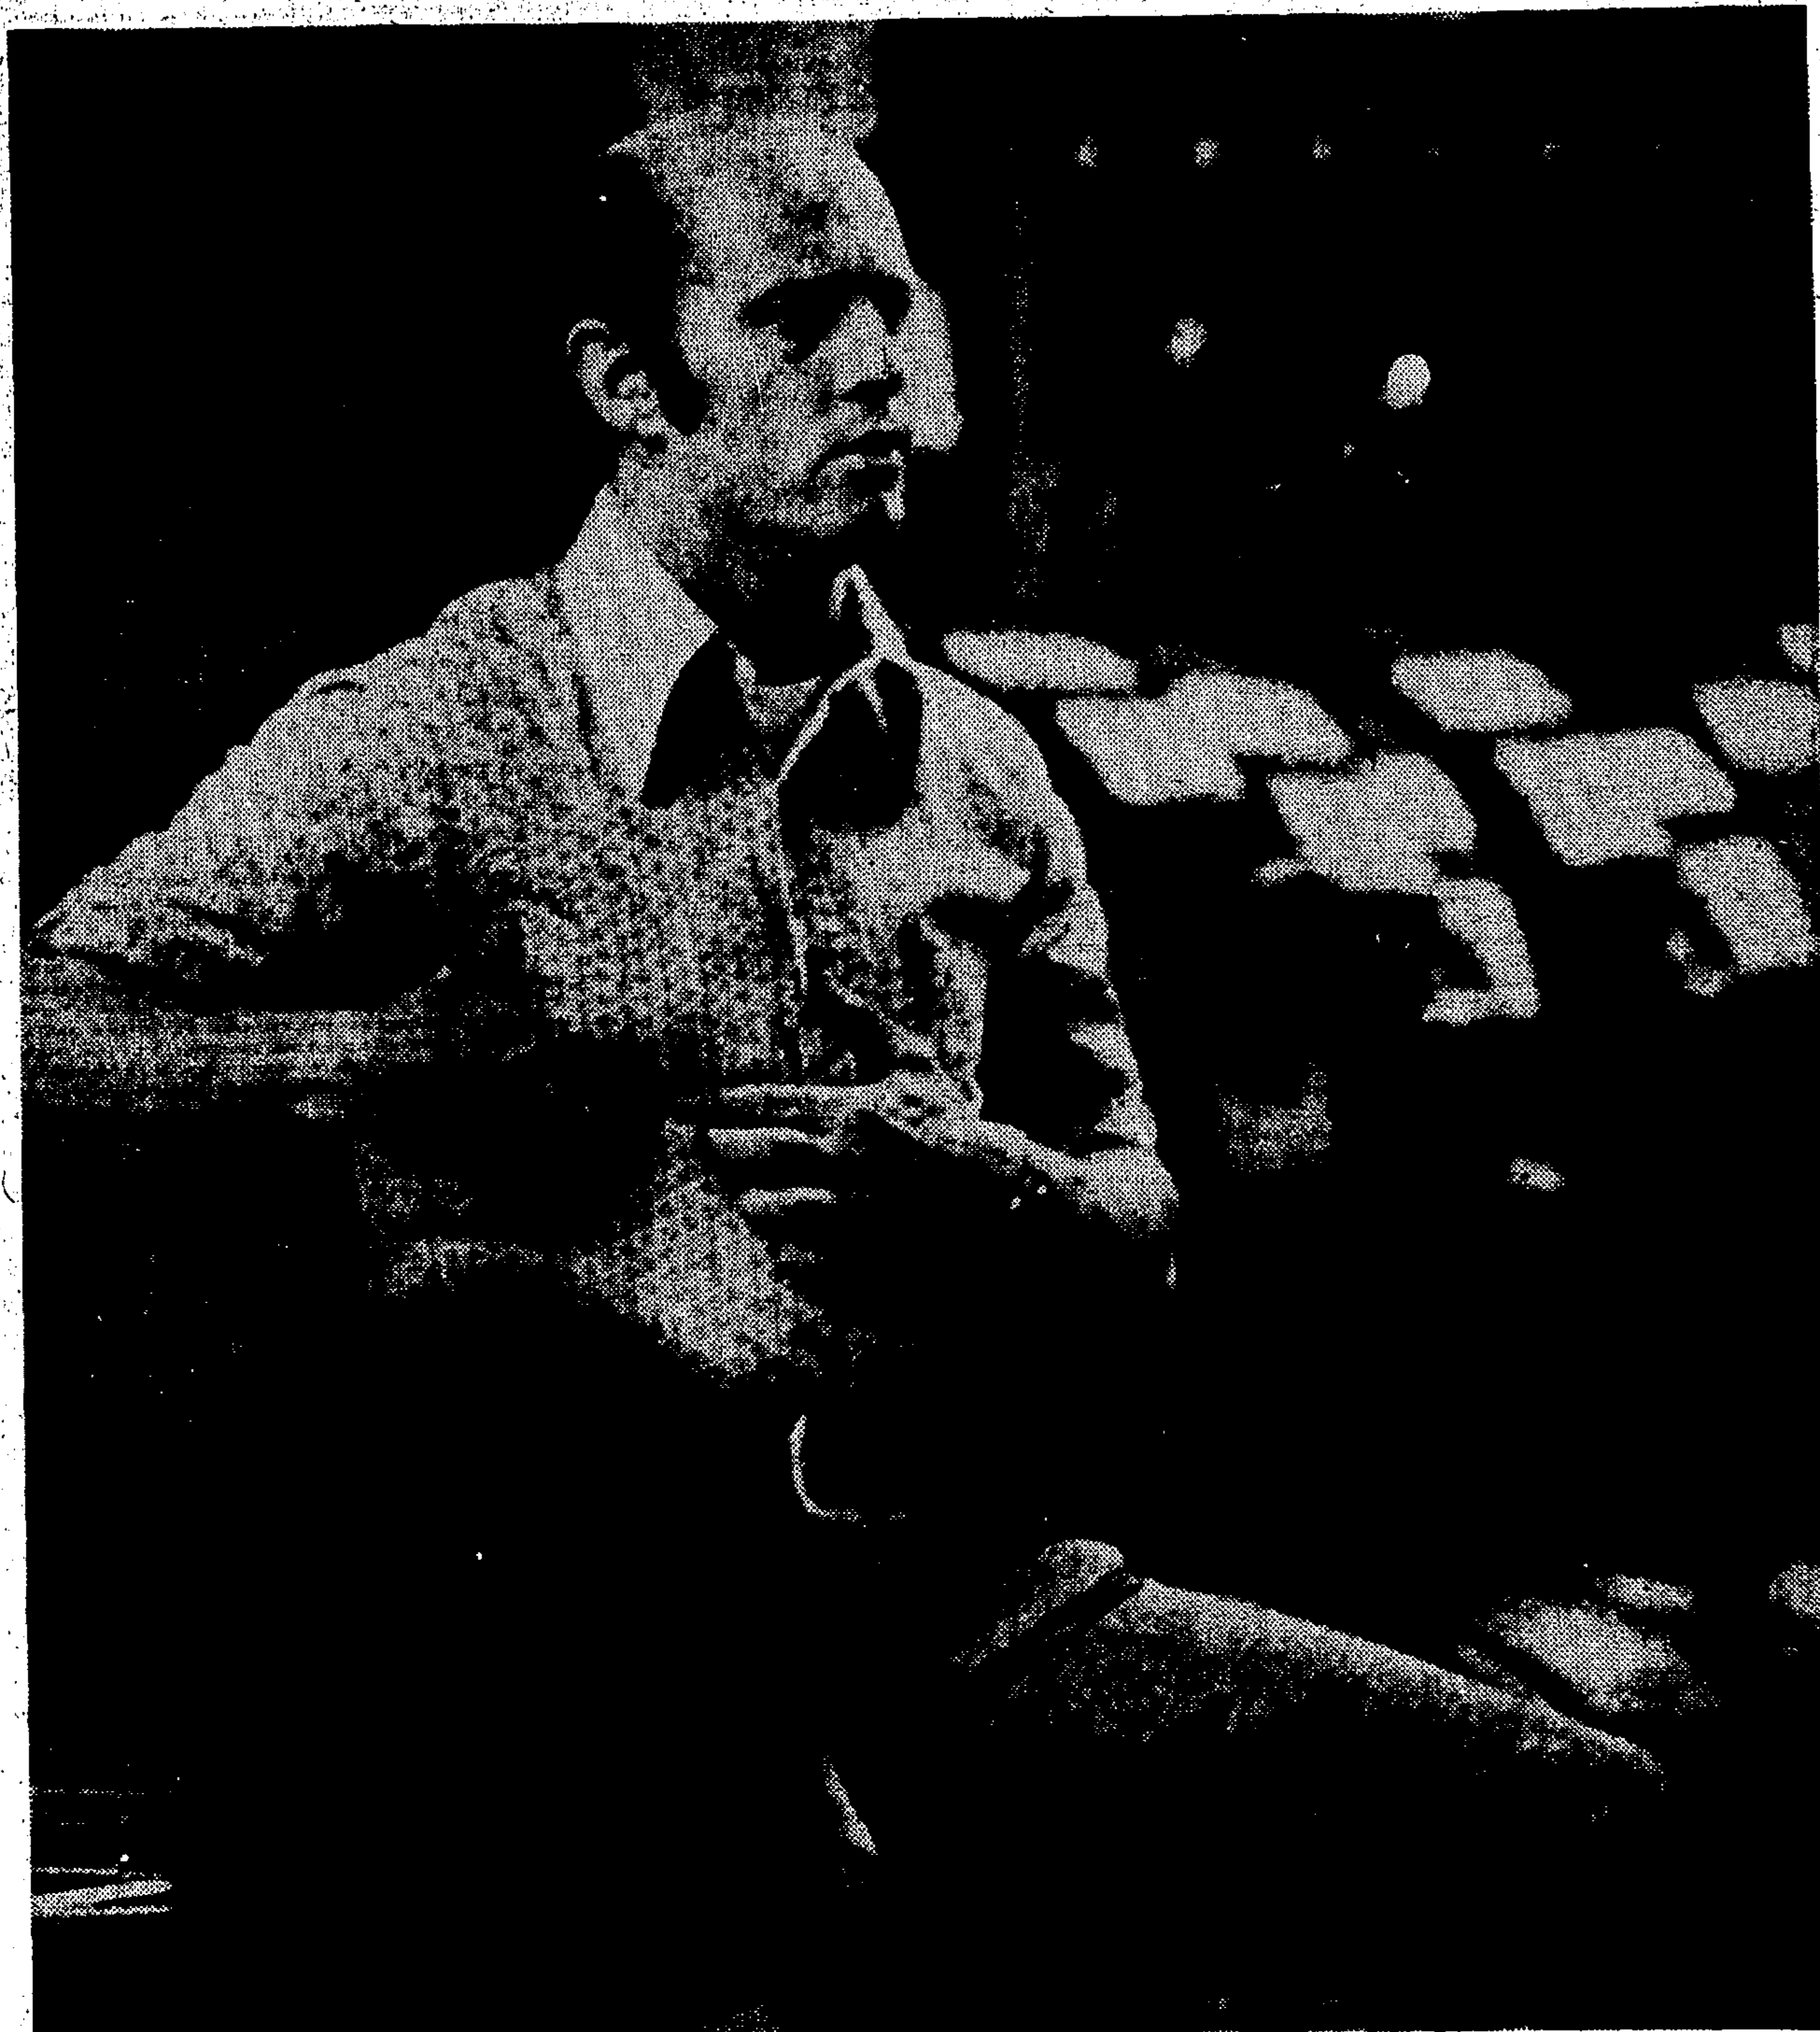

HOUCHINS, 47, an attorney of Borg-

Warner Corp., said he had informed Democratic leaders in the district that he will support any qualified candidate whom they pick for the race against Crane.

Pierce said he believed there would be a number of candidates willing to make the race against Crane. He pointed out that, while the results may be misleading, Houchins attracted more than 26,000 votes in the Democratic primary election, while Crane's total in the Republican primary was less than 21,000.

According to statute, a replacement candidate may be named by the Democratic township committeemen in Cook County, the Lake County chairman, and Pierce as state central committeeman.

The 12th District includes Wheeling, Palatine, Barrington, Schaumburg, Hanover and Elk Grove townships in Cook County; and Elia, Vernon, Libertyville, Deerfield and West Deerfield townships in Lake County.

ARM OF A DOCTOR is what Dr. Stanley Zydlo calls the 220 firefighters and police officers he is currently teaching to be Emergency Medical Technicians. Zydlo, on leave from emergency room work at Northwest Community Hospital, is preparing these men for what he believes will be a vastly improved emergency treatment program throughout the Northwest suburbs.

Return Voted After 9 Weeks

Honeywell Strike Is Over

by DOUG RAY

The United Electrical Union Local 1114 has ended its nine-week strike at the Honeywell Inc. plant in Arlington Heights and union workers are scheduled to be back on the job at 7:30 a.m. this morning.

The union membership Sunday voted 4-1 to end the strike and accept a new two-year contract. The contract "contains substantial improvements," according to Michael Karpa, union business manager.

The 550-member union that makes up about half of the total work force at Honeywell, 1500 W. Dundee Rd., walked off the job March 6 after rejecting the company's contract offer, citing "inadequate fringe benefits."

Karpa said the union voted to end the boycott because of a combination of improved benefits and the length of the strike. "They had to decide how long they want to stay out to get more," he added.

THE STRIKE and subsequent negotiations brought several new benefits in the contract, Karpa said, including full-time vacation pay for veterans, changes in overtime pay provisions, maternity leaves and retirement.

Honeywell spokesman Tony Bartolini said the company made some changes in the contract proposal but would not be specific.

He said the 500 temporary workers, hired to replace strikers, will be released today. Many of the temporary employees are students and housewives.

During the nine-week strike, many of the workers secured other jobs, but Karpa said almost all of the union membership will be back on the job today.

A federal mediator entered negotiations between union and management nearly two months ago, and a dozen conciliation meetings were held before an agreement was reached.

A few incidents were reported to police as the strike progressed and at least two picketers were arrested.

KARPA said the union is unhappy over "the role of the state and the community" in the strike, referring to no-parking signs installed along a frontage road, allegedly to prohibit strikers from parking their cars there, and also alleged outside pressures from police.

Police and the village have denied any such pressures.

Production at the plant reached as high as 80 per cent of normal, management reported, during the latter days of the strike. Production was possible through the temporary workers and salaried workers who performed manufacturing jobs.

Independent trucks delivered Honeywell goods during the strike, but union truckers observed the picket lines and refused to enter the plant, union officials reported.

Honeywell's last strike was in 1961 at its Morton Grove plant, where the factory facilities were located before moving to Arlington Heights last year.

All of the company's commercial operations were consolidated at the Arlington Heights plant. The firm here produces temperature controls, building automation systems and fire and security detectors for commercial buildings throughout the United States.

Emergency Medical Technicians In Training

220 Men Become 'Arm Of The Doctor'

BY STEVE BROWN

What good is a hospital full of space age technology and equipment when the patient arrives at the emergency room dead?

None, is the answer to that question, but in the next few months at least one area doctor hopes a new training program will help more emergency cases arrive in time for treatment.

The doctor is Stanley Zydlo and the reason behind his optimism for the future is the 220 men he is training as "Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT) in this area."

"These men will be a new breed of cat," Zydlo says.

He said the 100-hour training course that is currently being taken by firefighters, police officers and private ambulance attendants will make them eligible to take a test to make them licensed medical technicians.

ZYDLO SAID that while the men will be trained to operate and administer electrocardiograms (EKG), intravenous transfusions, and certain drugs that they will always be in direct communications with doctors.

"These men will become an arm of the doctor," he said. The EMT program, which involves firefighters from almost all the Northwest suburbs, will be fully activated this summer. Communications and telemetry equipment will be placed in both Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights and Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village.

Much of the program's emphasis has been placed on treating heart attack victims. The mobile EKG units and defibrillators will enable doctors to monitor and treat these cases while they are in transit to the hospital.

"Over 70 per cent of these cases die before they reach the hospital," Zydlo says. The most dramatic impact from the training course should be seen in this area.

The 38-year-old doctor said that while the men have only been attending classes for five weeks, the results of the course are already being seen.

"Now when a patient is brought in, the ambulance attendants will be able to provide a medical history, details of the accident and other pertinent data," Zydlo says, pointing to the increased quality of service being offered.

The former Air Force flight surgeon said this program is the first of its kind in Illinois. He said similar programs have been in effect in Los Angeles, Miami and Hartford, Conn., for several years. Illinois is three years behind these areas.

"These men won't replace the doctors and nurses, but they will go a long way in improving the service and giving the taxpayer more for his dollar," Zydlo says.

WHILE THIS initial training course ends next month, Zydlo is planning refresher sessions and hoping that one of the area colleges will take over the training full-time.

Before starting the program Zydlo worked in the emergency room at Northwest Community Hospital.

He would like to see a fully standardized national program for this type of training.

Maybe then he will not have to ask about the value of modern equipment. The EMT program will put it in the range of all patients.

Watch Front Seats

Mrs. Mary Wirka of Arlington Heights must have had a rough ride home from Randhurst Shopping Center this weekend.

She returned to her car in the shopping center's parking lot to find the front seats missing.

Mount Prospect police are investigating the incident along with at least two other similar such thefts last week. Thieves are taking the seats from late-model Volkswagens, according to a police department employee.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has ordered a naval blockade of North Vietnamese ports including Haiphong, to deny Hanoi "the weapons and supplies it needs to continue aggression. These actions are not directed against any other nation," Nixon said. Other countries with ships in North Vietnam's harbors "have been notified their ships will have three daylight periods to leave" in safety. "There is only one way to stop the killing," a grim Nixon told a radio and television address to the nation. "That is to keep the weapons of war out of the hands of the international outlaws of North Vietnam."

Amid rumors of a new allied counter-offensive, or a blockade of Haiphong harbor, President Nixon met for three hours with the National Security Council prior to making a nationwide televised speech last night.

The three leading candidates for the Democratic Party's presidential nomination — Hubert Humphrey, George McGovern, and George Wallace, headed into showdown primaries today in Nebraska and West Virginia.

Three Arab guerrillas hijacked a Belgian Sabena airliner over Europe and flew it to Tel Aviv where they threatened to blow up the plane and 99 persons aboard unless Israel released guerrilla captives from Israeli jails.

The War

The U.S. Command said American warplanes attacked a North Vietnamese military training base 15 miles west of Hanoi, but the Communists said the raids were directed against river dikes in an attempt to cut off the country's food supply. Radio Hanoi said planes bombed along the Red River in the heart of the crop-producing region to try to flood the rice fields. The U.S. Command denied jets bombed the dikes.

Housing Survey Planned

Mount Prospect officials will meet with the Arlington Heights planning department before beginning a survey of Mount Prospect residents on the need for low and moderate-income housing in that village.

Dr. Michael Ruane, commission chairman, said, "We have decided we need information on the matter and we will try to set up a survey." Commission members have not yet decided how the survey will be taken or what questions will be included. The decision to take the survey was made at the commission's meeting Thursday.

The group's next meeting is planned for June 1. At that time commission members plan to meet with Arlington Heights officials who performed a similar survey in that village.

The question of low and moderate-income housing in the village was turned over to the commission earlier this year. Last September the matter was first brought before the village board by the Mount Prospect-Prospect Heights Human Relations Committee.

The committee urged the board to study what it termed "the inequities in housing that affect the village." A resolution stating there was a need for such housing in Mount Prospect was considered earlier this year by the village's public health and safety committee. Rather than voting on the resolution, the committee referred the matter to the commission.

Meeting Tomorrow At Wheeling High

Band Trip: Is It On Or Off?

by RICH HONACK
A News Analyst

"Will the Wheeling High School Band make a trip to Germany this summer or won't it?"

That is a question band parents will have to answer at a meeting of the Wheeling Instrumental League Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the school.

The parents and organizers of the trip have been working hard to raise the $140,000 necessary to make the two-week tour. They have enough money to make a second payment, due May 15. But according to officials, the outlook is dim for raising approximately $70,000 more before a June 30 deadline.

The only way the money can be raised, as it appears now, is if someone decides to pay the entire bill for the trip, which at this late date seems unlikely, or if the parents decide to pay for the entire trip themselves.

TOM SHIRLEY, principal of Wheeling High School has sent each band parent a letter explaining the financial situation of the trip, again explaining the decision is theirs to make.

According to Shirley's letter, 132 band families have already donated a total of $12,250. This does not include any money donated by parents at pancake breakfasts, car washes and other fund-raising events, when the same faces have been seen again and again.

Non-parent contributions at this point total $27,016, with another $10,000 pledged by W. Clement Stone and $1,000 by the Wheeling Chamber of Commerce. Shirley's letter also states that the most non-parent support that could possibly come is $8,000.

Therefore the only way the students are going to make the trip overseas is if 165 band families divide up approximately $55,686. That works out to roughly $435 per family unit, which must be paid no later than June 15, if the parents decide to go ahead with the trip.

IN HIS LETTER to the parents, Shirley gives the parents four other alternatives, to which they have been asked to respond.

They are:
—To participate even though they are not able to contribute the full amount of $435 but feel they can contribute something.

—To participate although unable to provide any financial assistance.

—Not to participate.

—To contribute an additional amount to help the cause.

Shirley asked the parents to send him their opinions, in strict confidence, by today. He added that this is the only way an intelligent decision could be made about future plans for the trip.

Many of the parents have worked hard and long to keep the Wheeling band trip alive. And undoubtedly, many will be in favor of paying the $435. But is it worth it?

No one can honestly answer that but the parents.

They have been told how the trip will be educational for their children and bring honor to Wheeling, the State of Illinois and the United States.

They have also, from many reports, been told that the travel agency and the organizers of the trip will get 10 per cent of the gross profits, which in the case of Wheeling High School is close to $13,000.

For all 14 bands expected to make the tour the gross profits will be close to $100,000.

THE PARENTS ALSO have been told that there is no connection between the travel agency and the National Educational Scholarship foundation, sponsors of the tour. At the present time there is no connection.

However, when the trip was organized, and until the end of last month, a Chicago industrialist was both the owner of the travel agency and one of the founders of NESF. According to the industrialist, he sold his stock in the travel agency at the end of last month.

This earlier connection, though now defunct, leads to another question for the parents at the Wednesday night meeting:

Was the trip solely designed to be educational and bring honor, or was it designed to help raise money for a travel agency? If education and honor are the primary goals, why hasn't the profit margin been cut to a minimum?

The Wheeling High School Band parents deserve to know.

High-Density Apartment Zoning Is Requested

Multi-family housing is being sought for 20 acres just south of Willow Road in Prospect Heights.

Rezoning from the land's present single-family category to multi-family use is sought. The Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a public hearing on the request at 2 p.m. June 2 at the Wheeling Village Hall.

Charles Berke of Skokie, attorney for the land owners, said yesterday, "We are considering all possibilities of multiple-family use," adding that no final decision has been made.

"It may be condominiums or apartments," he said. Final density plans and height of the buildings are to be determined next week, he added.

"I expect it will be more than one building . . . We're asking for a planned development," he said.

Several apartment buildings are located in the area sought for rezoning.

including Brandeberry Park Apartments, one of the largest complexes in the area.

The exact location of the land is north of Olive Street, east of Lancaster Avenue, south of Willow Road and west of Dale Avenue in Wheeling Township.

The Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals also will consider a request for office building zoning at the intersection of Rand Road and Margaret Avenue, north of Arlington Heights. The land is now zoned single-family. Both hearings will be held June 2 in the Wheeling Village Hall.

Near Mount Prospect Road, Tollway

Big Hotel, Exposition Hall Planned

The City of Des Plaines has been asked to annex land at the southwest corner of Wille and Mount Prospect roads to clear the way for construction of a $28 million hotel-exposition hall development.

At his weekly press conference yesterday, Mayor Herbert Behrel said a private developer will construct a 100,000-square-foot exposition hall and a 500-room hotel if the 65-acre site just north of the Northwest Tollway is annexed and supplied with city services and roads.

Behrel indicated that the developers have an option on the site and that the land would be bought after a favorable city decision on annexation.

Behrel also said construction of the proposed development would probably necessitate widening along nearby streets.

ANTHONY FINOCCHIO, spokesman for the land developers, told the Herald yesterday that he will meet next week with City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi and other city officials to work out details of annexation and zoning.

Finocchio said the development company is now discussing hotel construction with several national hotel chains. Behrel said that the hotel's maximum height would probably be set by the Federal Aviation Administration, because of the site's closeness to the airport.

The site is roughly triangular and bounded by Wille on the north, Mount Prospect on the east and by a diagonal section of the tollway on the south. A large lake, which had only recently been filled in, had existed on most of the property.

The site is about a mile east of the planned Metropolitan Sanitary District sewage treatment plant, slated for construction at Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road.

The development company includes individuals who recently built a $35 million recreation and hotel center along Lake Arrowhead near Los Angeles, Calif., Finocchio said.

The Des Plaines development would include an $8 million exposition center, a $20 million hotel, a theater for professional play production, and parking spaces for 6,500 cars, Finocchio said. The hotel would face Mount Prospect Road and the exposition center would face the tollway, and the Des Plaines tollway oasis overpass.

The development company hopes to attract business exhibitors who do not need the large display space now offered by McCormick Place in Chicago, he said.

Most firms do not require the 300,000 square feet of space offered at McCormick Place, Finocchio said. Because Chicago's exposition hall is usually reserved up to three years ahead, future planning for use of McCormick is difficult, he said.

THE DES PLAINES exposition hall would provide about 100,000 square feet, or room for 300 exhibit booths, he said. While several hotels and other facilities in the Chicago area have this much space, none of them provide 100,000 square feet on one floor alone, he said.

Analysis by the development company has indicated that Chicago-area exposition facilities will soon be inadequate and insufficient to meet the demand for space soon, he said.

The proposed development would benefit from being close to O'Hare Airport and the tollway, Finocchio said. The planned hall will also help provide business for other nearby hotels on Mannheim Road, he said.

During slack exposition seasons, in the summer months, use of the hall could be used for civic events and athletic contests, he said.

Houchins Says He'll Quit Race Against Rep. Crane

by BOB LAHEY

Charles W. Houchins of Mount Prospect yesterday informed Democratic leaders of the new 12th Congressional District that he is withdrawing as the candidate attempting to unseat Republican Rep. Philip M. Crane.

Houchins declined to discuss the reasons for his withdrawal, other than to describe them as "complex and personal."

Chester Chesney, Elk Grove Township Democratic committeeman, said he believed Houchins withdrew because of lack of support among the committeemen in the far-flung district, which includes 11 townships in two counties.

Chesney, who was instrumental in persuading Houchins to run for Congress, said there were no individuals to blame for the lack of financial and organizational support. "It's a complicated district, and we just haven't got it organized properly yet," Chesney said.

Daniel Pierce, state representative from Highland Park and Democratic state central committeeman for the 12th District, said a replacement will be found to oppose Crane in the November election.

HOUCHINS, 47, an attorney of Borg-Warner Corp., said he had informed Democratic leaders in the district that he will support any qualified candidate whom they pick for the race against Crane.

Charles W. Houchins

Pierce said he believed there would be a number of candidates willing to make the race against Crane. He pointed out that, while the results may be misleading, Houchins attracted more than 25,000 votes in the Democratic primary election, while Crane's total in the Republican primary was less than 21,000.

According to statute, a replacement candidate may be named by the Democratic township committeemen in Cook County, the Lake County chairman, and Pierce as state central committeeman.

The 12th District includes Wheeling, Palatine, Barrington, Schaumburg, Hanover and Elk Grove townships in Cook County; and Elia, Vernon, Libertyville, Deerfield and West Deerfield townships in Lake County.

State Junior Miss Competes Tonight

Illinois Junior Miss, Barbara Jean Gorgol, will be appearing on national television tonight as she competes to be named the nation's outstanding high school senior girl. She is the daughter of the George F. Gorgols of Des Plaines.

Fifty coeds, representing every state, are vying for the title of America's Junior Miss of 1972, an honor accompanied by a $10,000 college scholarship.

Arlene Stens of Woodlynne, N.J., America's Junior Miss of 1971, will crown her successor at the climax of the pageant in Mobile, Ala. The program is being telecast on NBC beginning at 7:30 p.m. Master of ceremonies for the evening is Ed McMahon.

Last fall, Miss Gorgol was named as one of two Paddock Publications' Junior Misses in the locally sponsored pageant. She received a $500 scholarship and a chance to enter the Illinois Pageant held in Berwyn the end of December. The Maine East High School senior walked off with the state title and a savings bond of $1,000.

USING THE WORDS, "The world and I have seen each other and we are in love," Illinois' Junior Miss explains being the daughter of an Air Force man gave her untold opportunities to compare each new duty station and its circumstances with previous experiences, making adjustments and seeking the best from each.

On local, state and national competition levels, the contestants are judged on poise, physical fitness and talent. To even be eligible to enter, girls have to have grades of a B average or better.

As her talent, Barb presented an original piano solo. She is planning to major in music next fall at De Paul University.

In the second night of preliminary competition this weekend, Barb received a national scholastic achievement award of $1,000.

FLY TYING, a demonstration by Jerry Wasil, member of the Northwest Fly Tying Club of Chicago, was one of the featured exhibits last week and at the 14th Annual Outdoor Sports and Vacation Show at Rand Park. The show drew about 10,000 persons, according to the Des Plaines Park District, which co-sponsored the event with the Isaac Walton League.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

President Nixon has ordered a naval blockade of North Vietnamese ports including Haiphong, to deny Hanoi "the weapons and supplies it needs to continue aggression. These actions are not directed against any other nation," Nixon said. Other countries with ships in North Vietnam's harbors "have been notified their ships will have three daylight periods to leave" in safety. "There is only one way to stop the killing," a grim Nixon told a radio and television address to the nation. "That is to keep the weapons of war out of the hands of the international outlaws of North Vietnam."

Amid rumors of a new allied counter-offensive, or a blockade of Haiphong harbor, President Nixon met for three hours with the National Security Council prior to making a nationwide televised speech last night.

The three leading candidates for the Democratic Party's presidential nomination — Hubert Humphrey, George McGovern, and George Wallace, headed into showdown primaries today in Nebraska and West Virginia.

The State

Gov. Ogilvie accused Democratic challenger Daniel Walker of using campaign tactics similar to those of a Nazi propagandist.

Afternoon classes at Western Illinois University were canceled so that workmen could attempt to trace and repair power line breaks that caused a massive electrical failure on the Macomb campus.

Honduran soldiers searched the jungles for the third day without finding a trace of the hijacker of an Eastern Airlines jet who parachuted Saturday with $305,000 in ransom.

The World

The Communist Party Central Committee met to expel four former party leaders accused of attempting to divide Yugoslavia by promoting nationalism in the country's Croatian Republic.

Three Arab guerrillas hijacked a Belgian Sabena airliner over Europe and flew it to Tel Aviv where they threatened to blow up the plane and 99 persons aboard unless Israel released guerrilla captives from Israeli jails.

The War

The U.S. Command said American warplanes attacked a North Vietnamese military training base 15 miles west of Hanoi, but the Communists said the raids were directed against river dikes in an attempt to cut off the country's food supply. Radio Hanoi said planes bombed along the Red River in the heart of the crop-producing region to try to flood the rice fields. The U.S. Command denied jets bombed the dikes.

Rev. Lichty served as a missionary minister in Kenya, East Africa, from 1936 to 1963. Educated at the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago and ordained in 1938, he organized missionary churches and schools and trained staff personnel, flying a bush plane in East Africa.

In 1953, he became dean of Beulah Heights College in Atlanta, Ga., and later served as national field representative of the International Pentecostal Assemblies. Rev. Lichty was later named pastor of the Northwest Assembly of God Church in Des Plaines and in 1970 became pastor of the Calvary Open Bible Church.

Preschool Swim Growing At 'Y'

The preschool swim program at Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy. in Des Plaines, continues to grow.

Forty-one classes from ages 9 months to 5 years are currently being taught with approximately 850 children. Twenty classes with children between 6 and 7 are being conducted with 480 children enrolled.

"It is important that children exercise their muscles and have as much movement education as possible at the earliest age," according to Nicki Doehler, aquatic program director.

SKI and water orientation and learning to enjoy the water can happen at an early age. Coordination of strokes and swimming skill occurs with older preschoolers. The ideal age for teaching children to swim is between 5 and 7, although some children learn to swim effectively earlier.

Tenth School Break-In Occurs

The tenth Des Plaines school break-in in the last three weeks was reported yesterday morning when police apparently came close to catching the burglar.

Patrolman Jerry Jerome said he noticed broken glass in a door at High Ridge Knolls School, 588 S. Dana James Rd., while on patrol at about 1 a.m. yesterday.

He and Patrolman Scott Schindler entered and saw evidence of a break-in but said the office area was not tampered with and speculated that the thief escaped while Jerome was checking the other side of the school.

Ten break-ins, including eight burglaries, have been reported in Des Plaines schools during the last three weeks.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What could be the reason for an attack of acute indigestion causing nausea which will wake one from a sound sleep in the middle of the night? All of the discomfort seems to be in the esophagus. I am 45 and have had this problem for years. I have been checked out with x-rays several times and no real cause is found. I am short-waisted. Could this contribute to my problem? Several weeks ago I had an attack of severe chest pain and the doctor put me through all the tests in the hospital. He found nothing except that my stomach hits the diaphragm though did not cause hiatal hernia. What are the main causes of such an attack and treatments? What are the precautions against another attack?

Dear Reader — It is very difficult to know exactly what you had on the little amount of information available. You say that you have had acute acid indigestion with nausea. I presume this means the kind of discomfort you could have if you had a regurgitation of the acid contents of the stomach to the lower part of the esophagus.

While it is true that this commonly occurs as a result of hiatal hernia, it can also occur if a portion of the esophagus extends below the diaphragm. This affects the normal closure of the opening of the stomach and allows regurgitation of acid juices from the stomach into the lower esophagus, which in this case might be below the diaphragm. The lower lining of the esophagus is sensitive to the burning characteristic of acid juice from the stomach. It is possible that this could be associated with being short-waisted.

Regurgitation of the stomach's contents can occur whenever there is any

William J. Crews

Services will be held tomorrow for William J. Crews, 25, of 941 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Village. He died Sunday in an automobile accident in DuPage County.

Mr. Crews, a veteran of the Vietnam War, was born Sept. 10, 1946. Surviving are his widow, Harriet, of Elk Grove Village; parents Elbert and Dorothy Crews of Des Plaines; a sister, Susan (Gary) Young of Elk Grove Village; sisters Kathleen and Deborah of Des Plaines; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Anderson of Chicago; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Crews of Glasgow, Kentucky.

He will lie in state after 2 p.m. today at Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines. Services will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at the Oehler chapel, Rev. Mark G. Bergman officiating. Burial will be in Memory Gardens.

Herbert G. Neumann

Services will be held today for Herbert G. Neumann, 77, 701 Lance Dr., Des Plaines, who died Saturday at Holy Family Hospital. He was a retired carpenter in the building trades and was born Feb. 15, 1895.

He is survived by his widow, Pearl, of Des Plaines; a daughter, Marcel (Arthur) Meeker of Arlington Heights; a son, George, of Des Plaines; six grandchildren; and a sister, Harriet Dehnert, of Mount Prospect.

Services will be at 3 p.m. today at Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines, Rev. James W. Jackson officiating. Burial will be in Acacia Park.

form of disturbance of the normal closure mechanism at the entrance of the stomach.

NOW THERE ARE a lot of other reasons for waking up with indigestion at night, even including a heart attack, but inasmuch as you say you have had this for years and had it investigated several times, recurring attacks of this sort would be less likely to be caused by heart attacks. Spasm of the esophagus can also cause it.

Since you state that these occur at night, and don't refer to them occurring at other times, I would think it may be the reflux problem very similar to hiatal hernia. In that case the best treatment would be essentially the same things recommended for hiatal hernia. That includes small meals and preferably nothing to eat for about two hours before you go to bed. If you continued to have trouble, it would be well to have the head of the bed elevated.

Be careful not to eat anything after a set time in the evening. Don't drink anything to stimulate acid production. You could try these simple measures at first and if you are still having discomfort take some anti-acid tablets before going to bed. You can obtain these without a prescription in any drug store.

Of course, I assume you will stop drinking coffee and avoid cigarettes and alcohol, all of which may add to your complaint.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.) Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., Padlock Publications, P. O. Box 286, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Center Collects $4,260 From Hike

Money is expected to come in for as long as nine months, but the Northwest Opportunity Center has already collected $4,260 pledged by contributors who sponsored marchers in the area-wide "Hike for Your Neighbor" two weeks ago.

Center Dir. Karen Stanley said collections are up about $2,000 over last year at this time. Last year's hike raised about $17,500, and the money "dribbled in" for nine months, Miss Stanley said.

There is still no accurate estimate of how much money will be raised for the center by the approximately 1,000 hikers who took part in the 20-mile walk from Park Ridge to Rolling Meadows April 23.

The money already collected this year surpasses the total that the center realized from last year's hike. The $17,500 raised last year was divided among four agencies that shared in the proceeds under the auspices of the Walk for the League, an organization of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod.

THIS YEAR, the opportunity center sponsored the hike independent of the Walk for the League and its satellite agencies and all the money raised will fund center programs.

Mrs. Rena Trevor, hike chairman and treasurer of the center's board of directors, speculated two weeks ago that the march might raise as much as $20,000.

Although only about half the anticipated number of people marched, she said the pledge levels are higher this year and more money should be raised.

The "Hike for Your Neighbor" is the main local fund raising project of the center. In order to meet a $83,000 budget the center has to raise approximately $35,000 locally to supplement $48,000 from the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity.

Some local funds have been contributed by area municipalities on a per capita basis. That is, towns have contributed money based on the number of people that the opportunity center served last year in a particular town.

ORIGINALLY, the goal was to raise $25,000 in village contributions, but several towns have refused to participate. Only Arlington Heights ($3,100) and Hoffman Estates ($715) have appropriated money for the center. Palatine's village trustees established a fund to which about $400 has been contributed so far.

Buffalo Grove, Barrington, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows so far have refused to participate in funding the center.

In addition to the hike money and the village contributions, funds for the center come from churches and service organizations and clubs in the six townships the center serves.

Money from the hike is still being collected and can be turned in daily at the Northwest Opportunity Center office, 3411 Kirchoff Rd., Rolling Meadows. Hours are 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Pledge returns can also be mailed to the center. Checks should be made payable to the Northwest Opportunity Center.

May Proclaimed As Mental Health Month

May has been proclaimed Mental Health Month in Des Plaines by Mayor Herbert Behrel. The mayor urged all residents of the city "to make a sincere effort through understanding and support to share in the implementation of new and innovative measures which must be taken in order to fight this mental health crisis."

In a proclamation, the mayor also cited "interested community leaders and agencies (who) strive diligently to provide preventive mental health measures in order to fight the ever increasing mental health crisis that is facing this nation."

Behrel designated May 14-21 as Mental Health Week and proclaimed May 17 as Mental Health Day.

Arrest Pair On Stolen Property Transportation

A Des Plaines man and a Chicago lawyer were arrested in Chicago yesterday on charges of interstate transportation of stolen property when the FBI found the pair with stolen securities valued at $1.8 million.

Fiore Pennacchio, 40, of 9120 McArthur, Des Plaines, and Atty. Arnold Rosen, 58, of 830 DeWitt Pl., Chicago, were arrested late in the afternoon.

Special Agent Roy K. Moore of the FBI Chicago office said the securities were stolen from a bank messenger in New York City on April 4.

U.S. Magistrate James A. Balog released Pennacchio and Rosen each on $15,000 recognizance bonds and ordered them to appear for a hearing May 12.

The penalty for interstate transportation of stolen property carries a maximum sentence of 10 years' imprisonment or a $10,000 fine or both.

League Of Women Voters Keep Male Members Out

Sorry fellas. Better luck next time.

Men were refused membership in the League of Women Voters last week by delegates to the league's national convention in Atlanta, Georgia.

Men aren't ready for it, or the league isn't ready for them — these were two of the reasons mentioned at the five-day convention, according to Sue D'Hondt, of 359 Alles Ave., president of the Des Plaines League and a convention delegate.

However, men may now become associate, non-voting, members of the league by paying a $10 yearly membership fee, which will entitle them to attend meetings and help with league projects, Mrs. D'Hondt said.

Some of the 1972 league projects, according to decisions made at the convention, will include efforts to win equal rights for women and for American Indians. Special studies will be made on land-use policies and ways of coping with growing sewage problems, Mrs. D'Hondt said.

The league will continue to seek welfare reform, better housing, new educational and employment opportunities, congressional reform and controls over air and water pollution.

Convention delegates urged creation of normal diplomatic relations with the Peoples Republic of China. The league will also remain nonpartisan during elections, delegates decided.

THE DELEGATES were addressed by Georgia Gov. James Carter and Atlanta Mayor Samuel Massell. Gloria Steinem, women's rights activist, and Thomas Winship, editor of the "Boston Globe" newspaper, also spoke to the gathering.

Mrs. D'Hondt described the convention as exciting, and hectic, with "very open" discussions and work sessions.

During the next month, league members in Des Plaines will review convention activities to set up a local program for the next two years, Mrs. D'Hondt said.

In the past year, the Des Plaines League has campaigned for a study of low and moderate-income housing, and it has sponsored debates between political candidates. The league also helped Des Plaines City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach to urge voter registration of new residents and new voters.

The league is now negotiating with a local church for creation of a free dental clinic for poverty-stricken youngsters. The Cook County Health Department has promised to provide a dentist, if a rent-free office for him can be found.

Mrs. D'Hondt also said that the league's annual fund-raising campaign will begin soon to raise $1,000 for local league projects.

PTA Notes

Officers for the 1972-1973 school term will be installed by Paul Batdorf, a former Forest PTA president. They are president, Roland Zahn; first vice president, Chris Christ; second vice president, Mrs. Leroy Coscino; third vice president, Mrs. Roland Kirkpatrick; recording secretary, Mrs. John Perdue; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Sam Parla; and treasurer, Mrs. Robert Miller.

The program includes a display of the work the sixth grade classes have done this year. Everyone is urged to come early to view these displays.

Golden Agers To Hold Spring Fair May 20

The Golden Agers of the Des Plaines Park District will hold their annual spring handicraft fair Saturday, May 20, in the Rand Park fieldhouse, 2026 Miner St. The public is invited. Doors will be open from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

After two years of successful fairs, the crowd of customers will find shopping at Rand Park more convenient. Overflow crowds attended the fairs at West and South parks in the past.

In addition to the many craft projects to be sold, there will be a refreshment table where sandwiches, coffee, and cake will be on sale.

May is senior citizens' month and residents can honor the seniors with their presence on this special day, park officials said.

Density Request Before Zoning Board

The Des Plaines Zoning Board of Appeals will hear five cases May 23, including a request for a change to R-5 high density apartment zoning at 1279 Harding Ave.

The Harding Avenue property, currently for commercial (C-2) use, is 75 feet wide and 126 feet deep, according to the zoning board.

The board will also continue its hearing on a request for a change from commercial (C-1) to (R-4) apartment zoning to allow construction of a six-flat building at the southwest corner of Walter Street and First Avenue.

The zoning change is asked contingent on a variation that would reduce the required number of square feet per unit from 2,800 to 1,850. The hearing had been postponed March 14.

Also on the zoning board agenda is a request for rezoning from single-family residential to the commercial (C-2) category for property at 860 Rand Rd. The lot had been zoned for business (B-4) by the county before it was annexed to the city.

The board will also consider a request for a variation in the 55-foot frontage requirement to allow a house to be built on a 50 by 180-foot lot at 1683 Estes Ave.

Also scheduled to be heard is a request for a setback variation at 1846 Circle St. The variation is being asked because of a railroad easement fronting on the property, the zoning board said.

From The Library

Residents of Des Plaines celebrated National Library Week by consuming an estimated 1,000 servings of coffee and cookies or punch and cookies at the Des Plaines Public Library April 22.

The occasion was an open house sponsored by the library board and staff in observance of National Library Week, and in honor of newly appointed library director William J. Wiman.

Wiman joined the Des Plaines library Jan. 1, after serving as librarian in Freeport for seven years.

The open house gave the library patrons an opportunity to meet Wiman and discuss library questions with other members of the staff.

HAVE YOU been wondering what to do with those books cluttering up your house, too good to throw away but of no use to you? The sale will be held June 3, on the library lawn from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The proceeds of the sale will go to benefit the library.

Phyllis Johnson: Forest Principal

From The 'Big' School 'Cross The Field

by DOROTHY OLIVER

When Phyllis Johnson changed jobs, she packed up her belongings and moved across the field. She brought her papers and books, her shelves and pictures and an awesome reputation of having come from the "big" school.

The big school is Algonquin Junior High where Miss Johnson has worked since 1954. She began as an 8th grade language arts and social studies teacher, became English department chairman of District 62 10 years later and was appointed assistant principal of the largest of Des Plaines' three junior high schools two years later.

Three weeks ago Miss Johnson was appointed principal of Forest Elementary School, 1375 S. Fifth Ave., replacing Mrs. Dorothy Mackland, who passed away last month.

DURING THE 10 weeks prior to Mrs. Mackland's death Miss Johnson had been sharing her time between her duties as assistant principal and helping out with administrative duties at Forest. When the principal's job was offered to her, she asked for time to think.

"I had once before been offered the job as principal at Algonquin but didn't want it because of the responsibilities. But it was different at Forest. The responsibilities are of another kind, it's a nice size and the teachers are more independent," she said.

Once she accepted the position, she set about getting to know the students, the teachers and the parents. On her first day as principal Miss Johnson took the time to visit each classroom and introduce herself to the students.

"THE CHILDREN don't have any idea what type of person I am; they don't know what I'm going to do here. The teachers know each kid well. I believe the more you know them the better it is."

"Yesterday I sold lunch tickets because our secretary was sick and it was quite an experience. The kids stood in line and expected me to know who they were. I'm the only one at this point who doesn't know all their names," she smiled.

Miss Johnson's contact with her students will not end with names. She came from Algonquin with a reputation for being a tough disciplinarian and will be carrying her policies to Forest.

"I like teachers to get students who are in trouble in here right away so I can get to know them," she said. "The amount of discipline is much less at Forest than at a junior high, but even with minor trouble I want to talk to a student directly."

"I say things once and expect it to be done. I don't think it's fair for kids to go out into the world with a false set of standards. I want to impress upon them that if you say this, then you do this."

"When you have lines on the tennis court, you are either in the line or out of the line — there's no in between. It's the same here. Either you did something or you didn't. Poking someone a little bit is the same as poking them a lot," she continued.

"I don't want to see these kids fold in the big, tough world. I don't want to see them turn to a crutch like drugs. They have to see that what is, is."

Her concern is for each child in the school — their problems, their education and as people.

"IT DOESN'T SEEM to make any difference how old kids are or what grade they're in, they all respond to personal attention and care. If you treat them like people, they respond like people," she said.

As part of this philosophy Miss Johnson is working with her teachers toward more personalized education.

"The teachers here are full of enthusiasm and want to try some new things. We are using more individualized instruction right now. Each child works at what he can do at his own rate. We are removing the competition and nobody is left behind."

"This type of teaching recognizes that every student is a separate entity. They are allowed to choose what kinds of projects they want to work on. The IMC (instructional materials center) is used as a second classroom so that certain students can go there when they want to use tapes, books and equipment."

"WE HAVE ALL TYPES of special education available, with programs for every type of handicap. Attention is given to each individual."

"We have all of these programs so everybody fits. They don't have to come to our level — we'll go to theirs," she continued.

The key to individualized instruction is with the teachers, and, with years of experience behind her, teaching is an important part of Miss Johnson's life.

"I sincerely enjoy the classroom and I love to teach. In the past I've done quite a bit of supervision of teachers — especially new teachers. Here I want to get to know all of the teachers and work with them."

"Education is our job. As a teacher you have to be so much better these days. When you think of how much time a kid is in school, you realize the influence of a teacher is tremendous. That is why it is so essential that we have excellent teachers — and we do. If a teacher is a ball of fire that class is going to go."

"PARENTS CAN help us by just being interested. People are quick to put school down saying, 'School is what's wrong with my kid.' Often it is a lack of interest at home or too much interest, someone pushing their kid. We should try to strike a happy medium."

Miss Johnson is concerned over a trend she sees happening in education. The attitude of students towards their teachers and the educational system seems to have changed to the point where respect is being lost, she feels.

"We have always been telling them, yes, you have your rights. Now they are coming to us and saying, I have my rights, you can't tell me to do that. In a way I'm surprised they don't do more of it."

"I feel that if I don't have the right to tell them something, why are their parents paying my salary? They're right, they don't have to do some things, but they also don't have to get an 'A' in a course. The right they do have is to the best education possible."

BRINGING THE BEST education to her students will be keeping Miss Johnson busy in the days and weeks to follow. She has already received phone calls of congratulations and welcome from parents, shy greetings from students and support from her teachers.

She is replacing a woman of great competence who was much admired in the district and the community. Of this Miss Johnson is well aware.

"Before I started, someone told me I'd never be able to fill the shoes of Dorothy Mackland," she said. "I realize this and don't even want to try."

"Right now I have my own shoes to fill — and that is difficult enough."

THE KIDS AT FOREST School are finding out just what kind of person their principal, Phyllis Johnson, is. Miss Johnson, who has worked in various positions at Algonquin Junior High for the past 18 years, started the girl's softball program for the Des Plaines Park District — both the Pony Tail and Kup's Leagues. When she went into teaching, she was torn between English and physical education. English won out and, 21 years later, she did Forest School.

Emphasize Family, Religion In Personalized Ceremony

Maralee Sue Camphouse and Patrick A. Texidor wanted to emphasize their belief in the important role of family life and religion in marriage. They did so by writing their own wedding ceremony around their beliefs.

Maralee and Patrick became man and wife in a candlelight double ring ceremony April 15 at Evangelical Free Church of Arlington Heights.

Maralee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee L. Camphouse, 184 W. Dulles Road, Des Plaines. Patrick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julio Texido, 130 Kenilworth, Elk Grove Village.

At 4 p.m. Maralee came down the aisle in a floor-length Shanallure white gown. A simple design of seed pearls and gold trim decorated the lace that formed a bib effect on the bodice and ran in three vertical lines down the A-line skirt. Her three-tiered, elbow-length veil was held by a Camelot crown trimmed in lace to match the gown. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and white stephanotis on a white Bible.

SUSAN J. PETERS, Arlington Heights, was maid of honor and bridesmaids included Marianne Hall and Mrs. Susan Schnell, both of Des Plaines; Chris Wiebe, Elk Grove; and Elaine and Sylvia Texidor, sisters of the groom.

The attendants wore aqua Juliet styled dresses with white lace trim on the bodice and sleeves and they carried colonial bouquets of blue carnations with white baby's breath.

Attending the groom were Robert Texidor, his twin brother, as best man and ushers Rick Murnane and Eric Dawson, Elk Grove; Robert DePrat, Hoffman Estates; and Jim and Chuck Camphouse, brothers of the bride.

Seven-year-old Lynn Texidor, a cousin of the groom from Lincolnwood, was flower girl in a dress identical to the older attendants. She carried a basket of miniature aqua carnations and dropped rose petals on the floor before the bride.

TED CAMPHOUSE, 8-year-old cousin of the bride from Evergreen Park, was ring bearer.

A dinner reception for 175 guests was held following the ceremony at the Brasserie Restaurant, Arlington Heights. Afterwards the couple left for a week's honeymoon at Lake of the Ozarks. Maralee is a 1969 graduate of Elk Grove High School and was a secretary with Universal Oil Products, Des Plaines. Patrick also graduated from Elk Grove High in '69 and is in his junior year at Northern Illinois University. He is currently employed with School District 300 in Carbondale, Ill., and has taken his bride there to live.

Lead Poisoning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Plumbism — lead poisoning — often results when children eat paint chips peeling off walls and ceilings of dilapidated housing. Sometimes children get plumbism when they chew on toys covered with a lead-based paint. Plumbism can cause brain damage and death. To prevent it, Uncle Sam's use with regulations prohibiting the use of lead-based paints in residential structures that are wholly or partially financed by the Federal government.

Dear Dorothy: Is there a certain technique involved in making individual meringues so that they come off the pan without breaking apart?

—Alma Gardner

Line the pan with baking paper or aluminum foil, and when the meringues are done it's easy to pick up the paper or foil and peel off the meringues.

There's nothing like giving advice and then forgetting to follow it yourself. Having guests in for dinner, I decided to use the credenza as the bar. Without giving it a second thought, I put a plastic bridge cloth on the server, then added trays of glasses and bottles. Cleaning up the next day, I was struck dumb by the mark on the wood. Had always wanted to try the mayonnaise bit, so rubbed it on generously and left it until the next day. On wiping it off, found the top looked fine. Fortunately, there was enough polish on the wood for this treatment to work. But what a stupid thing to do!

Dear Dorothy: Here's a pack rat trick

you might try. When a bar of soap gets thin, I soap it and wrap tightly in a wet washcloth with another bar of soap and press together. This can go on and on — as you can press two or three thin pieces together.

—Mrs. A.F.R.

Dear Dorothy: I know you're going to find this hard to believe, but when you turn my ingenious husband loose with a safety pin, all manner of wonders happen. Driving into the country, the fan belt of the car suddenly went pfft. Jim stopped the car, took a look, stroked his chin and asked if I had a safety pin. I did and he did some tricky splicing. Not only did it work, but — and this is the clincher — it was still holding when we traded in the car!

Maine Claims 3 State Titles

With the start of the Maine East District Tournament, the teams are starting the long road to the state tourney in Poon.

Maine High School finished second in the state in 1948 and won the state tournament in 1968 and 1969 under Maine West's current head coach Al Carstens.

With Carstens at the helm, Maine West won the state championship in 1963.

The statewide tournament is open for anybody to win. In 1969, York had a 2-14 record going into the tourney and the Ducks went on to win the state cham-

A Look At The Owners In Baseball

Diamonds Are Businessman's Best Friend

by IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK (NEA) — Some 25 years ago, when owner Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers signed Jackie Robinson as the first black man in organized baseball, a vote was called by the 16 baseball club owners. Was there a future for the black man in big-league baseball? Fifteen of the owners voted "No!"

Prologue and epilogue to the spirit, acumen, foresight, altruism and guts of the bulk of baseball owners.

It was a typical case of the owners trying to have their apple pie and eat it, too. While fanning the notion that baseball was "The American Pastime" and symbolized democracy in action, the owners still rejected the concept that all men are created equal.

In fact, the owners, almost since the beginning of professional baseball, have treated the players as hirelings to be manipulated at will and have held the fans in high-handed contempt.

Owners such as Charles Finley, Bob Short, the late Lou Perini and Bill Bartholomay have appealed, with tambourine in hand, to local fans' patriotism. They ask for team support and never mind rising ticket prices. Then with bleats of creeping bankruptcy, these owners sink on to ever-greener outfields in other sucker cities.

Meanwhile, under a 1922 Supreme Court ruling that put baseball outside the pale of antitrust rulings, the owners have cried "Sport, sport," contending that baseball is not a business.

Nothing new. In his excellent history, "Baseball: The Golden Age," Dr. Harold Seymour quotes two owners in 1919:

President W. F. Baker of the Phillies, on the threatened strike of players for better pay and working conditions: "Baseball is a sport, and the same conditions cannot be applied as are resorted to by labor unions in other lines."

Yankee owner Col. Tillinghast Huston, in a secret meeting with owners to place a ceiling on players' salaries: "The players can sign at the salaries offered or not at all . . . (The New York club will now be placed) on a strictly business basis."

"The club owners," wrote Seymour, "had long since unionized and now had one of the strongest organizations in the country."

"The owners," said Seymour recently, "have always wanted to have it both ways."

"Today, for example, they tell us how baseball attendance is greater than ever and still growing, but they cry poor mouth at the same time."

"They say that 13 of the 24 clubs are losing money. That's what they tell us. But they refuse to show their books. Even if they did, though, it might not make much sense. You can do all kinds of things with accounting."

"The clubs now, for instance, list 20

Warriors 19th At Chevy Chase

Maine West finished in a tie for 19th place in the 25-team Chevy Chase Golf Tournament Saturday. The tourney was abbreviated by rain after the Warrior golfers had completed 15 holes.

Glenbrook North won the meet with 268. Deerfield was second with 272, Palatine third with 273, Prospect fourth with 278 and St. Viator and Wheeling were tied for fifth with 279.

Arlington had 280, Barrington and Highland Park 282, North Chicago 283, Lake Forest 284, Crystal Lake, Conant and New Trier West 285, Glenbrook South 287, New Trier East 288, Maine South 289, Hersey 291, Maine West and Mundelein 294, Forest View 296, Elk Grove 299, Fremd 300, Grayslake 306 and Libertyville 308.

For Maine West at the end of 15 holes, Paul Witkay, Glen Dalbke and Tom Grueter had 73's, Jeff Potter a 75 and Art Serbin an 88.

Far for the first 15 holes was 60.

The Warriors will meet Maine North in a Central Suburban League meet Thursday at 4 p.m.

per cent of their income to operations — which includes salaries. But they tend to lump their own salaries and other executives' salaries into that figure. And they also have generous expense accounts and provide themselves with various "operating expenses" like automobiles for their private use."

Seymour questions the owners' contention that many teams "perennially lose money." "These are multi-millionaires, big businessmen who own teams," he said. "You can't stay in business year after year and lose money. For example, CBS, which owns the Yankees, August Busch, who owns the Anheuser-Busch breweries, and Finley, a great insurance magnet, use their teams as tax write-offs."

Bill Veeck, once owner of the Indians, White Sox and St. Louis Browns, agrees. In his book, "The Hustler's Handbook," he details the complicated method in which rich businessmen buy ball clubs on behalf of a corporate empire and then "use the depreciation write-off (of players) on total corporate profits even if the ball club itself hasn't made enough profit to cover it."

And of course, the ramifications for a businessman-baseball owner are incalculable in a profit-and-loss statement. As Short, owner of the Washington Senators-Texas Rangers, has said, "Sports-page identification helps my trucking business so much that (my ball club will be worth the price (he paid $9 million for it in 1969) if they just manage to break even."

And it's rather easy to at least break even, especially when shifts of franchises and, then, the profitable spiraling of selling clubs from one wealthy conglomerate owner to another can, under tax loopholes, duck the Internal Revenue Service.

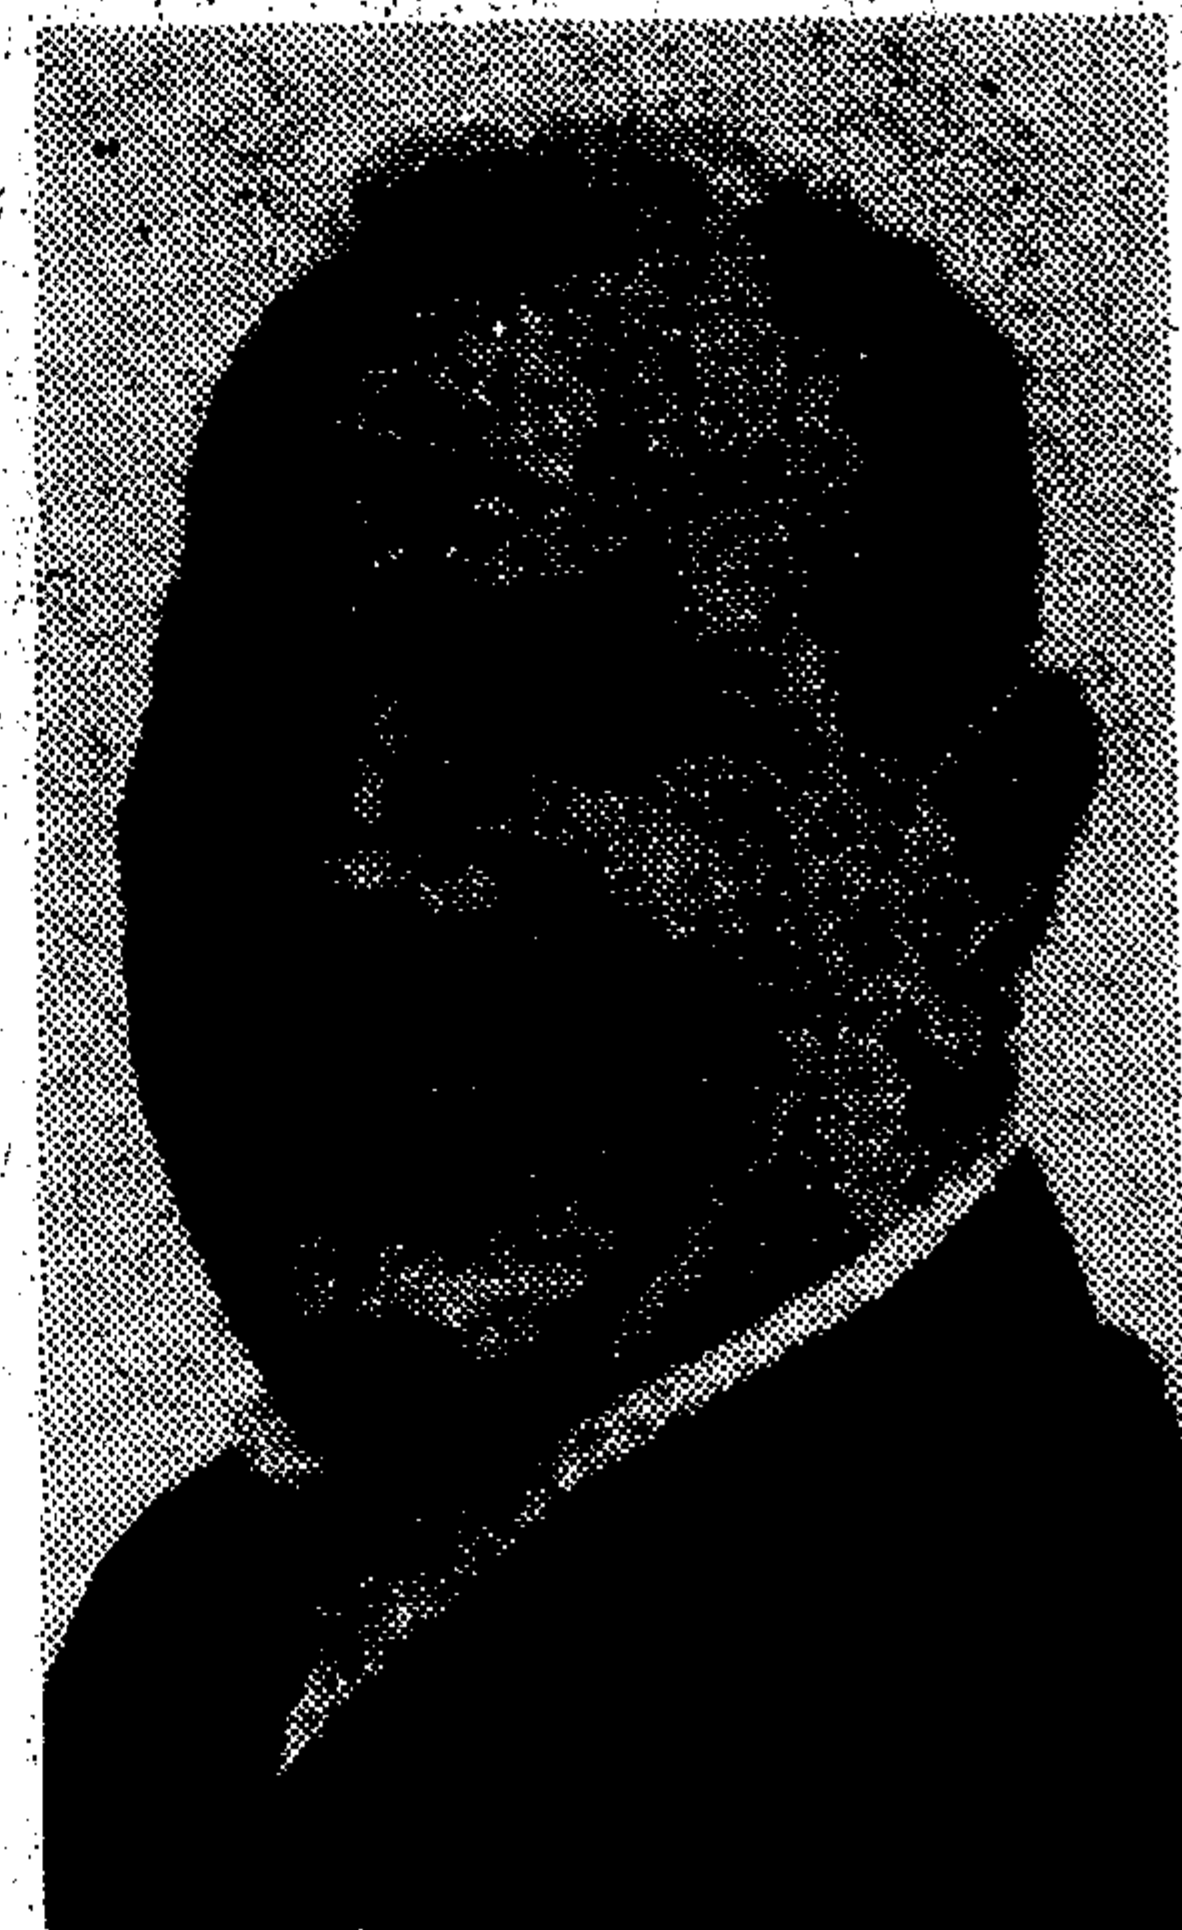

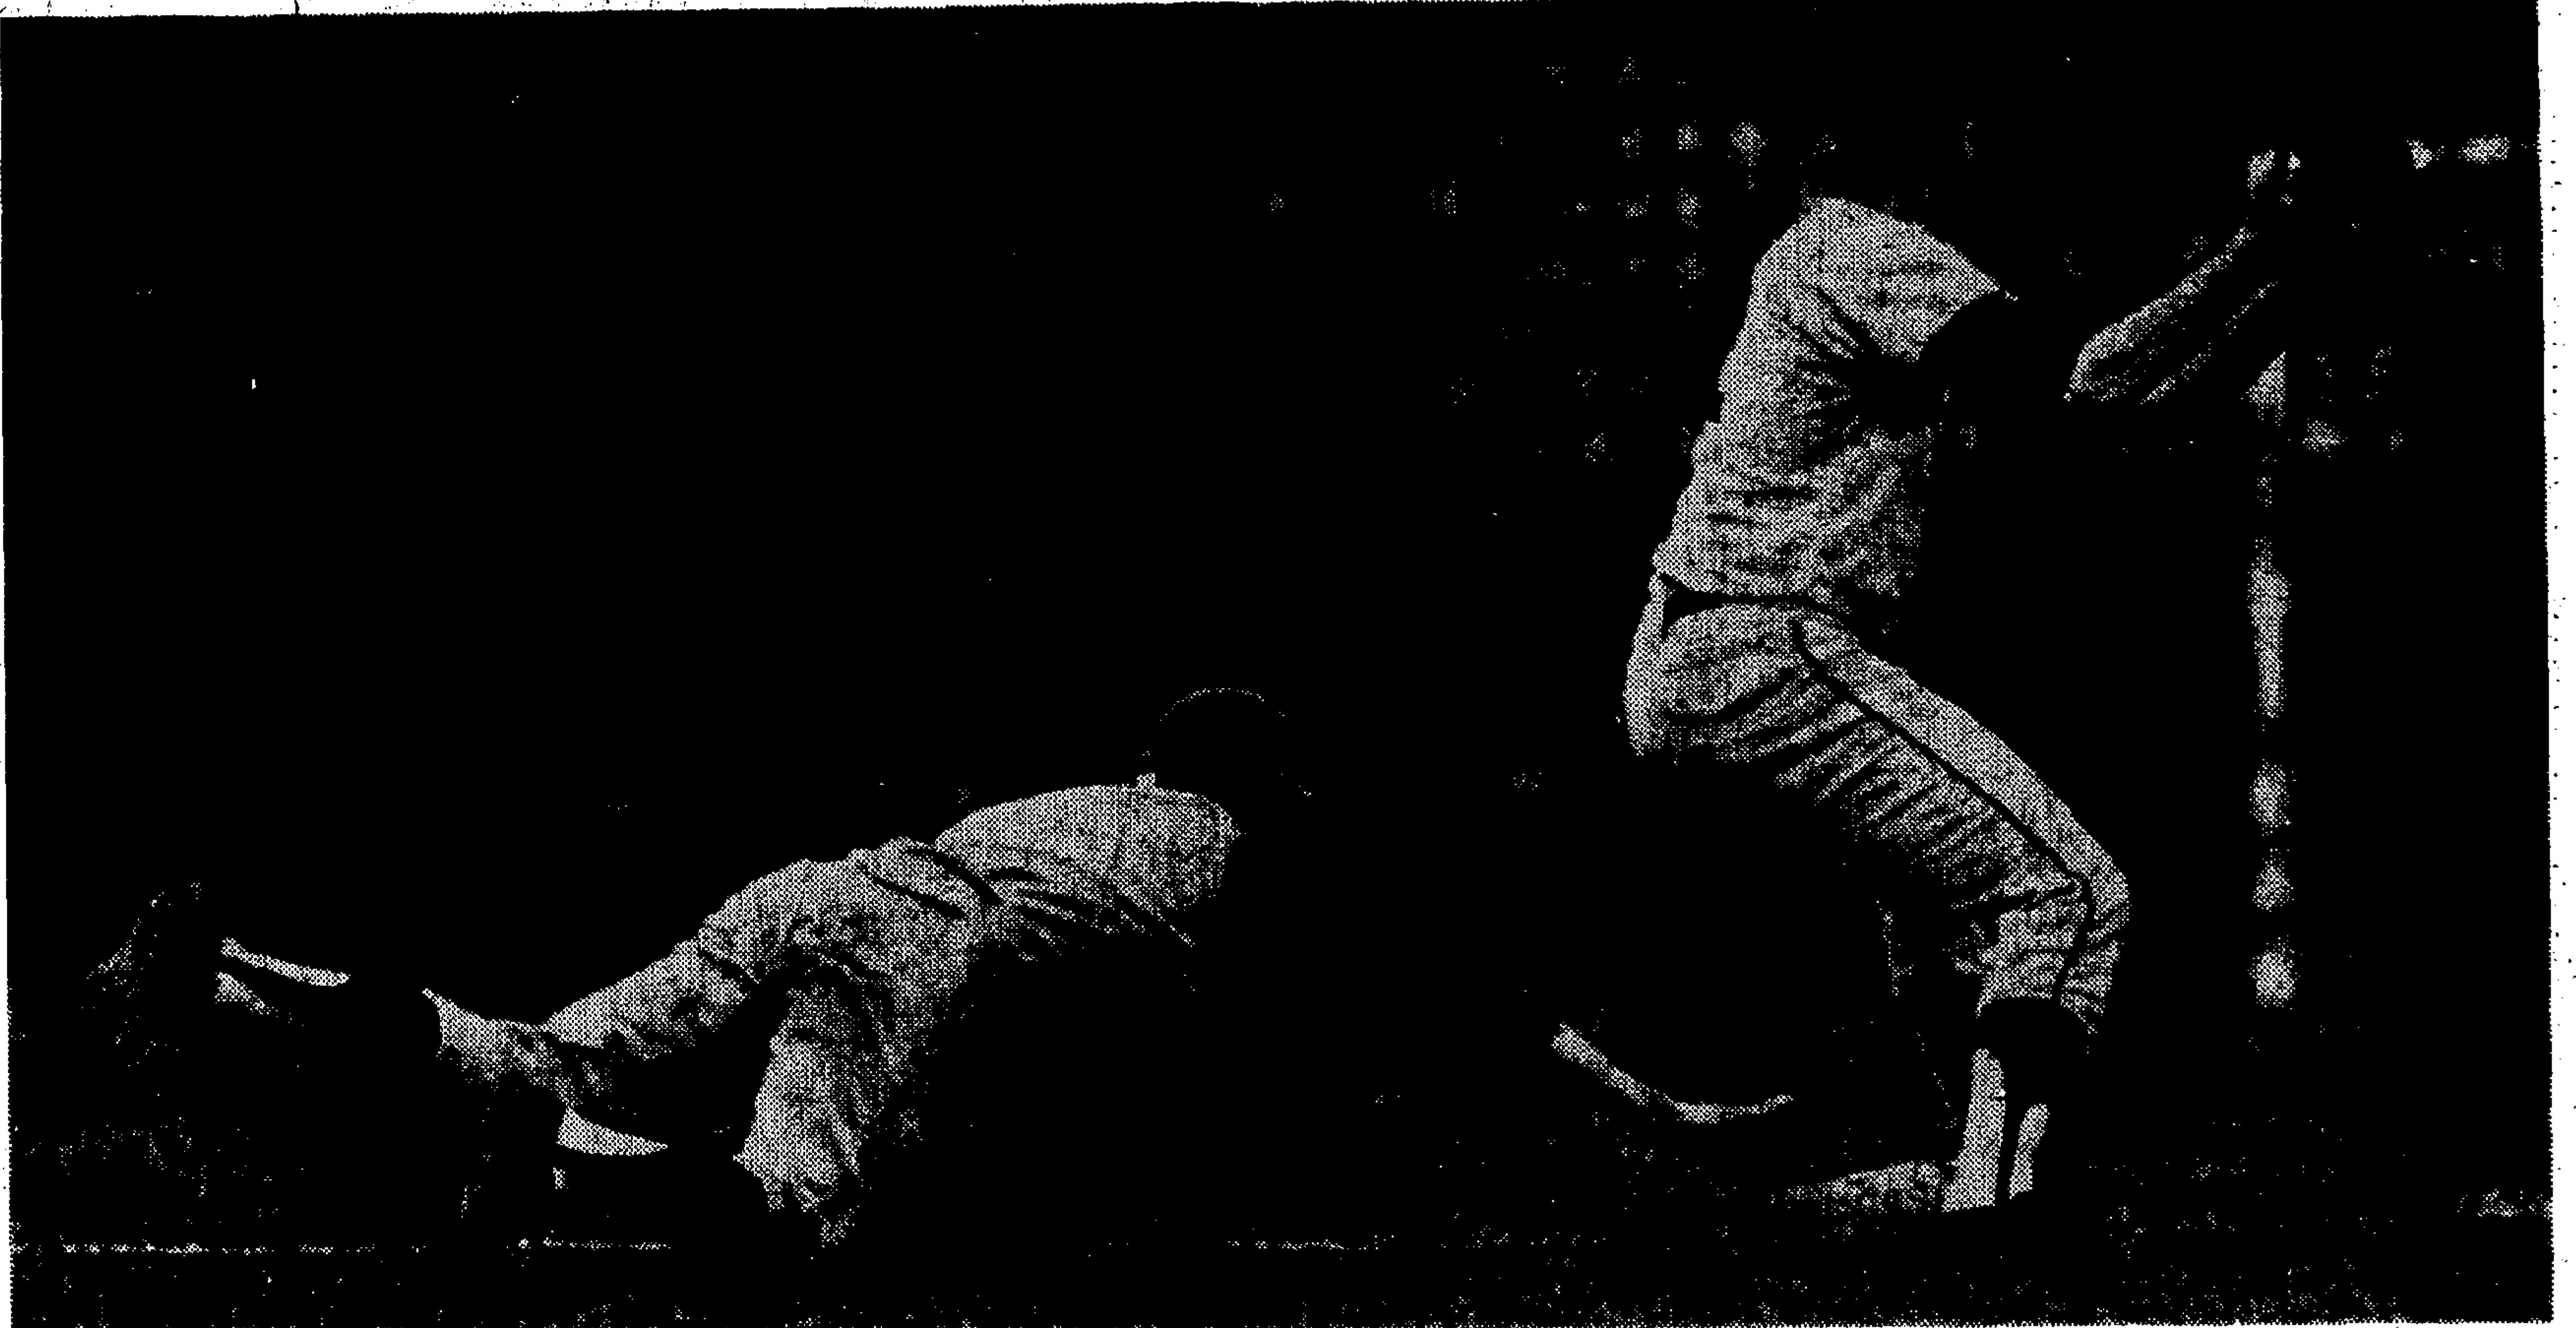

"It is quite possible for a big-league club to go on forever without ever paying any income tax," said Bill Veeck. "The owners play the 'Star-Spangled Banner' before every game. You want them to pay income taxes, too?"
